Chapter 1 I want to fight the landlord

Section 1: Playing small poker cards brings great wisdom

♣Poker has a profound meaning, I will get to know him

Playing cards are the epitome of the calendar. Among the 54 cards, 52 are real cards, representing the 52 weeks in a year, and two are secondary cards. The big king represents the sun and the small king represents the moon. The four seasons of the year, spring, summer, autumn and winter, are represented by "black and red plum squares" respectively: Spade represents spring, symbolizing peace; Heart represents summer, symbolizing love;

Diamond represents autumn, symbolizing wealth; Club represents winter, symbolizing happiness. Among them, hearts and diamonds also represent day, and spades and clubs represent night.

Each quarter is 13 weeks, and there are exactly 13 cards of each suit in the playing cards; each quarter is 91 days, and the points of the 13 cards add up to exactly 91 points; the points of the four suits are added up, and then the little king's point is added, which equals 365 points, which is exactly the number of days in a year. If the king's point is added, it is 366 points, which happens to be the number of days in a leap year.

There are 12 JQK cards in the playing cards, which not only represents the 12 months in a year, but also shows that the sun passes through 12 constellations in a year.

❁What other meanings do the four suits of playing cards have?

There are four suits of playing cards: spades, diamonds, clubs and hearts. People of various countries give it different meanings based on their national culture. The French understand the four suits as spears, squares, lilac leaves, and hearts; the Germans understand the four suits as leaves, bells, acorns, and hearts; the Italians understand the four suits as swords, coins, crutches, and goblets; the Swiss understand the four suits as acorns, bells, flowers, and shields; and the British understand the four suits as shovels, diamonds, clovers, and hearts.

Section 2 I want to learn to fight the landlords

❁The origin of Landlord Fighting

Doudizhu originated in the Wuhan area of Hubei Province. It was adapted by professional poker experts and their companions based on the popular local poker game "Run Fast". There was a group of "fast running" fans who often played "fast running" with three people when there were not enough people. The people in their circle were called "two against one". The original "Two vs. One" game had a total of 54 cards. Each player was dealt 18 cards, leaving no hole cards. One player randomly drew a card from the other two players, and the player who was drawn dealt with the player who drew the card. This gradually evolved into the game of "Fight the Landlord". In 1995, "Two versus One" was officially named "Fighting Landlords" and is now popular all over the country and on the Internet.

❁How to play Landlords

A deck of 54 cards originally represented a family. The big king and the little king were the commanders, commanding the four armies. After being divided into three, it was the Three Kingdoms War. Each was its own master and covered each other's breakout (the big one led the small one). The side that completed the evacuation task first won. That is to say, three people played a deck of cards, with the landlord on one side and the other two on the other side. The two sides fought, and the side that ran out of cards first won.

1. Dealing cards

There are 54 cards in a deck, 17 for each person, and 3 hole cards. Players cannot look at the hole cards before determining the landlord.

2. Bid

The bidding is conducted in turn according to the west, south and east positions, and each person can only bid once. When bidding, you can choose "no bidding", "1 point", "2 points", or "3 points". If the last bidder wants to grab the land owner, he can only bid a higher score than the previous player. After the bidding is over, the player with the highest bid will be the landlord; if a player bids "3 points", then that player will be the landlord; if none of the three bids, the cards will be re-dealt and the bidding right will be transferred.

3. The first player to bid

The player in the "West" direction starts bidding, and then the players in the direction of West, South, and East bid in order.

4. Play cards

The landowner got three trump cards and showed them to the other two farmers. The landlord has the right to play cards first, and then in counter-clockwise order. Players can choose "not to play" or play a higher card than the previous player. If a player runs out of cards first, the game ends.

5. Card type

Rocket: The double king (big king and small king), the biggest card.

Bomb: Four cards of the same value. (For example: four 7s)

Single card: a single card. (eg: 5 hearts)

Pair of cards: Two cards with the same value. (For example: 4 clubs + 4 diamonds)

Three cards: Three cards with the same value. (eg: three J)

Three with one: three cards with the same value + a single card or a pair of cards. (For example: 333+6 or 444+99)

Straight: Five or more consecutive single cards, excluding 2 points and double kings. (such as: 45678 or 78910JQK)

Connected Pair: Three or more consecutive pairs of cards, excluding 2 points and double kings. (eg: 334455 or 7788991010JJ)

Airplane: Two or more consecutive three cards, excluding 2 points and double kings. (For example: 333444 or 555666777888)

Airplane with wings: Airplane + the same number of single cards (or the same number of pairs of cards). (For example: 444555+7+9 or 333444555+77+99+JJ)

Four with two: four cards + two odd or two pairs (note: four with two is not a bomb).

(For example: 5555+3+8 or 4444+55+77)

6. The size of the card type

Rocket is the biggest and you can play any other card.

Bombs are smaller than rockets and larger than other cards. The size of the bomb is proportional to the value of the card.

Except for rockets and bombs, other cards must be of the same type and have the same total number to compare.

Single cards are ranked according to their numerical value, in order: King>Xiaowang>2>A>K>Q>J>10>9>8>7>6>5>4>3, regardless of suit.

Pairs of cards and three cards are compared numerically.

Straights are compared based on the value of the highest card.

The plane has wings and four has two. According to the plane and four parts, the cards it carries do not affect the size.

7. Determination of victory or defeat

The game ends after any family has played out their cards. If the landlord plays out his cards first, the landlord wins, otherwise the farmer wins.

❀Landlord terminology

Spring (Closed): The farmer does not play a single card, and the landlord wins.

Anti-spring (reverse the door): The landlords only played one hand of cards, and the peasants have won.

Order (even): When a player has only one (or two) cards left in his hand, he needs to declare "order (even)".

Door panel: The landlord's home, which plays a defensive role.

Alliance: Farmers become alliances among themselves.

Card type: Landlords must be able to look at the card type. When a deck of cards is dealt to the hand, regardless of farmers or landlords, first look at their own cards, so that they can roughly know what cards may be outside.

Card right: the right to play cards.

❀Factors for winning in Landlords

Landlord Dou is a kind of intellectual game that emphasizes cooperation, but when it comes to victory or defeat, it is not possible to win completely with top-notch personal skills. Only when "the right time, the right location, and the right people" are all in place, can we achieve good results!

Tianshi mainly means that you have sufficient time to play, and others should also have sufficient time, otherwise people's hearts will be unstable and mood swings will not be dealt with well.

Geographical advantage mainly refers to your position among the three. The weak superior family and the strong inferior family are your best positions. A strong superior family will destroy your chance of becoming a landlord, and a weak inferior family will be unable to guard the gate. Of course, a good game environment is also conducive to your performance.

Renhe mainly refers to the three players. The two of them should not be accomplices. There should be no talkative or gesticulating people around. Of course, you should also be happy physically and mentally!

In fact, a good mentality is the only way to win. Keep a peaceful mind and don't argue with your poker friends. Even if you make a mistake, don't blame the other party. Treating victory or defeat with an optimistic attitude, using cards to make friends and exchange card skills is the real purpose.

Chapter 2 I want to be a landlord

斗地主如同指挥千军万马作战，局势复杂多变，牌型组合变幻无穷，这就是斗地主游戏的魅力所在。

"Call the landlord", "rob the landlord", "rob the landlord"... Many friends always wanted to be the landlord when they first started playing cards. The landlord is not only exciting, but also highly profitable. But benefits and risks coexist, think about it yourself, and let the cards speak for themselves!

Section 1: Analysis of cards and bidding

Bidding is the key to the success or failure of a poker game. All players hope that they will get a good hand, call the landlord, and win happily. But what kind of cards are considered good and can be called Landlord? If you want to win the game, bidding is a very critical step. Make a decision by considering the combination of card feel + card type + card strength.

Card sense is the player's first feeling. It is a high-level manifestation of logic. It is a subconscious thing formed through repeated summarization and analysis and cultivation in the process of playing cards. Card sense sometimes trumps card strength and technology, and runs through the entire process of bidding, opening cards, and even playing cards. It can be said that card sense is an indispensable factor in the process of playing cards.

The card type is scratched

Single (single card): the most basic and least efficient card type

Even (pair or connected pair): basic card type

Three (three belts): high-efficiency card type

Four (Bomb): The most powerful card type. Generally, the probability of one explosion is about 50%, and the probability of two explosions is about 10%.

Five (straight): high-efficiency card type

After the player gets the cards, he must first look at the card structure. How many hands can the 17 cards be played through? The faster the card structure is completed, the better.

❁ Principle of card type relationship

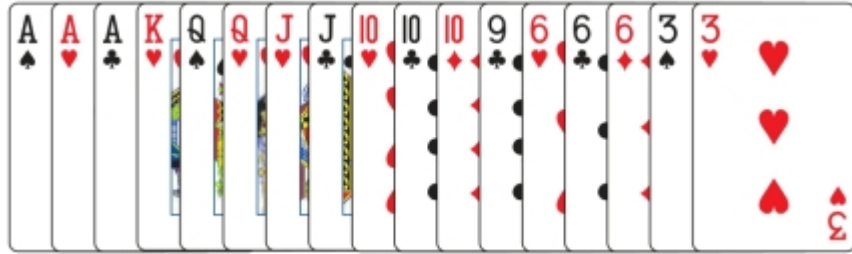

1. The rule of the same card type: The three card types tend to be consistent. For example, if you have more three-band card types in your hand, there is a greater chance that others have more three-band card types.

For example

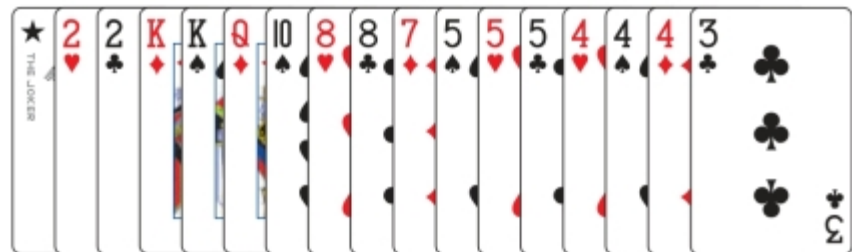

Trump card:

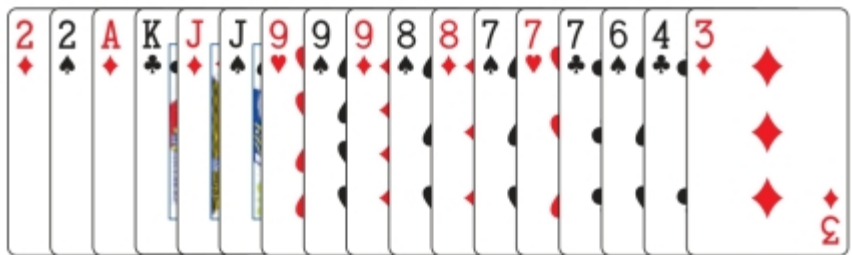

West:

South:

East:

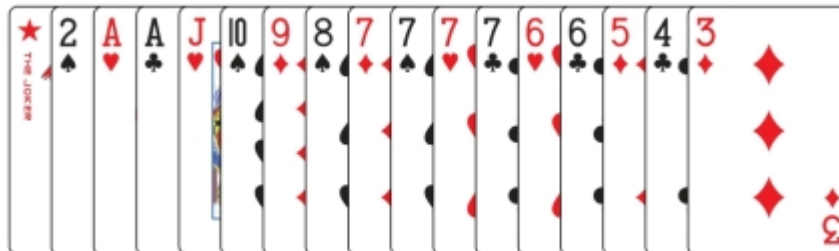

Analysis: Player West has three three-bands of A, 10, and 6, Player South has planes of 4 and 5, and Player East also has two three-bands. This deck of cards fully embodies the law of the same direction of card types.

2. Card type conversion rules: a double can be split into two singles (used as a big single to control the card or used to form a straight), a three can be split into a pair and a single card (used to form a straight), a four can be split into a triple and a single card (used to form a straight), a straight can be split into five single cards (used to prevent the opponent from slipping away small cards). During the process of playing cards, players need to be flexible and sometimes need to deliberately split the cards to destroy the opponent's card type and create opportunities for themselves or their allies to play cards.

For example

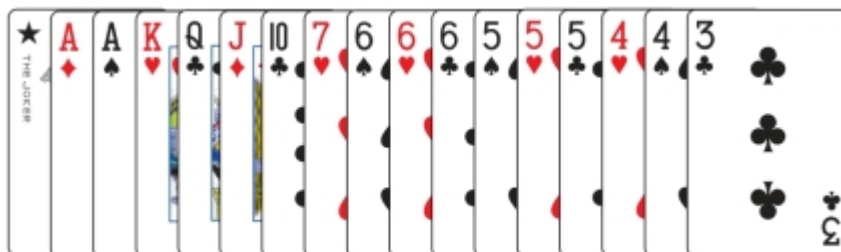

Farmer:

Analysis: If you are positioned as a runner among farmers, in order to successfully win the game, you need to change the card type. Split the four 7's and convert them into a three-band 777+6 and a straight card 345678910J. If the alliance's cards are stronger and the card type is more complete, there is no need to rush to split the cards. At the critical moment, the 7's will be used to suppress the landlord and cover the victory of the allies in order to strive for greater profits.

For example

Farmer:

Analysis: The card pattern seems to be neat, but no matter whether a single card or a pair of cards is played, the landlord will ruthlessly suppress it and never get the right to the card. If the landlord has a lot of single cards in his hand and keeps playing single cards, if he can bring out two small single cards in his hand, he can win. At this time, as a farmer from the landlord's family, he must decisively open the straight of 10JQKA and top the cards from big to small.

3. Principle of card combination: The minimum number of rounds of card play is the most reasonable combination in theory. In order to cope with various changes during the game, you will be forced to disrupt the formation, but you cannot be led by others. You should try to keep the card shape as much as possible. If the cards are useless (those who neither block the cards nor suppress the cards), it is better not to break them (except when you need to pass the cards), so as to retain the changes in the card shape and avoid playing dead cards.

For example

Farmer:

Analysis: The card pattern is quite chaotic, the landlord plays a pair of 1010, the farmer plays a QQ control card, and the landlord KK suppresses it. If the landlord makes another straight 8910JQ, the farmers will be powerless. This pair of QQ's play was very unreasonable. They neither got the right to win the card, but also destroyed the straight hand pattern, and did not play a key suppressive role. Therefore, in the process of playing cards, you must judge the situation, retain the changes in card types, and avoid playing dead cards.

The strength of the cards

Basic card strength division:

Big: King, 2, A. For big cards, you must pay attention to the timing of suppression.

Center: K, Q, J, 10, the backbone, the focus of blocking cards.

Small: 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. For small card point combinations, we should consider which card type combination is more dominant. The focus of card counting should be on how to complete the small card.

Comprehensive card strength division:

Big + Straight: Strong card strength, neat card pattern, decisive attack, strong suppression.

For example

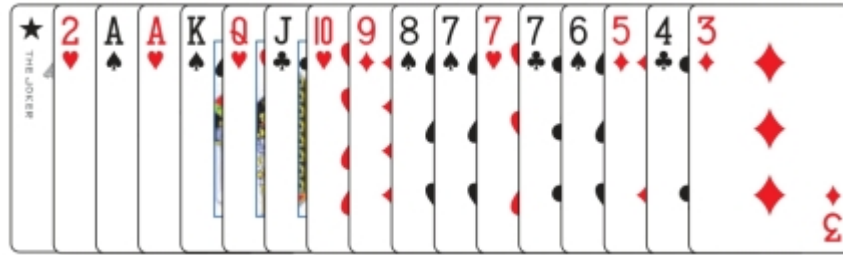

Big or straight: The outcome is uncertain, and the one with the upper hand wins. You must wait appropriately (patience) to pass the useless cards in your hand.

For example

The card types are messy, and the big cards have more points.

The card strength is average and the card shape is neat.

Not big + not smooth: The cards are of poor strength and type, and can be used as suspects or to charge into battle to attract firepower.

For example

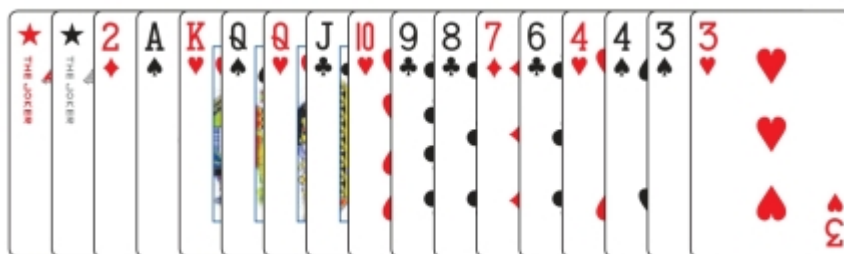

♣Principles of bidding

Bidding is the beginning of the Landlord game. Being conservative in bidding will lose many opportunities to win in one fell swoop, while bidding aggressively will lead to frustration. Therefore, it is necessary to comprehensively consider card feel + card type + card strength, and accumulate and summarize experience through long-term competitions.

1. Experience bidding method

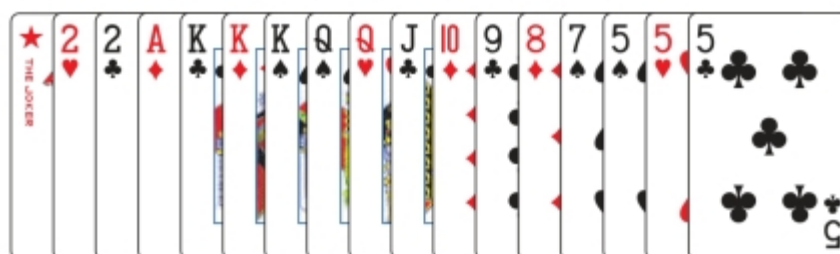

Double King Single 2, if the single card is within three, and the small pair is within three pairs, you can bid 3 points

For example

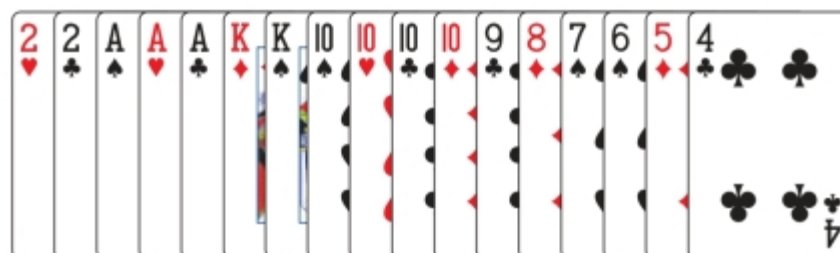

The king pairs 2 single aces, and the small king pairs 2 pairs ace. The cards are relatively neat and can be bid for 3 points.

For example

If you explode against 2 and the cards are relatively straight, you have to bid 3 points.

For example

Analysis: The card structure is neat, and the landlord is called at 3 points. In the process of playing cards, it is judged that if the king and the king are separated, they can explode at the right time to obtain the card rights; if the king and the king are together, they can lure the opponent to play rockets and win high scores while straightening out the cards.

2 or more bombs can be awarded 3 points.

For example

Analysis: There are Q and 7 in the hand, which means that the probability of the cards in the hands of the other two players becoming a straight is very small, and their single cards and pairs can be passed relatively smoothly, so they can bid 3 points. However, the cards in your hand have many unseen points, and the probability of them becoming bombs is very high, so you must be cautious when playing cards.

If there are three 2s and a pair of aces, you can also bid.

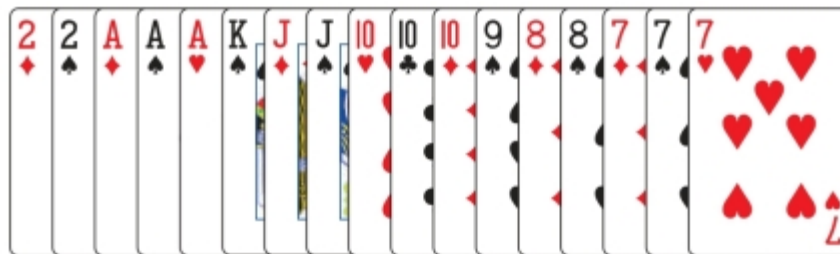

For example

Analysis: The cards are relatively neat and can be bid for 3 points. There is no king in the card, which means that the opponent may have a rocket. At this time, the hole card becomes very important, and we hope to be able to add a bomb or a king. If there is no king in the hole card, then you must keep a pair of 2 and play it at the end, otherwise you will lose more and win less.

In other cases: the cards are very neat and the hole card will not increase the burden. You can also consider calling the landlord. For example, if there are 3 or 4 triple belts, the hole card has a high probability of turning into a bomb; or if you have an airplane in your hand, such as 444555, if you still have 33 or 66, if you add a 3 or 6 in the hole card, you can form a larger airplane, which is also very powerful!

For example

Analysis: There are three bands of 7, 10, and A in the hand, and the other two players only have a 7 and a 10. It can be judged that their card types are relatively chaotic and have more small card points, so they can boldly bid 3 points.

2. Accurate bidding method

Some poker players have summarized the precise bidding method, and the quantitative analysis of the card strength of the main cards in Landlords is as follows: King has 4 card points, Xiao Wang has 3 card points, 2 has 2 card points, and A has 1 card point. Only when the card point is at least 9 points can you have the strength to bid. However, Doudizhu is different from other card games in that the cards are unpredictable and the card types can be combined randomly. If the routine is fixed, it will definitely affect the growth of the players. Therefore, the accurate bidding method can only be used as one of the references for Doudizhu bidding.

All in all, the key points of bidding in Doudizhu are: firstly, whether the card feels good (because there are three unpredictable hole cards); secondly, whether the card point is large (the card strength is strong enough); thirdly, whether the card shape is uniform (the card shape is neat and scattered with less spread). The comprehensive judgment is called points: 1 point, 2 points, 3 points.

❀Bidding skills

1. Make use of bidding position

The first person to bid has the initiative completely in his own hands and decides whether to bid based on the bidding principles.

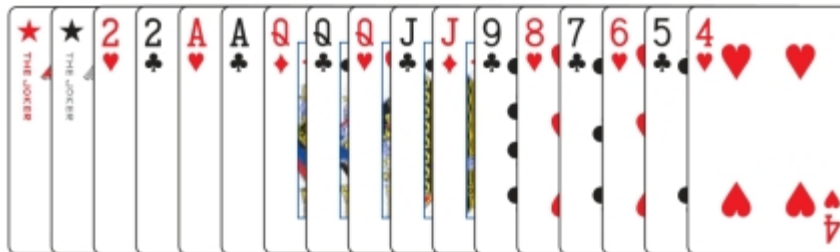

The second position bid, the least ideal position among the three, requires comprehensive judgment. The player in front bids for 2 points, has a king in his hand, or has a neat card pattern, or there may be a bomb. If your hand is very strong, just bid 3 points; if your hand is average and it is 2 points, then you have to consider the winning and losing points and your own skill level. If you are strong, bid, and if you are weak, give up. Bidding 1 point in the front position is usually a strategy used by the player with higher points to prevent losing the game, or by the player with stronger cards to dig a hole for the landlord, leaving the pressure to the players in the lower position. At this time, we must pay more attention to the bidding, study the situation on the field, and make a comprehensive judgment. If you have more high-card points but a lot of unseen cards, you can consider bidding for 2 points.

For example

Analysis: The card pattern seems neat, but there are many unseen cards in the hand. If the player in front bids 2 points, it should be considered that there may be a bomb in his hand and the card strength is not weak. If you get three trump cards, the number of cards in your hand may increase, and it is unlikely that the landlord will win, so it is better to choose Landlord Fight.

For example

Analysis: The previous player bid 1 point, and he has full strength, so he decisively bids 3 points.

When bidding in position 3, the hand strength of the two players can be preliminarily determined based on the bidding situation of the first two players, and the bidding value can be determined or the player can choose to give up.

2. Understand player style

Understand the player's style and determine the bidding strategy. Players can be roughly divided into three types based on their styles: stable, conservative, and aggressive. Aggressive poker players like to play for their hole cards. As long as the cards are slightly better, they will call the landlord. If they don't play, it means that they really don't have any good cards in their hands. Conservative poker players will not play for hole cards, and they will not call the landlord if they are not fully sure of the cards in their hands. Steady players have strong overall abilities, higher scoring ability and higher winning rate. According to the player's style, judge the distribution of card strength and determine the bidding strategy.

3. Pay attention to the bidding speed

Pay attention to the details, and you can also judge the distribution of card power through the speed of bidding. Quick bidding and decisive bidding indicate strong strength, and it is not easy to unseat the landlord.

4. Tactical bidding

During the game, if you are leading in points, even if you hold a card with 3 points, you may still bid 1 point to prevent the game from losing; if other players bid the landlord, you can also increase your points by cooperating with another farmer to win.

When a certain card has a strong hand and calls the landlord to win one after another, other players can play the landlord to interrupt the continuation of their luck. This is a disruptive balancing technique.

When your own card sense and card luck are both good, even if the card strength in your hand is insufficient and the card shape is relatively good, you can choose to be the local host to attack your opponent's psychology. If the opponent has a good hand and fails to call the landlord, the mentality can easily become unbalanced.

5. Avoid playing trump cards

Many poker players like to call the landlord, hoping that the hole card will be a perfect match for the cards in their hand, and put the winning chips on the hole card.

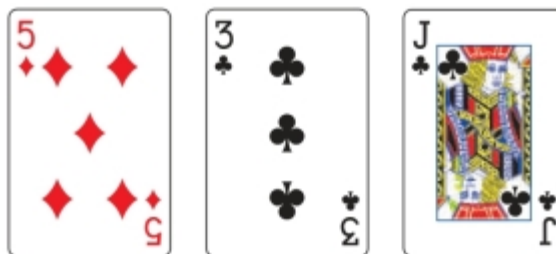

Many players have cards in their hands that have a lot of big points, such as breaking 7 or breaking 10. They expect the hole cards to be a perfect match, but they are often more disappointed than expected. Key cards are broken, there are too many single cards, and ultimately they end in failure. Therefore, the landlord is told not to play with the hole cards.

Three hole cards, for the landlord, are sometimes an advantage and sometimes a disadvantage. If it is repaired, it will be perfect; if it is not repaired, it will become a burden. Therefore, if the cards in your hand have a neat shape and average card strength, you should bid carefully and avoid superfluous information.

For example

Trump card:

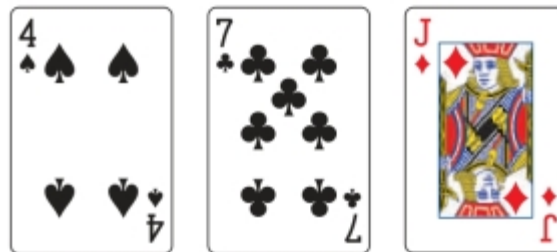

Analysis: I have the king 222AA in my hand, and I have a lot of big points, but I lost the key card 7. I expected a perfect match of the trump card. Although I grabbed the landlord, the three trump cards disappointed the landlord, and ultimately ended in defeat.

For example

Trump card:

Analysis: The cards in my hand were very neat and average, but there were 45 planes. I was looking forward to getting a bomb or a 2, so I called the landlord hesitantly. The three hole cards surprised the landlord. The strength of the cards did not increase, but the cards became more scattered. I could only accept the result of failure.

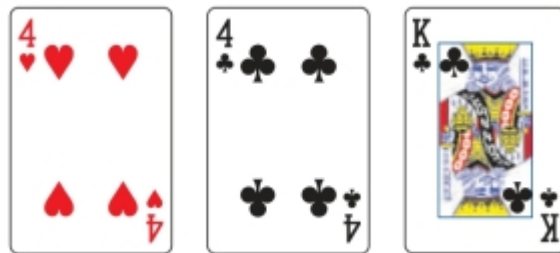

6. Avoid being impulsive

Never be impulsive when bidding. There are many poker players who will do their best to take the landlord into their arms whenever there is an explosion in their hand. In such a situation, they will usually lose points. According to the "law of cards in the same direction", when you have a bomb in your hand, the probability of someone else having a bomb in their hand is also very high, so you may lose more points! Some friends who are new to playing cards will blindly bid randomly regardless of the quality of the cards as long as it is their turn to bid. They want to be the master of every game. This will only make them lose more and more, disrupting the mentality of playing cards and the rhythm of playing cards. Although this truth is very simple, the "devil of desire" hidden deep in people's hearts always drives people to make the same mistakes over and over again. Therefore, you must have "self-knowledge" when bidding, and let go when it is time to let go.

For example

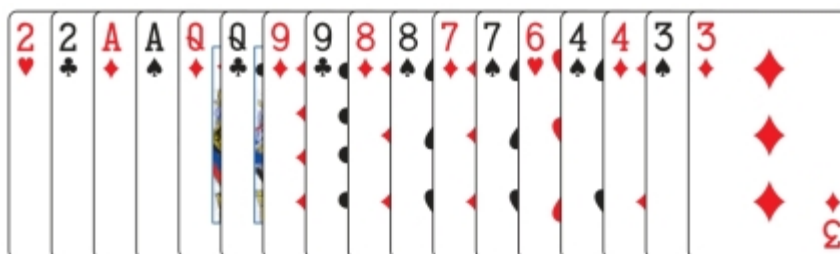

Trump card:

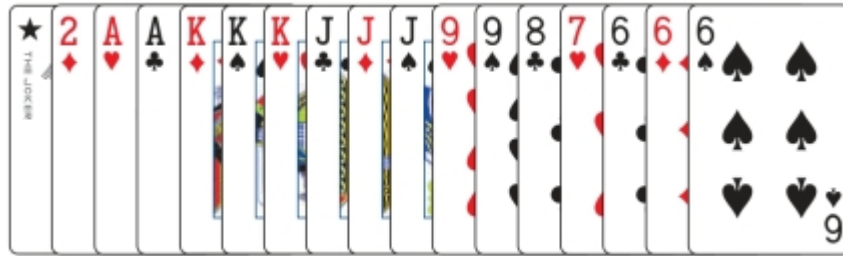

West:

South:

East:

Analysis: The Western player held two bombs. He did not consider the unseen card points and small single cards in his hand, and called the landlord. The hole card 44K added to the chaos. The single cards in his hand include 7, 8, J, K, 2, King, and the paired cards include 33, 44, and QQ. He has no control over either the single cards or the paired cards, and the hope of taking away the small cards is very small. The landlord chose to play 8 at the beginning, and the farmer in the east played 2 to suppress, and the landlord PASS. The farmer in the east had a very neat card pattern, with three three-bands of 666+7, JJJ+8, KKK+99, and AA, which made the landlord speechless. The landlord held two bombs but had no power to fight back, and was beaten back. Therefore, landlords are advised not to act impulsively but to make decisions after comprehensive consideration.

Bidding is the beginning of the game and the key to winning or losing. If you are conservative, you will lose the opportunity to win in one fell swoop. If you are aggressive, you will be helpless. Therefore, bidding must take into account the influence of various factors.

The landlord has called, and the trump card has been collected. Now you have got your wish! But does it translate into points?

Section 2: Win half of the opening cards

A local owner must have the demeanor of a general and the ability to control the overall situation. He must not only plan the route for playing cards, but also respond to unexpected card playing accidents in a timely manner. After getting the hole card, the landlord must analyze the card pattern in depth, decide the direction of the card opening, and plan the route of playing cards according to the strength of the card, so that the card game moves in a direction that is beneficial to him. As the saying goes, "As soon as the expert makes a move, he will know whether it is there or not." The opening of the cards determines the outcome of the entire game.

✿Opening skills

Card opening skills include two aspects: opening card type and opening card size.

Principle of backhand: The most basic principle is to play cards according to your own planned route, and the entire game is completely in your own hands.

Weak cards go first principle: Weak cards in your hand and cards that require card power must go first.

Principle of attacking shortcomings: Attack the opponent's weak cards.

Principle of anti-spring: You must have a backhand, otherwise you will fall into the farmer's routine and you will be unable to do anything even if you have a good hand. At the same time, if the cards in your hand are very strong and the card types are very good, you can carefully consider whether to play the spring line. For example, you choose to play a small three-band when opening the card, and the farmer chooses to pass the card (the lower player does not want to skip the control of the cards, and the upper player cannot control it). This is the time to seize the opportunity and score more points by playing the spring.

When opening cards, try to minimize the number of cards that the farmers can take advantage of, such as small singles, pairs of cards, and three belts. Don't let the farmers easily take away the small cards.

After receiving three hole cards and having the right to open cards, this is the temptation of the local owner! How to control the whole game at your own pace, opening cards is very important. Whether the first opening direction is correct directly affects the overall outcome.

1. The first single card

1. There are too many single cards in hand (usually more than 3 single cards), and there are also many single control cards, so you need to play small single cards when opening the cards.

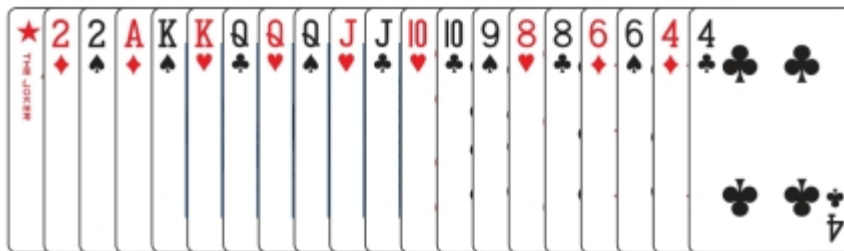

For example

Analysis: The card structure of this hand is quite chaotic. Whether it is a straight or a pair of cards, there are many single cards. With Big King and Xiao Wang Double 2 in your hand, you have absolute control over the single card. Therefore, you must choose a single card. It is more reasonable to open 5 first.

2. There are many pairs of cards in hand. In order to find out the distribution of pairs of 2s, try to force the farmer to open the double 2s. You can choose to open a single card first.

For example

Analysis: There are mostly pairs of cards in this game. If you choose to open the first pair, and the previous player chooses to play AA as the top card, the landlord will be more embarrassed. If you play 22 to suppress, you will lose control of the cards. Therefore, it is recommended to open a single card first. If you can pass the A, you can also judge the distribution of the other two 2s, forcing the farmer to split the pair of 2s. After the farmer obtains the right to play cards, he is likely to change the card path and get the right card, which happens to be the winning route designed by the landlord.

3. In the hand is the card type of Xiao Wang and 2. In order to let Xiao Wang have the right to have a hand of cards, the first single card is opened.

For example

Analysis: The cards in this game are neat. It is recommended that the landlord opens a single card of 5 and takes advantage of the situation. The farmer plays 2. Xiao Wang suppresses it and has the right to a hand of cards. Then play the single 6 and pass the single 2. It will be easier to play according to this idea. If you choose a straight on the first opening, you will be more confused. Should it be a straight from 3 to J, or a straight from 3 to Q? A straight from 3 to J may be controlled by the farmer. If the farmer plays a pair, the landlord will become very passive; a straight from 3 to Q will be played, and when the landlord has very few cards, it will be difficult for the king to gain the right to play a single card. The farmer will definitely use the king to suppress it. Without one hand of cards, the landlord will have great variables if he wants to win.

4. You have absolute control over the single card, and you can change the card type and open the single card first.

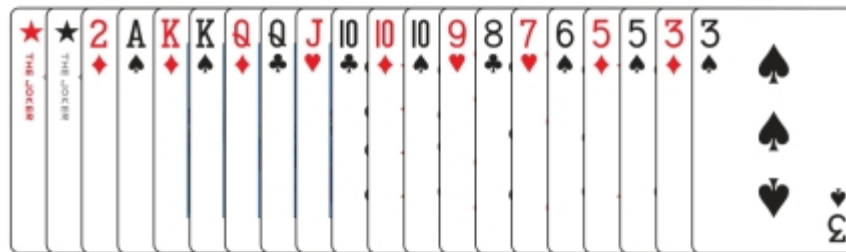

For example

Analysis: The cards in this game seem neat, but winning is not easy. If you just play pairs or three belts without analysis, you are likely to be suppressed by the farmers, and you will be led by the nose. Therefore, you must think twice before you act, and it is more reasonable to convert the card type into a single card and a straight. If you choose the single card 6 as the opening card, the single A may be able to obtain a hand of cards, and it is relatively easy to win.

5. Avoid the real and use the weak. There are more pairs of cards or other card types in the hand, but fewer control cards. You can open a single card first to induce the farmer to actively change the direction of attack and take advantage of the situation to bring out other card types.

For example

Analysis: There are various types of cards in this game, including pairs, three strips, and straights, but there is no absolute control card. Therefore, it is recommended to open a single card first. After the farmer suppresses it, change the line of cards and play other card types. Take advantage of the situation and take advantage of the cards in your hand to pave the way for winning.

2. The first pair of cards

1. The card types are mainly pairs of cards, and most of them are small pairs. Choose the pair of cards for the first opening.

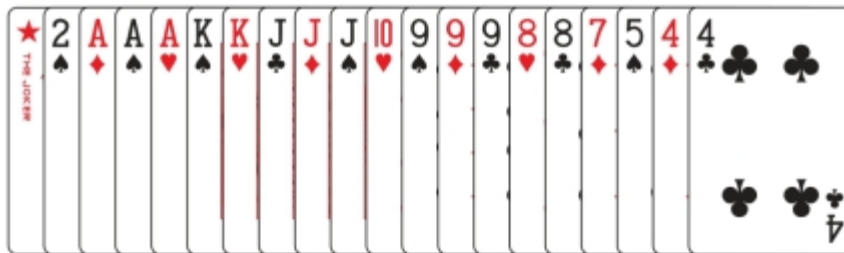

For example

Analysis: If you play a straight 910JQK and a pair of cards in this hand, you will have 6 pairs of cards in your hand, and 33, 55, and 77 are very difficult to pass, so it is recommended to open the pair first.

2. The card types are chaotic, there are more single cards, but there are fewer single-card control cards. Choose to open a pair of cards first to create a chance to win.

For example

Analysis: There are three small cards in this game: 5, 7, and 10, but only the king can win the hand. If you open the single card first, you will lose control of the entire game. Therefore, it is recommended to open 44 and pass KK. If the farmer chooses 22 to suppress, the probability of the landlord winning will be greatly increased.

3. Although the cards in hand are mainly other card types, the small pair is a dead card. You must have the right to get away, so choose the first pair.

For example

Analysis: The cards in this round are relatively neat, and two straights can be made, but the 66 in the hand is difficult to carry, and the 33 is even more of a burden. You must have the right to play the card, so it is recommended to open 33 first, and then adapt to the farmer's thinking of playing cards.

3. Open three with one (pair)

1. Among the card types, three with one (pair) is the main card type. Choose three with one as the first opening.

For example

Analysis: The card structure is simple. There are 3 three-bands in the hand, so you can choose to open the three-band first, which can not only take away the small single card, but also return the hand, making it easier to win.

2. There is no reliable counterattack for other card types. To prevent the reverse, choose to open three with one (pair).

For example

Analysis: It is a flaw that the landlord does not have a "king" in his hand. If he chooses to open a single card first and the farmer plays 2 to suppress, the landlord is powerless. If the farmer's cards are very neat, he is very likely to be beaten. If you choose to play the right card 55, the farmer will control it, and the landlord splits 222 to control the card, and the card strength will be greatly reduced; if you choose the first opening pair of 778899, the unseen cards in your hand are J and Q, and there is only a 10 and a K, so the possibility of being controlled by the farmer is very high. Therefore, it is more reasonable to choose to open three with one (pair) first.

3. Use the card pattern of three with one (pair) to get rid of the weak cards in your hand first.

For example

Analysis: The card pattern is neat and the card strength is strong. Choose to open three with one (pair) 99933 first, and take away the 33 in your hand first. Regardless of whether the farmer controls the cards or not, the other types of cards are under the control of the landlord, making it easy to win.

4. The first straight

1. If the straight card has a return hand, you can choose to open the straight card first.

For example

Analysis: The card type is relatively simple. The opening straight is 34567. Use 10JQKA to counterattack, and then play three with one, forming a "odd or even" card, and you will get the fruits of victory!

2. Use the opening straight to explore the path and determine whether the unseen cards in your hand have the potential to form a bomb.

For example

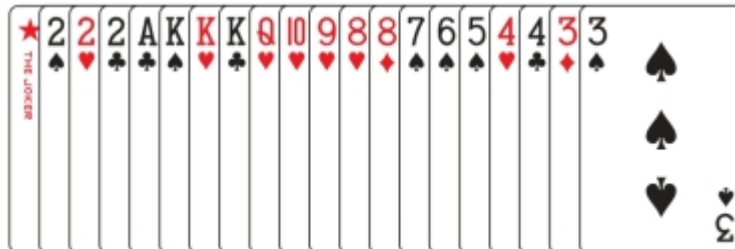

Analysis: Rockets and bombs are the most lethal in Landlords. Whether the unseen cards in their hands form bombs has become the most worrying thing for players. The cards in this round are neat, and the unseen card is 10, so I choose to open the straight 3456789 to find out whether the 10 bomb exists.

3. The first straight can interfere with the opponent's card type. In order to control this hand, it is possible to increase the number of single cards, thereby reducing the opponent's possibility of winning.

For example

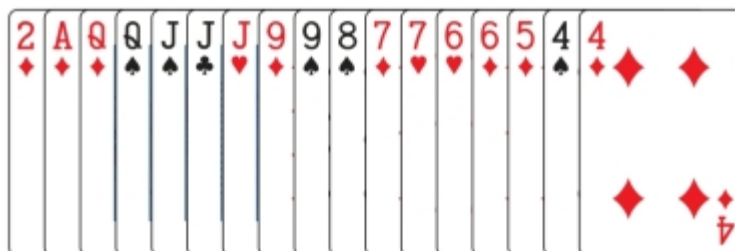

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: The landlord is weak in the pair cards. If he can pass the single card in his hand, and the two three-band 222 and KKK take away the two small pairs 44 and 33, it will be easier to win. Therefore, the landlord chooses the straight 5678910 for the first opening. If the farmer PASS, he will have one more hand of cards; the farmer (south) considers that he has three 10s in his hand and his allies cannot control this straight, so he has to remove the cards and suppress them. After playing the 678910J tube card, he will have two more single cards in his hand. The farmer plays the right card, and the landlord waits patiently; the farmer plays a single card, and the landlord takes advantage of the situation. Landowners follow their own planned routes, and it is reasonable for them to win.

5. The first opening pair

1. The first opening pair is extremely efficient. Under normal circumstances, the opponent is powerless and can gain one more hand of cards.

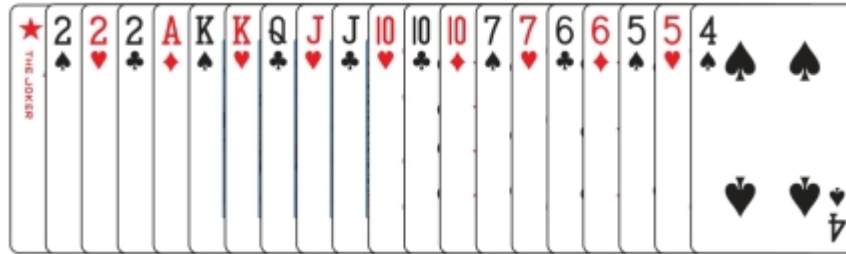

For example

Analysis: The card pattern is relatively neat. The landlord chooses to open the consecutive pair of 778899, which is very likely to obtain the card rights. He will play another pair of 55, take away KK, and 22 backhands. The straight of 10JQKA will occupy another hand of cards. He will play a single card and the king will return the hand. The winning card is in the planned route (the unseen cards 3 and 6 did not become bombs).

2. In the first opening pair, even if the opponent has control, he will lose his troops. Several big pairs will only win one hand of cards, thus losing control over the card type, achieving twice the result with half the effort.

For example

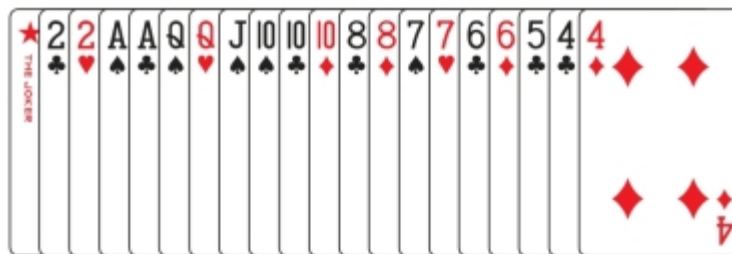

Analysis: The landlord chose to open the consecutive pair of 556677, and the farmer QQKKAA controlled it. The three big pairs only won one hand of cards, and the JJ and 101010 in the landlord's hand became big cards, opening the consecutive pair, and the efficiency was extremely high.

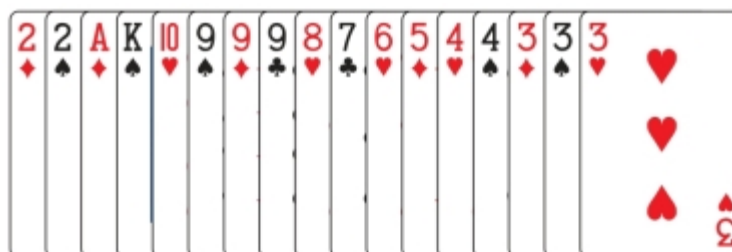

3. Make the first consecutive pair to disrupt your opponent's card patterns and increase your winning capital.

For example

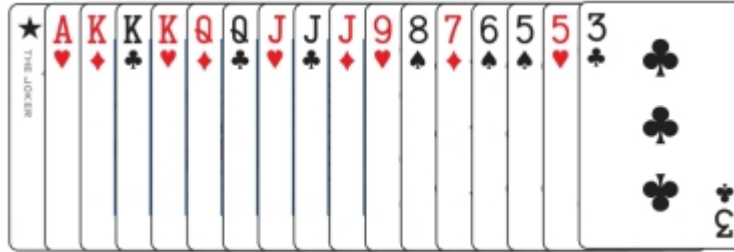

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: The landlord has more pairs of cards in his hand and opens the first consecutive pair. If the farmer chooses PASS, he will get the right to a hand of cards; if the farmer chooses to suppress, his control over the card types will be enhanced. The landlord opened the first consecutive pair of 667788, and the farmer (south) was unable to PASS. If the farmer (east) played JJQQKK, the card shape in his hand would be disrupted. If he chose to check, he would be worried that the landlord would play spring and suffer even greater losses. The farmer (east) weighed the cards again and again, and played the JJQQKK control card. The cards in his hand were scattered, and the allies' cards were weak. It became simple and easy for the landlord to win the card.

6. First flight

Fly the first plane to reduce the burden. The small plane will carry all the small single cards or small pairs of cards and fly away. The big plane will not have to rush out and keep the control cards!

For example

Analysis: The planes of 6 and 7 go first with two small single cards 777666+4+3. There are basically no burden cards in their hands. They have considerable control over single cards, pairs, triple belts or straights, and they will undoubtedly win.

For example

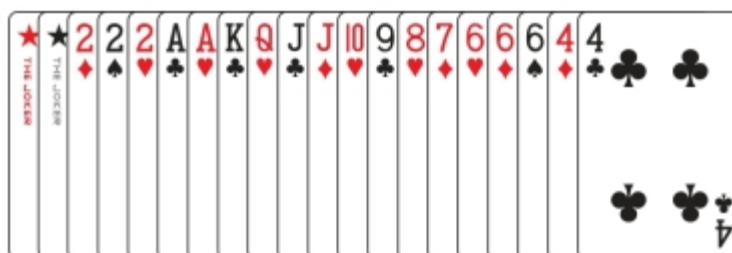

Analysis: If you have the KKKAAA plane in your hand, you don't have to rush out. You can keep the control card and choose the first straight of 3456789. After the farmer suppresses it, you can switch to other card types and the landlord can enjoy the success.

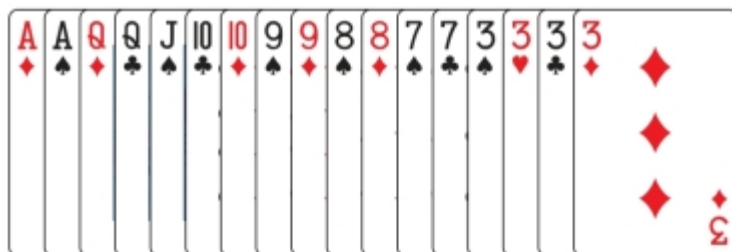

For the same deck of cards, if you choose different card opening methods, the game results will be very different...

For example

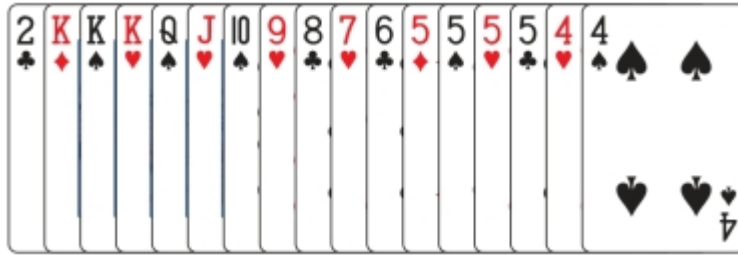

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

After the landlord received three hole cards, he was secretly happy and felt that his cards were invincible.

1. The landlord chose 666 + 44 when opening the card. The farmer (east) KKK + 44 controlled it. The landlord played 222 + AA to suppress it. The farmer (south) decisively played 3333. The landlord did not think much and shot a rocket. The landlord played a straight of 78910JQK, leaving a single J in his hand. The farmer (East) decisively played 5555, successfully controlling the single card, and the landlord failed.

2. The landlord chooses to play 44, the farmer (south) suppresses AA, the landlord (west) controls 22, the farmer (south) plays 3333, and the landlord checks. The farmer (south) plays 7788991010, and the landlord checks. The farmer (south) plays J, leaving QQ. The farmer (east) plays 2 to receive the card. The landlord is not allowed to pass the single 2, and the landlord chooses PASS. The farmer (east) plays KKK+44, and the landlord continues to PASS. The farmer (East) made a straight 678910JQ, with 5 bombs left, and the landlord was unable to make a comeback. The landlord opened the cards and chose three belts and pairs of cards, but both ended in failure.

3. If the landlord chooses a straight of 78910JQK, (1) the farmer chooses PASS, the landlord plays 666+44, and counterattacks with 222+AA, the farmer can only admit defeat. (2) The farmer (south) plays 3333 to suppress, and the landlord chooses PASS; the farmer (south) continues to play 7788991010, AA, QQ, and has a single J in his hand. The landlord (west) suppresses AA, and the farmer (east) PASS; the landlord plays 666+44, and fights back with 222+AA, and the landlord wins. (3) The farmer (south) plays 3333 to suppress, and the landlord (west) chooses PASS; the farmer (south) continues to play 7788991010, AA, and single J, leaving QQ in his hand. The farmer (east) passes the single 2, and the landlord will lose the game no matter what card he plays. (4) The farmer (East) plays 5555 to suppress, and the landlord PASS; the farmer (East) continues to play 678910JQ, single 2, and has KKK+44 in his hand. The landlord plays rockets to control it; the landlord plays 666 +4, the farmer (east) plays KKK+4, the landlord plays 222+4, the farmer (south) plays bomb 3333; no matter what card the farmer (south) plays, the landlord's AA is a big card, so the landlord wins.

This is a deck of fairly even cards, and it will be very difficult for either landowner or peasant to win. The landlord chooses a straight when opening the cards, and the chance of winning is greater.

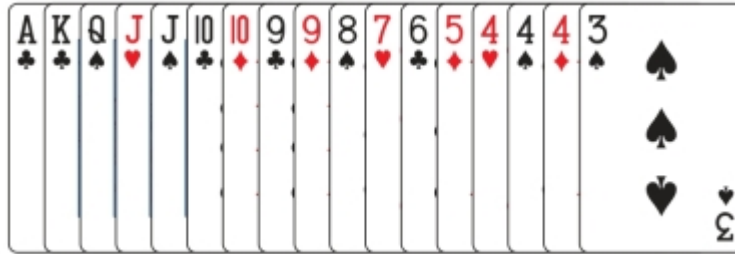

The local owner has the right to seize the opportunity to open cards, and there will also be cases where "one wrong move will lead to the loss"...

For example

Trump card:

West:

South:

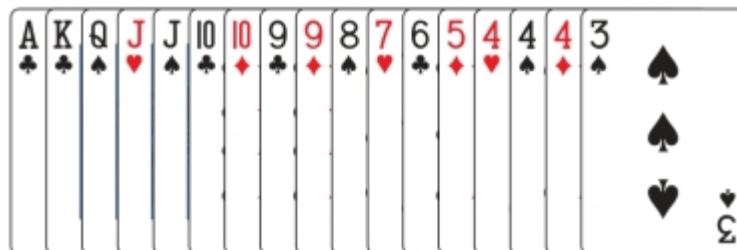

East:

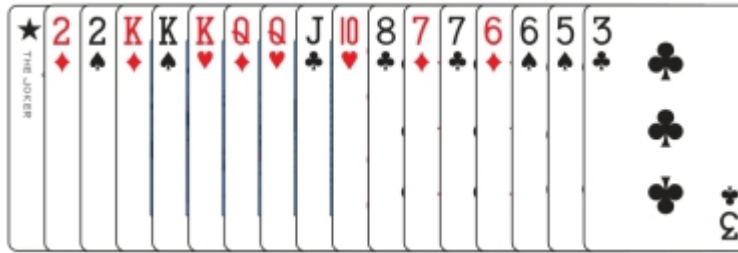

Analysis: The west player has the right to bid, but the card strength is not good, so he chooses "not to bid"; the south player has the king pair 2, but the cards are scattered, and bids 1 point, and the player in the east bids the landlord with 3 points.

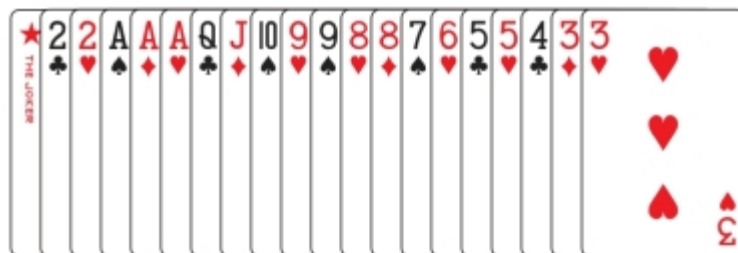

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

The landlord got three hole cards, and the overall card shape was good. The unseen card in his hand was K. He had absolute control over single cards, pairs of cards, and three belts. The landlord's hand was strong, and his playing seemed a bit random. The first straight was 3456789, and the farmer (West) played 5678910J to control it. The landlord was helpless. The farmer (West) then plays a straight 910JQKA, and the landlord can only PASS. Farmers (West) produced 444+3 and won the game. The landlord was stunned. The card that could have won him was played against him. Analyzing the reason, it was found that the card selection was wrong. The hand had supreme control over single cards, pairs of cards, and three strips. However, the 7-card straight was chosen, which happened to be delivered to the farmer, who was defeated. If the cards in your hand are strong, you should think more carefully and reduce mistakes. The landlord should choose the straight 8910JQ, which opens with 5 cards. If the farmer (west) does not suppress it (choosing to suppress will result in more small single cards), the farmer (south) can do nothing. Through bidding (the landlord is called at position three), it can be initially determined that the possibility of K becoming a bomb is unlikely, and the card can be played according to the idea of playing spring. The landlord then played AAA+55, 22, King, and finally a straight 3456789, making it spring. With the same deck of cards, there is a big difference between playing well and being beaten badly. Not only will the point difference become wider and wider, but the mentality of the players will also change. It is really "one careless move and everything will be lost"! Therefore, it is very important to open a card, and you must think twice before making a decision.

Section 3 The landlord's strategy

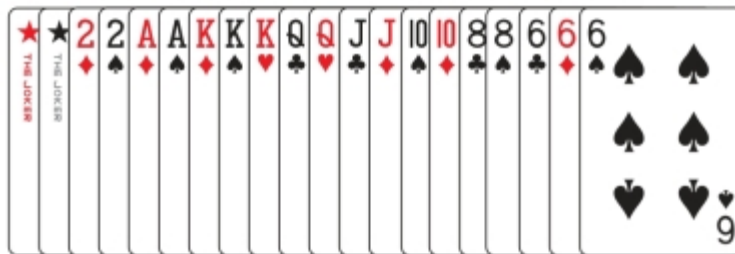

In the game of Landlord Fighting, although the landlord has card power that the peasants cannot match, the landlord works alone while the peasants fight together. Therefore, it is not easy for the landlord to win against the peasants. The landlord must constantly observe and act cautiously during the playing process, and use card control techniques to control the entire game at his own pace in order to win.

♣ Strong cards – attack decisively, leaving no room for error

The landlord has a very neat and powerful hand, so he must play decisively and win with one blow, without giving the peasants a chance to breathe. Of course, after the landlord gets the cards, he must analyze and study them to maximize the benefits, for example, to win the game in the spring. Sometimes, a hand of spring cards fails due to the player's lack of consideration, misjudgment, wrong order of playing cards, and falls into the farmer's trap.

For example

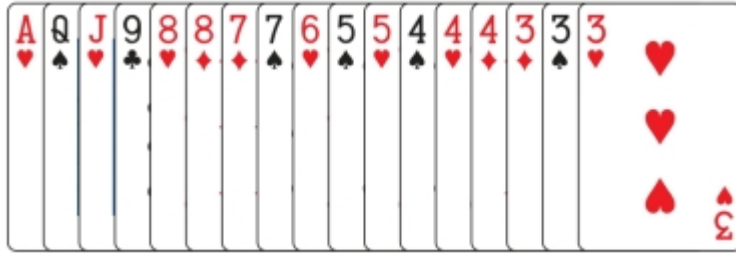

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: In this round of cards, the landlord has neat card patterns and an absolute advantage in card strength. But when some players get a good hand, they will have the thought of underestimating the opponent, thinking that I will win this game no matter how I play. Without thinking, I opened the first three-band pair of 666+88. The farmer (south) took control of 99955, and the landlord KKK+AA counterattacked; he continued to play consecutive pairs of 1010JJQQ, 22, and finally ended with a rocket. After the cards were played, the landlord regretted it. Why? With a little thought, you can play the spring bomb card. The landowner obviously did not maximize his interests. If the landlord chooses KKK + 88 in the first opening, continues to play 1010JJQQ, 22, Rockets, and finally plays three pairs of 666 + AA, he will be successful in spring. If the farmer has a bomb and the spring fails, the profit from winning the bomb will be doubled. Therefore, the landlord holds strong cards and must play decisively, but not blindly.

❁ Average card strength – take advantage of your strength to gain the upper hand

When the landlord judges that his hand is evenly matched with that of the peasants, he must maintain a steady rhythm and control himself not to make mistakes in order to win. It is recommended to "take advantage of our own strength and strike later". First of all, the cards you play must be confusing so that others can't figure out your card type. If a single card is relatively weak, and it is expected that others will attack the single card continuously, you can first split the pair of cards to suppress and confuse the opponent; let's talk about "borrowing power", first of all, you must determine which family's card is stronger and which family is the top card, "suppress the family and put the upper family", and use the small cards of the previous family to take away your own cards. When the cards in the landlord's hand are not sorted out and turned into "established cards", the big cards must be kept for "post-emption".

For example

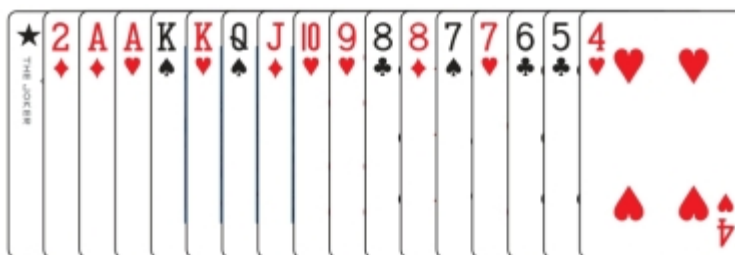

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: The strength of this deck of cards is relatively average. The landlord must be patient enough and take away the small cards in his hand in order to win. He cannot be eager for success. The landlord opened three with 1, 444+9, and the farmer (south) played 555+6 to control it. When he saw 5 (not a bomb), he could relax a little, and the landlord reluctantly chose to check. The farmer (south) made a straight 678910, the landlord continued to check and waited patiently. The farmer (south) played 33, the farmer (east) took the AA card, and the landlord hesitated and chose PASS. Farmer (East) continues to play cards, straight 45678, landlord PASS, straight 78910JQ, landlord continues to pass. The farmer (East) has three single cards left in his hand: 9, 2, Xiao Wang and KK. He chooses 2 and the landlord king suppresses it. The landlord played a straight of 678910JQKA, the right card was JJ, 22 backhands, and finally 33, the landlord won.

In this deck of cards, the key factor for the landlord to win is patience and tolerance. When the farmer (south) plays 555+6, the landlord chooses to be patient for the first time. If the landlord plays JJJ+Q, he will control it; if the landlord plays a straight of 678910 again, the farmer (east) will control it with 8910JQ; the farmer (east) will control it with 8910JQ.) plays a straight of 45678, and the landlord PASS; the farmer (East) plays the right card AA, and the landlord holds 22; the remaining cards in the landlord's hand are 33, K, A, and King. No matter what the cards are, he will lose the game. When the farmer (South) came out with a straight of 678910, the landlord gave in for the second time. If he opened the long straight in his hand to manage the cards, the cards in the landlord's hand would suffer a devastating blow and he would definitely lose. When the farmer (south) plays QQ and the farmer (east) AA receives the card, the landlord gives in for the third time. If the landlord chooses to suppress 22, the straight 678910JQKA in his hand can occupy one hand, leaving king, 33, and JJ. If the farmer succeeds in controlling a single card, then the landlord will definitely lose. The landlord is patient and waits for JJ to be revealed, or the farmer takes the initiative to play a single card, and the landlord plays the king to control the card, and is more sure of winning. The farmer (East) gave a straight of 45678, and the landlord gave in for the fourth time; the farmer (East) gave a straight of 78910JQ, and the landlord gave in for the fifth time. Finally, when the farmer played a single card, the landlord used the king to receive the card and won in one fell swoop. It is so difficult to win a game. How many times do you have to endure it! Winning cards is the purpose of the game, but the Landlord game also tempers the player's character.

❁Weak cards – use card skills to turn passive into active

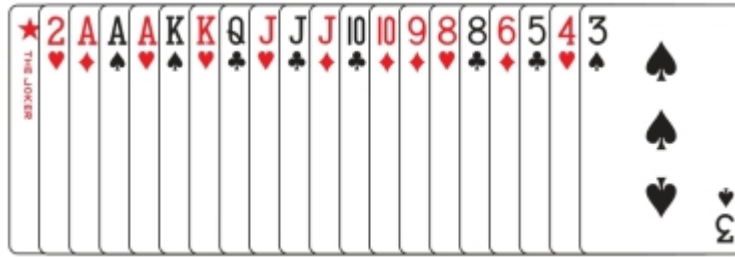

Strong hands can win easily without much thinking. But if the cards are not very neat and the strength of the cards is not good enough, then the hole cards will add chaos and make up for the spread. At this time, the player's skills will be tested. Players must carefully analyze the card patterns, use card control techniques to control the entire card game at their own pace, and use card-playing strategies to constantly confuse or even instigate rebellion and alienate the two farmers, and ultimately turn the overall card situation in their favor and strive for a favorable situation. Being able to win in a weak situation will greatly enhance the player's confidence, and it will also be a fatal blow to other players.

For example

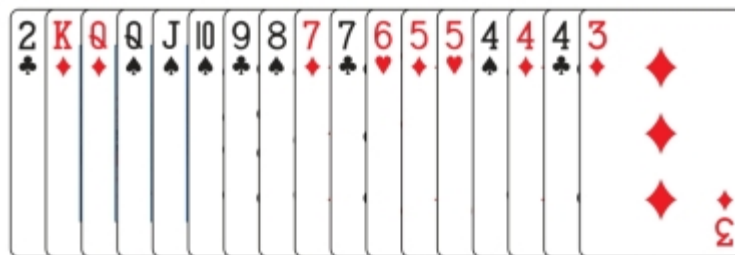

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: The landlord's cards are not strong enough, and the cards are scattered. The key card 7 is not added to the hole card, but it adds chaos and scatters more cards. The single cards in the landlord's hand include King, 2, Q, 9, 6, 5, 4, 3, and there are many small single cards. Only the king can get the right to a hand. With such a hand, everyone thought that the landlord had no hope of winning. However, the landlord relied on his profound card recording and analysis skills and powerful card control technology to turn the tables and win the game. Come and see how the landlord wins?

1. The landlord chooses to play the single card 4, the farmer (east) brings the single card 5, the farmer (west) plays the top card A, the landlord plays 2, the farmer (west) plays Xiaowang Guanzhu, the landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (west) continues to play Q, the landlord (south) passes, the farmer (east) plays K to receive the card, the landlord decisively removes three A to suppress, the farmer (east) plays 2 to control, and the landlord passes.

3. The farmer (East) has a straight 34567, and the landlord continues to choose PASS.

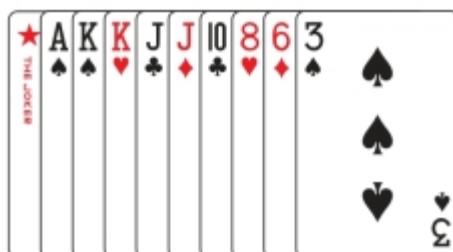

4. The farmer (East) continues to make a straight 78910J, and the landlord takes control of 8910JQ.

5. The landlord plays a single card of 5, and the farmer (east) still has QQ and 44 in his hand. After choosing, the farmer (west) plays the top card of K. The landlord continues to open the card to suppress A, and the farmer (west) plays 2 to control it.

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

6. The farmer (west) changed the card and played 99. The landlord chose to be patient. The farmer (east) took the card with QQ and the landlord suppressed it with KK.

7. The landlord continues to play single card 6, the farmer (West) plays 2 to suppress, and the landlord PASS.

8. The farmer (west) comes out with 77, and the landlord (south) comes out with JJ to control it.

9. The landlord plays a single card of 8, the farmer (west) plays a 10, and the landlord plays an A to control it.

10. The landlord plays a single card 3 and uses the king to return the victory.

After ten rounds of competition, the landlord finally won the game. It was not easy. The key to victory was his deep card-keeping skills, delicate card-breaking skills, superb card-playing skills, and super endurance. In the second round, the farmer (West) played a single card Q, but the landlord did not blindly open the KK to suppress it, ensuring the right to choose the cards in the subsequent face-off cards. After the farmer (East) played K to receive the card, the landlord decisively broke the AAA control and prevented the Farmer (East) from easily obtaining the card rights. In the third and fourth rounds, the landlord chose to suppress the farmer's second straight to maximize his card strength. This was the key to winning this round. In the sixth round, the farmer (west) played 99, the landlord chose, the farmer (east) received the card with QQ, and the landlord (south) suppressed KK. The landlord backhanded the farmer's QQ, making his JJ the controlling card in the subsequent rounds, which reflected the landlord's deep card-recording skills and super card control ability, which is also the highlight of this game.

In this round of cards, if the farmer's thinking of playing cards is slightly adjusted, the farmer will win easily. Let's take a look. In the third round, the farmer (East) played Changshun 345678910J. The landlord was helpless. The farmer (East) obtained the card rights and played 44 and QQ, leaving 7 single cards. The landlord had small single cards 3 and 6. In any case, he could only give the farmer a ride.

It is not easy for the landlord to win with this deck of cards. It is a classic card game in which the weak defeats the strong, and it is also a practical card game for masters to compete with. Many people think that Landlords is a contest of card luck. In fact, the competition between masters reflects the duel of card skills and is the most attractive part of the Landlords game.

Section 4: Landlord's card-playing skills

1. There are 20 cards in the landlord's hand, and the combinations of various card types are unpredictable. Players must look at the overall situation, conduct in-depth analysis, and determine the direction of opening cards.

2. Flexibly choose according to the battle situation, play the card types that have not changed first, and keep the changeable card types. Only by having each card type, can we attack comprehensively and wait for work.

3. Try not to expose your weaknesses in front of your opponent. For example, if you don't have a big pair of cards in your hand, try not to play the right cards when opening the cards, because if the farmer plays the right card, you will be powerless. Once your weakness is exposed, the farmer will find the weakest point to attack.

4. The landowner must have the ability to control the overall situation and cannot hand over the card rights easily, otherwise it may be more misfortune than good.

5. Landlords must learn to be tolerant. If you want to hold on to the cards no matter which house it is, then unless you have a "king card", you are very likely to lose. You must make the most of your cards.

6. The landlord should be more tolerant to the upper house, because if the upper house's cards are strong enough, the landlord will definitely lose. But in most cases, the upper house will play the top card and let the upper house play. Whether it is a single card or a pair of cards, it will let you pass, so there is no need to rush to play the upper house.

7. Landlords should not be too ambitious. At the beginning, they must formulate a card-playing plan that is consistent with the type and strength of the cards. They must learn to handicap at critical moments and must assess the situation to ensure victory. When necessary, the double kings must be separated in time, and the bombs can be changed to four and two.

8. Landlords should focus on preventing farmers who play illegal roles. They have the following characteristics:

The farmer tried to land the owner during the bidding process.

The landlord opened the small card first and directly played the big card to suppress the peasants who wanted to obtain the card rights.

Peasants who suppress alliance cards and want to gain card rights.

Located in the landowner's house, the farmer wants to get the right to win the card by first slipping away the small cards and then playing the big cards.

9. The order of playing cards at the end of the game is very critical. Landlords are most afraid of the previous player placing an order (even), which can easily be defeated by the farmers joining together.

10. When playing cards, the landlord should pay attention to the details and play out the cards that have been filled up first. If there are cards left in his hand, it is easy for the farmer to judge the type of cards left in his hand.

There are no inevitable winners and losers, and there is no starting factor that determines victory or defeat. This is the characteristic of poker. It is like a life process. Innate advantages are important, but they do not play a decisive role.

Chapter 3 I am a farmer

斗地主的乐趣在于“斗”，“兄弟齐心，其利断金”……

The local owner is majestic and powerful, but winning cards is not that easy! The landlords fought alone, but the peasants fought together. The two farmers cooperated to fight against the landlord, which made up for the lack of card strength and the defects of the card type. The element of luck was greatly reduced, which largely reflected the technical content of Landlord. Maybe everyone has this feeling. The feeling of scoring with an ace card is far less exciting than relying on the tacit cooperation of farmers to fight against landlords and finally obtain a hard-won victory. The real charm of Landlords lies in the cooperation of farmers.

Section 1: The landlord's method of playing cards for the peasants

Before playing cards, the peasants in the landlord's house should make a rough judgment on their own card strength and give themselves a reasonable position, whether they are playing card running roles or defensive roles.

1. If the cards in your hand are neat and there is a possibility of running out of cards, you should take advantage of the situation to slip away the "waste cards" in your hand. The landlord will deal single cards, single cards that are too small, single cards that are too small, and pairs that are too small. Straighten out your cards and seize the opportunity to run away. However, if the cards in your hand are poor and scattered, and you hope that the alliance will run away from you, then there is no need to bring cards with you. Firstly, it will be easy to withstand the small cards that the alliance wants to pass away. Secondly, it will be easy to expose the cards and let the landlord see the cards he wants to see.

2. You must learn to catch cards. When your partner's top card is already a little weak, you must catch your partner's card in a timely manner. Otherwise, the landlord will take advantage of the situation and take away the useless cards in his hand, and there will be no way to recover.

3. Be careful when keeping cards at the end of the game. If the landlord has a strong awareness of the top cards and has few small single cards, keep the big single cards. Otherwise, keep the right cards.

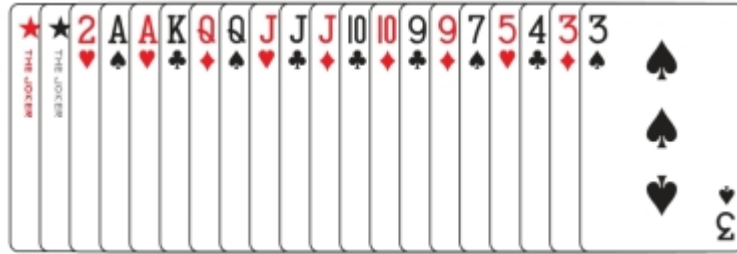

4. Peasants under the landlord often have the task of passing cards and letting go of their companions, so when playing cards, they should keep small cards appropriately according to the actual situation.

For example

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: Both sides are equally powerful in this deck. Although the landlord holds the double king, the small single card adds to the chaos. It is not easy to win. Which side is stronger and which side is better?

1. The landlord has many single cards and is small, choose to open the first single card 5, the farmer (east) (the farmer below) chooses to check, the farmer (west) (the farmer above) takes the single card 8, the landlord plays K, the farmer (east) continues to choose to check, the farmer (west) brings the single card A, and the landlord plays 2 to suppress.

2. The landlord considers that the farmer has 22 in his hand, and continues to play a single card in the hope of demolishing the farmer's 22. His AA can gain the right to play the card and create opportunities for rockets. The landlord plays a single 7, and the farmer (East) plays 2 to suppress it. The landlord PASS.

3. The farmer (east) saw that his ally had brought away the small single card, and the card pattern was already very neat, so he decisively suppressed it, changed the card path, and played the right card 33. The farmer (west) successfully brought 44, the landlord played 1010, the farmer (west) played QQ, the landlord used AA to suppress, and the farmer (west) played 22 to control. At this time, the landlord did not dare to play rockets because the cards in his hand were not neat.

4. The farmer (West) made a straight 5678910 and obtained the card right. The farmer (west) played the single card 9 and reported KK. The farmer (east) played the top card K and the landlord suppressed the king.

5. Considering that the previous farmer reported an even, the landlord had no choice but to deal out a single card of 4. The farmer (East) continued to play the top card of A, and the landlord played a king to suppress it. However, the remaining cards in his hand could not control the farmer's KK regardless of odd or even, so he could only accept the result of defeat.

The farmers can win with this deck of cards, and the farmers under the landlord perform very well. The farmer (east) (the next farmer) saw that his cards were scattered and there was no possibility of losing cards, so he could only do his best to cooperate with his allies. In the first round, the farmer (East) checked the cards reasonably for two reasons. First, he considered that even if he took away a few small cards, it would be difficult to run away; second, if he took the cards with him, he would be likely to withstand the small cards that his allies wanted to pass, thus losing the chance to win. In the second and third rounds, the landlord played a single card of 7, and the farmer (east) decisively played 2 to suppress it, saving the ally's 22, occupying the right of the pair of cards, and breaking the landlord's plan; the farmer (east) changed the card and played 33, allowing the ally to pass the 44, which was a key move to win the card. In the fourth and fifth rounds, the farmer (East) played the top cards of K and A, and the landlord opened the double-king suppression, making the ally's KK the winning card.

With this deck of cards, if the peasants under the landlord have no sense of cooperation, do nothing, or play cards randomly, the landlord will not only win but also play rockets. In the first round, the landlord plays a single card of 5, and the farmer (east) (the next farmer) plays a single card of 10. The farmer (west) plays a top card, and the landlord plays a 2 to suppress. In the second round, the landlord dealt a single card and played a 7, the farmer (East) then handed over a card and played a single card J, the landlord played a K, the farmer (East) checked, and the farmer (West) split 22 and kept it. In this way, the landlord's AA will get a hand of cards in the right hand. No matter how the farmer plays his cards, it becomes very easy for the landowner to win the cards and fire the rocket.

If the landlord's next farmer's card is strong and the card pattern is very neat, you can also choose the top card.

1. If the card structure is neat, directly use big cards to suppress the landlord, fight for the card rights, and pave the way for your own escape or successful sneak attack.

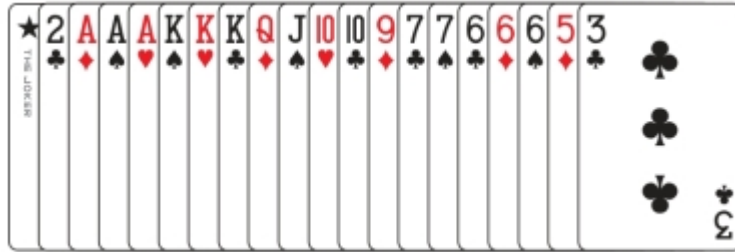

2. Having control over certain types of cards, the landlord directly suppresses them when they take action, killing them in the cradle, thus controlling the direction and rhythm of playing cards, and paving the way for winning cards.

For example

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: In this deck of cards, the farmer (East) (the landlord's subordinate) doesn't have many big cards, but the cards are very neat. As long as the landlord plays a single card, the farmer (East) slips away the "waste card" in his hand and uses the king to get the card right, and the landlord will be in trouble. Although the landlord has three triple belts in his hand, there are still too many single cards that must be played. The first choice is the single card 5. The farmer (East) takes advantage of the situation and brings out the Q. The landlord plays 2. The farmer (East) uses the king to suppress it and obtains the card right. The farmer (East) played first with a pair of 334455, and the landlord was helpless; the farmer (East) continued to play a straight 678910JQK, and finally the single card 8, the farmer won. This deck of cards is relatively simple, and it makes sense for the farmer to win. In the live game, the landlord opened the first card with a card of 5, the farmer (east) played a queen, and the farmer (west) checked. Considering that his control of the single card was not strong, the landlord wanted to take advantage of the situation and passed. As a result, the farmers (Eastern) seized the opportunity and launched a counter-spring campaign.

Section 2: The landlord's method of playing cards for the peasants

The peasants of the landlord's family are called "menban". It goes without saying that you also know his importance. His every move is related to the trend of the entire card game. The first task of the "door panel" is to "block", which is to block the landlord's small cards. Secondly, the player must have a strong sense of passing cards and understand the needs of allies during the playing process in order to transmit the appropriate card type. Of course, there are exceptions. If the "door board" has a good hand or can control the game, he can also follow the small cards and make a strong move to achieve the goal of winning.

❁The landlord's strategy for playing cards – press more and attack less, waiting for opportunities to pass cards

1. Press more - during the process of playing cards, judge the landlord's card type based on your own card type. If the landlord has a lot of single cards, he must resist it resolutely, even at the expense of splitting up pairs of A and K to suppress it. After getting the card right, change the card playing route to create opportunities for allies to win cards.

2. Little attack - If the landlord has a weak or few cards, but you and your allies have strong control over the cards, you can use the tactic of playing cards continuously to disrupt the landlord's card pattern.

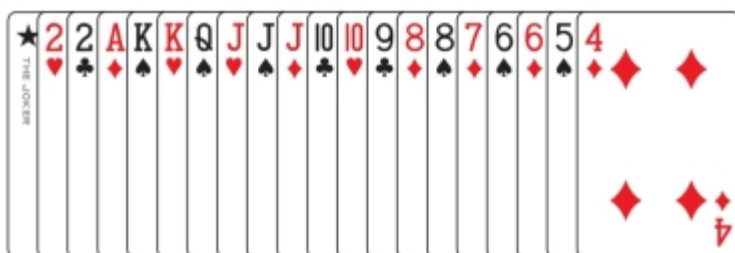

3. Wait for opportunities to pass cards - continuously suppress or attack the landlord's weaknesses. The landlord's cards have been broken up or beaten into dead cards. At this time, it is necessary to seize the opportunity to pass the advantageous cards to allies.

For example

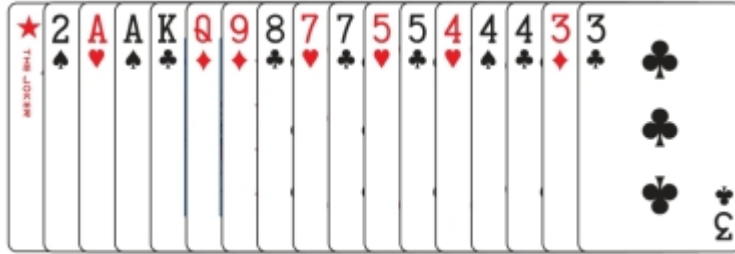

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: Judging from the cards, the landlord has a slight advantage, so can the peasants of the landlord's family play their best role and cooperate with their allies to bring down the landlord?

1. The landlord chooses to play the single card 6 in the first opening, and the farmer (east) follows the trend and plays the single card 8. In order to maintain control of the straight card, the farmer (west) plays the single card Q, the landlord passes the K, the farmer (east) plays 2 to control, and the landlord plays Xiao Wang to suppress it.

2. The landlord showed a straight 45678910, and the farmer (West) showed 5678910J.

3. The farmer (west) picked the single card K, the landlord removed the two cards, and the farmer (east) decisively played the king to suppress it.

4. The farmer (east) changed the card playing route and played 33, the landlord sent out JJ, and the farmer (east) played AA to suppress.

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

5. The farmer (East) plays 444+9 and obtains the card right.
6. The farmer (east) played 55, the farmer (west) did not receive the card, and the landlord (south) was powerless.
7. The farmer (east) plays Q, and the farmer (west) plays 2 to receive the card.
8. The farmer (west) played the right card 33, and the farmer (east) received the card 77.
9. The farmer (East) plays K and wins.

The farmers relied on superb cooperation to win this game. Every time the peasants played a hand of cards, we were worried about them, for fear that they would make a mistake and send the cards to the landlords. The performance of the landlord's peasants is even more commendable. In the second round, the farmer (West) (the landlord's family) did not hesitate to have his cards broken into pieces, and controlled the landlord's straight to prevent the landlord from easily getting the right to the cards. In the third round, the farmer (West) accurately judged that the single card was the landlord's weakness, and took the initiative to play a single card, splitting the landlord's 22, causing the landlord to lose control of the card type. In the seventh round, the farmer (west) took the initiative to play 2 cards to prevent the landlord from getting the card rights. In the eighth round, the farmer (West) passes the cards accurately, the allies receive the cards, and the farmer wins. In this round of cards, if the farmer from the landlord's family makes a mistake in removing the top card, receiving the cards and passing them on, or making a mistake in any link, then the balance of victory will be biased in favor of the landlord.

❁How to play cards as a landlord

The peasants of the landlord's family are very particular about how they play their cards, and they must be able to top, defend, pass, and deceive. Here, we first introduce how to top cards, and other techniques will be introduced in detail in the next chapter.

Top card: Usually refers to the farmers, especially the farmers from the landlord's family. The big cards are played to "top" the landlord and prevent the landlord from easily slipping away the small cards.

1. A single top card tops a big order. If the landlord opens a single card first, the farmer next to the landlord will usually play an Ace. This Ace can be called the most classic top card, and the distribution of big card points in the hands of the three players was immediately revealed. Why do you say this? If the landlord uses 2 to control, the distribution of the kings and kings is roughly clear; if the landlord does not press this A, it can be judged that the landlord has double kings but no 2, or double kings and single 2s, but he still needs to clear a single card before he can dare to use 2 to suppress it; When the landlord suppresses, we can analyze and judge the landlord's card strength; when the landlord checks, the farmer gets the card right and the initiative at the same time, so a single card is the most troublesome thing for the landlord.

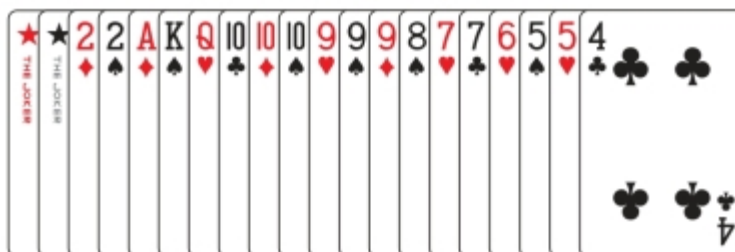

The top card of a single card is relatively simple. Generally, it is played backwards from the big card point to the small card point, trying its best to prevent the landlord from passing the "waste card" in his hand.

2. Top pair of cards. If the landlord is the first to open a pair of cards, the farmer on the landowner's family will try to play the middle pair of cards, such as pair 7 and pair 8. If the landlord suppresses the cards, it means that the pair's cards are very strong; if he chooses to check, then it is estimated that the landlord still has a small pair that has not been passed, and the pair's cards are basically at a disadvantage. Through the judgment and analysis of the cards, we can further attack the landlord's weak card types and destroy the landlord's card strategy.

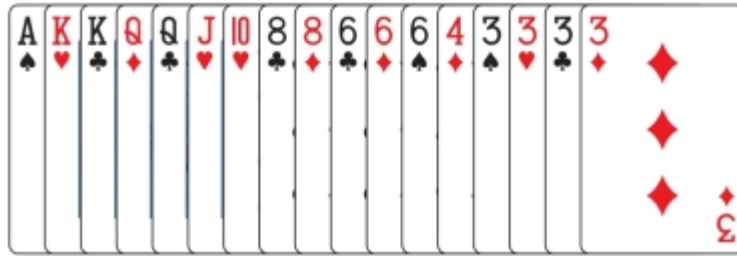

The top card of the pair must be appropriate, and the structure and distribution of the pair must be analyzed by playing cards. It must not only withstand the landlord's pair, but also allow the allies to receive the cards comfortably, sacrifice themselves, protect the alliance, and win together.

For example

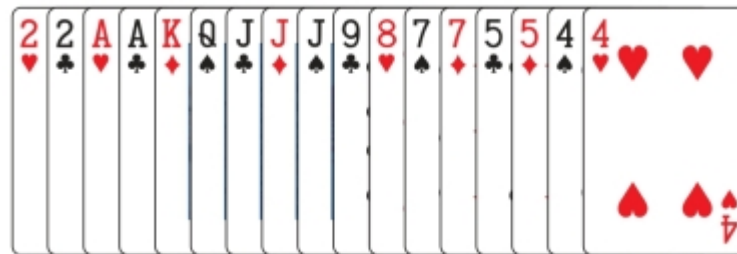

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: Judging from the cards, the Landlord's is superior in terms of card strength and card type. However, the two farmers did their best and cooperated with each other to easily defeat the landlord.

1. The landlord has more single cards in his hand, so he chooses to open the first single card 7. The farmer (south) slips away the single card Q, the farmer (east) plays the top card A, and the landlord opens 22 to suppress.

2. The landlord continues to play the single card Q, the farmer (south) takes advantage of the situation and passes the K, the farmer (east) reveals the 22 top cards, and the landlord (west) passes.

3. The farmer (east) changes the card playing route and plays 77, the farmer (south) plays 88 to receive the card, and the landlord PASS.

4. The farmer (South) played a straight 10JQKA and obtained the card right.

5. The farmers (south) produced $666+4$, leaving 3333. The landlord held a rocket and was beyond his reach.

In this round of cards, the farmer's resolute top card from the landlord's family is the key to the farmer's victory. In the first round, the landlord played a single card, and the farmer (East) (the landlord's home) played an A on top. He did not let the landlord take away the A, but also successfully opened the landlord's 22. In the second round, the landlord continued to play single cards. He originally wanted to use 2 hands to obtain the card rights. The farmer (East) judged that the landlord had the double king in his hand and decisively opened the 22 top cards, causing the landlord's plan to fail. In the third round, after the farmer (East) gets the right to play cards, he takes the initiative to change the route of playing cards and produces a pair. The ally wins after receiving the cards.

It can be seen from the card examples that if the farmers top the cards, the blow to the landlords is effective, even devastating. The top cards are called the "lifeline" of the farmers. Many farmer players like to get rid of their small cards first, thinking that they can win the cards. As everyone knows, the landlord has strong card strength and neat card patterns. By the time you finish playing the small cards in your hand, the landlord's cards will also be in order. Playing cards is about constraints and counter-constraints. You must remember that farmers do not fight alone. They must give full play to their collaborative spirit and support each other to achieve the goal of victory.

❁Landlord Shangjia' s card-playing skills

1. The landlord's task must be kept in mind: the landlord's single is the best for the big order, and the landlord's pair is the best for the middle pair. Change the way the cards are played and cooperate with your allies to defeat the enemy together. Don't let the landlord easily pass a single card less than 10; the landlord plays a pair of cards, and if the partner plays a pair of cards above 10, he cannot take the partner's card at this time and let the partner go.

2. The landlord's boss must judge the landlord's weaknesses through the cards and specialize in the landlord's weaknesses. If the landlord does not have a single card in his hand, the farmer can cleverly play a single card. The landlord will be in a dilemma whether he chooses to suppress the card or pass the card.

3. When the farmer's card strength is poor and there is no hope of winning, he should minimize his points loss. If the landlord holds a rocket, then the farmer will try to trick the landlord into splitting the two kings to minimize the loss. The landlord's cards are scattered, but the flaws should not be exposed early, pretending to be strong and neat. The landlord plays a single card, and the superior player decisively plays 2 to suppress it. The landlord believes that the peasant superior player has the tendency to slip cards, and will definitely suppress the demolition king, and the peasant's loss will be halved.

4. The landlord has three cards left (a 2 and the other two), and the king has not appeared yet. At this time, 2 should be played first to report even. If the double king is in the hands of the landlord and there is no successful card, the landlord will not explode and suppress the king, and the farmer will lose half the card even if he loses the card; if the landlord holds the king, the farmer will play 2, and the landlord king will suppress it, losing control of the single card, and it will be difficult to win the card if the single card is played.

5. As a farmer from the landlord's family, it is more reasonable to place orders at the end of the day, and it is simpler and clearer for allies to send cards.

6. If the landlord's peasants have good cards, they may not push the cards, but take advantage of the situation and wait for opportunities to slip cards. However, they must be at least 89% sure to do so, otherwise it may be more beneficial to the landlord.

Section 3 Farmers' Cooperation

When Ssangyong goes overseas, tacit cooperation is the key. The fun of Landlord Fighting lies in the "fighting". As a master in the "fighting" world, how to be a good farmer and how to cooperate with allies in playing cards is a reflection of tactics and technology.

The most important thing about Landlords is cooperation. For example, if the landlord plays the top card in the family (door panel), the landlord checks the card, and the partner receives the card, then the landlord will have a great sense of urgency and force his allies. This will easily destroy the landlord's originally planned route of playing cards. At this time, the door panel should conserve its strength and prepare for a preemptive strike. Of course, Landlords are ever-changing and there is no fixed pattern. It is necessary to analyze and judge the cards and card types of opponents and allies in a timely manner and adapt flexibly.

1. The slogan is clear

In the poker game, players communicate not by words or gestures, which are all fouls, but by card language, which is every hand played by the player. Each card type represents a language. By understanding this language, the two farmers can unify their thoughts and work together to maximize the power of the cards until they win. Through the early stage of playing cards, the two farmers clearly judged the landlord's strong cards and weak points, determined the main attack items, and clearly communicated them to their allies with sign language, achieving the goal of attacking the weak with strong force and ultimately winning. To make your cards clear, you must first be "accurate", and secondly, you must be "clear". If you do not correctly judge the situation, every time you play a card, it will be wrong. Even if the information is accurately conveyed to your companions, it will be useless and will be a disservice.

2. Clear division of labor

The division of labor is to determine where you should be in the game based on the cards in your hand, and to decide whether you are "leaving the house" or "top of the house." "Liao family" means the main attack, trying to play out all the cards by yourself and win; "top family" has to sacrifice yourself to preserve the strength of your allies, try your best to be responsible for the top cards, and cooperate with your allies to play out all the cards! This is important tactical coordination and an important magic weapon for farmers to win.

At this time, the "top family" has to take on important tasks such as top cards, passing cards, and luring the landlord.

(1) How to top the card. In some card games, after the landlord plays the card, he may win by passing a "waste card". If the hand cannot pass smoothly, the landlord will lose, so the "top card" is very important. The "top player" must first judge the cards in the landlord's hand that need to be passed based on the card situation, and he must resolutely top the cards, even if his own cards are torn to pieces. However, when you top the card, you must also pay attention to preserving your strength. For example, if the landlord does not want a single card or a pair of cards, then you must consider that the landlord may have a straight in his hand. Therefore, when you top the card, you must also try to retain a big straight to suppress the landlord at critical times. When top-up cards, you should also consider how big a card is appropriate to top-up, not only to withstand the landlord, but also to allow allies to smoothly receive the cards.

(2) How to pass cards Passing cards is an important technique and tactic for cooperation between allies. When you have no cards to play, you must transfer the card rights to your allies, and at the same time prevent the landlord from taking the opportunity to pass the cards along. This is very important for the "top player" to determine the card distribution of allies and landlords, and seize the opportunity to accurately pass cards to allies.

For example, if the landlord opens a single card first and plays a single card 4, and the landlord chooses to pass the card, then we can make a preliminary judgment: In one case, the ally's cards are very neat, and there is no single card; in the second case, the ally's cards are relatively neat, with big single cards, and you don't want to waste your card power to suppress the single card 4; in the third case, the ally's cards are very messy, and there is no possibility of slipping cards, and passing cards may block the small cards you need to pass. At this time, you have to make a decision based on the type of cards in your hand, or take the initiative to play a big card, and after obtaining the card rights, change the card path and pass the cards to your allies; or you can take advantage of the trend and wait for opportunities to slip cards.

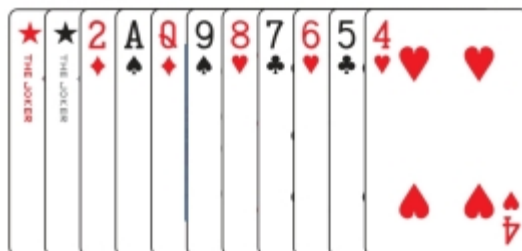

(3) How to lure the enemy. At certain critical moments, the "top player" can play cards that do not follow common sense and confuse the landlord. If your card pattern is very messy, you can play the big card first to give the landlord the illusion that he is slipping. The landlord will forcefully suppress it or play the big card without a successful card. This may break up the landlord's card pattern or disrupt his plan.

For example, if the "top player" has three cards left in his hand, 2, 4, and 5, and the landlord holds a rocket, the "top player" can play 2 first to report a double, which gives the landlord a sense of urgency and makes it difficult to judge the type of cards in your hand. The landlord is likely to suppress the double king, thus reducing losses. For another example, after the "top player" plays a straight, there are only a few scattered cards left (there is no possibility of running away), but the landlord is worried about the farmers running away, so he has no choice but to suppress it. The landlord's cards are broken up, and there are several more single cards. The top player creates opportunities for his allies to win.

For example

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

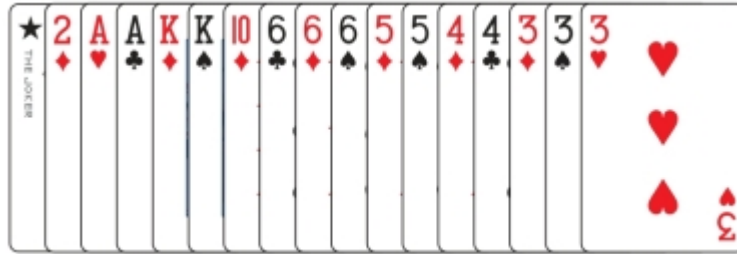

Analysis: This is the late stage of the game, and the farmer (south) plays the card. Because considering that the landlord's king has not yet come out, a 2 should be played first. If the landlord explodes, the farmer wins and wins twice as much; if the landlord suppresses the king, the landlord wins and the farmer loses twice as much. In the actual battle, the farmer (south) misjudged the card type and card strength distribution of his allies and played 22, forcing the landlord to play rocket to win, while the farmer lost twice as much. Therefore, luring the enemy to win is an advanced skill in Landlord. If you have to use your own weak cards to compete with the landlord's strong cards, you will definitely lose.

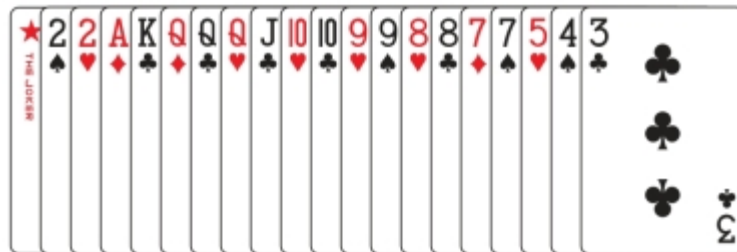

The role of "living home" must be played in a subtle way and must not be too arrogant. The cards in the hands of "Liujia" are generally relatively neat, but there are not many big cards that can be used, so these big cards must be used wisely. The intention of slipping cards should not be too obvious, otherwise the landlord will suppress you severely and prevent you from obtaining the right to play cards, and no matter how neat the cards are, you will not be able to escape.

For example

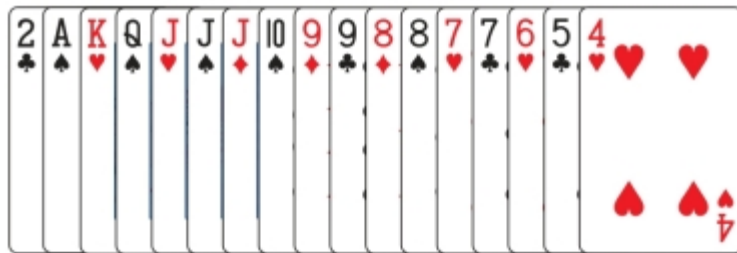

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: The Landlord has more big cards, but the cards are scattered and there are more small single cards; the Farmer (East) has neat cards, and they can slip away as long as they can get the right to the cards.

1. The landlord's first card is 4, the farmer (east) brings the card 7, the farmer (west)'s top card is A, and the landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (west) changed the card path and produced a three-band pair of 333+44, and the landlord QQQ+88 managed the card.

3. The landlord continues to play the single card 5, the farmer (west) removes the top card of KK, the landlord passes the single card A, the farmer (east) plays 2 to control, the landlord PASS.

4. Farmer (East) has a straight of 456789, and the landlord PASS.

5. The farmer (East) has no choice but to win 8910JQKA, and the landlord can do nothing.

6. The farmer (East) wins by playing JJ.

The farmer (East), who is positioned as "Liujia", has only 2 big cards in his hand, and the chance of obtaining the right to win the card is very slim. Therefore, playing cards carefully and keeping a low profile is the key to winning. In the first round, the landlord opened the first single card, and the farmer (East) brought the single card 7. He did a good job of concealment. Many players will be confused. The farmer (East)'s 7 can be played in a straight sequence without any cards. But then the landlord will judge that the farmer (East)'s card pattern is very neat, which will arouse the landlord's vigilance and will not let the farmer (East) easily get the right to the cards. The farmer (west) played A on top, and the farmer (east) did not play 2 to receive the card. On the contrary, the farmer (east)'s intention to run away from the card was too obvious, and the landlord would suppress it forcefully. In the third round, the landlord played A, and the farmer (East) played 2 to control. The cards in the landlord's hand had not been sorted out, so he did not play the king to suppress. The farmer (East) finally got a hand of cards and won the game.

3. Play cards in reverse

Through the landlord's playing method and the first hand of cards played by yourself or your allies, you can start to judge the landlord's weaknesses and the strengths of your companions, play cards in the opposite direction, and take the initiative to attack the landlord's weaknesses.

4. Focus on the front line

Through early observation, the two farmers found the landlord's weakness, unified their thinking, and focused on the front line. Never change the signs at will to give the landlord a chance to breathe when he is exhausted. When playing cards, you must assess the situation. If you have a strong pair of cards, you can play a single card first, cooperate with your allies, and after destroying the landlord's pair 2, focus on the pair of cards. After receiving the ally's cards, you cannot easily change the route of playing cards (except that the cards in your hand are very strong, you can control the sending and receiving, and you can contain the landlord). Tactically, it is most taboo to play single cards and pairs of cards alternately, as the probability of losing is more than 90%.

5. Wheel battle

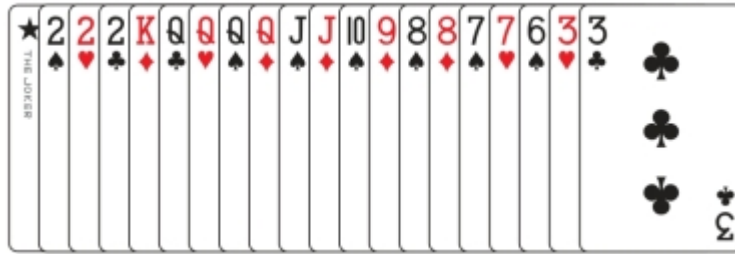

The two farmers reached a tacit understanding. The farmer with weaker cards tried his best to protect his partner who had higher cards than himself. He competed with the landlord in the early stage to confuse the landlord and take down the landlord's big card. When the landlord loses his troops, the peasants on the other side who have better cards take the opportunity to fight and achieve the goal of victory.

For example

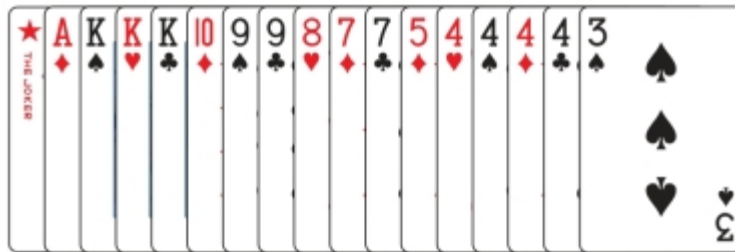

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: From the analysis of the cards, the landlord has Xiao Wang, 222, QQQQ, the card strength is strong enough, the card types are relatively neat, and the probability of winning is higher. However, the farmer in the upper hand has a very neat card pattern, and the farmer in the lower hand holds 4444. It seems that it is not easy for the landlord to win in this round. Whether the two farmers can maximize their card power and cooperate seamlessly is the highlight of this game.

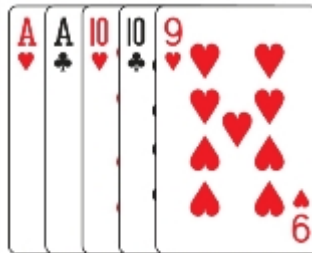

1. The landlord has many single cards. The first choice is to play 7, the farmer (east) takes away the single card 8, the farmer (west) plays the top card 2, the landlord plays Xiaowang to suppress, and the farmer (East) plays the king to control.

2. The farmer (east) changed the card path and played 77, and the farmer (west) played JJ to receive the card. The cards in the landlord's hand were not neat, so he did not use 22 to suppress it and chose PASS.

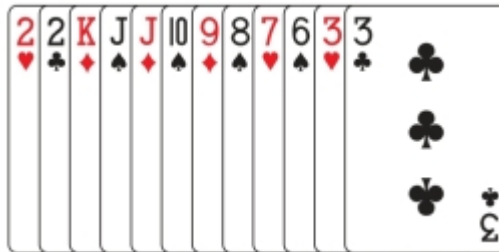

3. After the farmer (West) got the card right, he played the plane 555666+3+8. The landlord saw that the farmer had few cards left and played the bomb QQQQ.

4. The landlord continued to play a single card of 8, and the farmer (east) brought a single card of 10. The farmer (west) decisively opened AAA and played the top card of A, and the landlord played 2 to suppress it.

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

5. The landlord plays a single card J, the farmer (East) plays A, and the landlord plays 2 to suppress.

6. The landlord made a straight 678910J and had four cards left in his hand. The farmer (East) played a bomb of 4444.

7. The farmer (east) plays 99, the farmer (west) receives the card 1010, and the landlord PASS.

8. The farmers (West) are out of AA, and the landlords are powerless.

9. The farmer (West) wins with a single card of 9.

The farmers relied on tacit cooperation to win high scores. In the first round, the landlord played a small king, hoping to gain a hand of cards. The farmer (east) played a king to suppress it. The landlord was unexpected, and the card rights were lost, and the card path was disrupted. Farmer (East) played a great king in this hand, breaking the rules. When there were still three 2s left, he took the lead in playing the king and decisively suppressed it, sending the message to his allies that he still had a strong hand. In the second round, after the farmer (East) got the card, he changed the card path and played the right card. The ally received the card and the landlord checked, exposing the landlord's weak card pattern. The farmer (East) cleverly passed the cards, allowing his allies to obtain the much-desired hand of cards. The farmer (West) took the card from JJ, showing a very high technical and tactical level. He did not let the landlord take JJ away, and got the right to the card again. In the third round, the farmers fled by plane, forcing the landlords to bomb to maximize their profits. The cards in the landlord's hand are not neat and he blows up blindly, which increases the losses. In the fourth round, the farmer (West) decisively opened AAA and revealed the top card of A. The "door panel" effect was fully demonstrated, and the landlord's wish to take away the single jack was also shattered. In the fifth round, the landlord played a single card, and the farmer (East) played the top card A. The two farmers took turns playing, maximizing their card strength and preserving the AA of their allies, paving the way for winning the card. In the sixth round, the landlord had four cards left in his hand, and the farmer (East) decisively exploded to prevent the landlord from slipping cards. In the seventh round, the farmer (East) correctly judged the cards in the hands of the landlord and his allies, played the right cards, and passed the cards reasonably, which was a winning move.

In this game, if the farmer plays conservatively, the king does not suppress decisively, and the bomb is not fired at the right time, the farmer will be very passive if he wants to win. If the farmers do not have the awareness to actively cooperate, have no awareness of top cards, and do not focus on the landlord's weak cards, then it is reasonable for the landlord to win.

6. Spirit of sacrifice

The essence and charm of Doudizhu lies in "fighting", which is actually the spirit of cooperation, putting self-sacrifice first, and sacrificing the individual to fulfill the greater self. The big players top the cards, split the cards and pass them around, and they must madly suppress the landlord no matter what (even if the remaining cards are all in pieces).

7. Avoid working in isolation

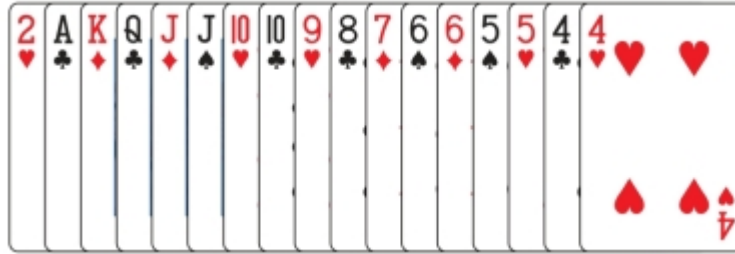

Doing things one by one means not seeing the overall situation, not understanding the information of your partner's cards, not guessing your partner's intentions in playing cards, and playing cards according to your own wishes. Farmers go back and forth and suppress each other, resulting in a snipe and clam fight.

For example

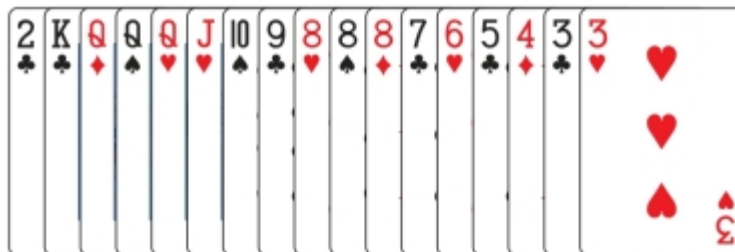

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: From the perspective of card strength, the landlord has the upper hand, but the farmer (south) has a very good card pattern. It is not possible to draw a conclusion prematurely as to which side will win. The landlord holds a rocket, and the unseen card is 8. He also has absolute control over single cards, pairs of cards, and three belts. He chooses the straight 34567 for the first opening. One is to get rid of the weak cards first, and the other is to see whether the 8 constitutes a bomb. The farmer (south) 78910J takes control, and the farmer (east) 910JQK takes the card and obtains the right to the card. The farmer (east) plays 8883, and the landlord suppresses it with AAA+3. The landlords played single cards, the peasants took the top cards, and the landlords suppressed them step by step. They were all under control. The farmers never got the initiative again and ended in defeat.

In fact, in this game, the landlord played a straight, which gave the farmer a chance to win. However, the farmers (East) took the cards from their allies without running the card route, depriving their allies of their only chance to win cards, and then handed over the card rights to the landlord, missing the opportunity to win cards. If the landlord opens the straight, the farmer (south) controls, the farmer (east) chooses to check, and the landlord PASS. Farmers (South) out company 445566, landlord PSAA. Farmer (South) made a straight 10JQKA and placed an order of 2. At this time, the landlord is forced to a dead end. If he chooses to give up, he will be beaten by the peasants. The landlord can only give it a try and play rockets, but no matter how he plays, the single card in his hand cannot escape the control of the peasant (South) 2. The landlord loses the card and loses twice as much. Therefore, it is very important for farmers to cooperate. You must understand your allies' cards. Don't blindly accept your partner's cards when you have no successful cards. Only when your partner's top card is weak or your ally passes the cards to you, you can accept the cards reasonably.

8. Avoid being conservative or aggressive

Some players play cards very aggressively. There is nothing wrong with being a landlord and winning or losing is your own business. However, being a farmer will affect your teammates. Playing cards without a strategy, skipping the level and suppressing cards, blindly exploding, just for your own temporary pleasure will bring greater losses. Some players are conservative in their poker playing, timid, afraid to take responsibility, unable to suppress decisively, miss good opportunities, and end up with a bunch of big cards in their hands.

For example

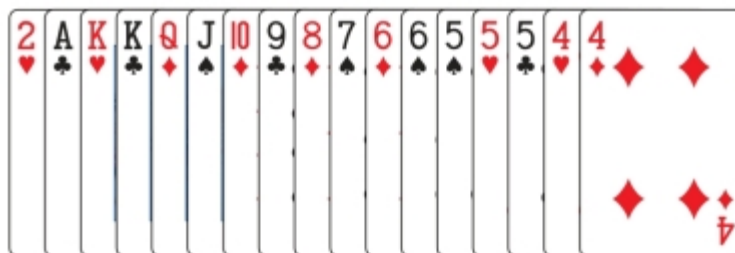

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: The landlords are stronger than the farmers in terms of card strength and card shape, but the next farmer has a bomb and the upper farmer has neat cards. Who can win? Can the two farmers join forces to create a wonderful collaboration? We'll see!

1. The landlord plays a single card of 8, the farmer (south) checks, the farmer (east) directly plays a 2 to suppress, the landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (East) played a straight 78910JQKA and obtained the card right.

3. The farmer (East) played a consecutive pair of 445566, and the cards in his hand reported even - 5 and K. The landlord played 1010JJQQ to suppress, and the farmer PASS.

4. The landlord saw that the farmer from the previous family reported double, and chose to play the single card K. The farmer (south) played 2 to suppress, and the landlord took control of the king.

5. The landlord plays a straight 45678, and the farmer (South) plays a straight 78910J to control it. The landlord is powerless.

6. The farmer (south) plays the single card 4, the farmer (east) passes the single card 5, the farmer (south) sees all the cards, and directly plays the bomb 3333.

7. The farmer (south) plays the single card 7, the farmer (east) plays the king, and the farmer wins.

The cooperation between the farmers in this game is a classic. They used their best card power to defeat the landlord together. In the first round, the landlord opened the first single card. The farmer (south) saw that he had more single cards in his hand and had no hope of slipping cards. However, the 3333 in his hand could act as a deterrent, suppressing the landlord at the critical moment and protecting his allies from slipping cards. The farmer (east) directly played 2 to suppress. The landlord considered that his hand was strong and did not want to dismantle the rocket prematurely, so he chose to let the farmer take a hand of cards. Peasant (East) decisively suppressed and obtained the card rights, which was the key to winning this game. If the farmer (East) chooses to pass the K card, he may not get the card right for the whole game, and he can only keep the card in his hand no matter how good the card is. In the fourth round, the landlord played a single card, and the farmer (south) decisively played 2 suppressions, which opened up the landlord's rocket and created an opportunity for the farmer to win in the later stage. At this time, the farmer (South) did not blindly explode, because the ally's hand reported double. The farmer (South) judged that the ally had two single cards left in his hand, and he had to get two hands of cards before he could send his companion away. In the fifth round, the landlord played a straight and sent it to the farmer (East), and the farmer (East) got a hand of cards. In the sixth round, the farmer (East) remembered the cards clearly, saw all the cards, and played 3333. Farmers win and their profits are maximized.

The two farmers memorized the cards clearly and made accurate judgments. They attacked decisively when they needed to suppress and did not rush in and explode when they needed to tolerate. They worked together and contributed to a wonderful game.

🌸Farmers' cooperation skills

1. The landlord's upper house does not place cards, and the landlord's lower house does not hold up cards.

The landlords divide the work and cooperate with each other. "The upper house does not put the cards, and the lower house does not hold the cards." This is the basic principle. If a certain farmer has a good hand pattern and a strong hand, he can break the rules, take advantage of the situation, make a strong move, and finally win.

2. Don't put 10 in singles, but exceed 8 in doubles

The top card of the previous player must be at least a flower card, and try not to be less than 10. It is best to get the pair of cards to 88. First, it will prevent the landlord from taking away the small pair, and second, it will make it easier for allies to pick up the cards.

3. Don't oppress your own people

The farmers suppress each other, lose their card power, and benefit the landlords. This is very obvious, but some players are most likely to make this mistake. They usually believe that they are the "savior" and they can only defeat the landlords, completely ignoring the cooperation and support of their allies. In this way, they will not only reap the consequences of their losses, but will also implicate their allies.

4. Landowner's declaration

When the landlord submits a bill, if he can control the bill, there is no need to say anything. Otherwise, it depends on the cooperation skills among the farmers. The most basic routine: the landlord plays a single card, and the top landlord uses the highest card to resist the landlord in turn, and then plays a pair of cards and passes the cards to the next player. After the next player receives the card, he repeats the routine.

5. The landlord reported double

The landlord reports an even number. If it can be clearly determined that there are two single cards left in the landlord's hand, he can play the right card to run away all the cards or play the right card and pass the cards to his allies. If it cannot be determined whether the landlord has a pair of cards or a single card in his hand, he will continue to play single cards until the landlord splits the pair or takes away a card and there is still one card in his hand, and then play the cards according to the above playing method.

6. Don't be impatient, little couple.

If you have a lot of small pairs in your hand, but there is a controlling card - king or 22, then don't worry, wait patiently, and let the opponent play with confidence. When the landlord's pair is exhausted, the small pair in your hand will also become a controlling card. When the landowner places his order, use control cards to suppress it. Even if the landowner holds the king or 2, he still has to watch the small pair go away.

7. The landlord's cards are very weak, so try not to pass them along.

The landlord's cards are very weak, so try not to pass them along. The first is that even if you bring one or two cards, you can't get away; the second is that it is easy to withstand the small cards that the next player wants to pass, thereby losing the chance of winning; the third is that the cards are easily exposed, making it easier for the landlord to play cards; the fourth is to retain a variety of card types and suppress them at critical times.

8. Farmers rarely play single cards

If farmers do not produce single cards, they will not create opportunities for landlords to pass single cards. If the landlord wants to play a single card, he must consume a hand of card power, which gradually consumes the landlord's card power, and the farmer waits for an opportunity to slip away the card.

For example

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

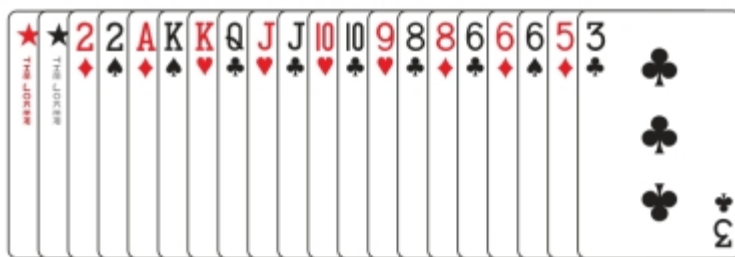

Analysis: The landlord had many big cards and strong cards, but the landlord did not expect that the farmers' cards were also very neat. Each of the two farmers had a bomb in their hands, which created great obstacles for the landlord to win. The landlord first opened the third zone with 555+33, and the farmer (east) played 666+33. The landlord used AAA+KK to control it. The farmer (east) card type was relatively neat, so he chose to explode 4444, and the landlord PASS. The farmer (East) continues to play 78910J, and the landlord PASS. The farmer (East) played a single card of 5 and reported 22. The landlord played 2 to suppress, and the farmer PASS. The landlord plays a single card 2 again. If the farmer (South) plays bomb QQQQ, the landlord plays a rocket, and the farmer cannot hold back the straight of 78910J, and the landlord wins the card.

So, how can farmers cooperate to win this game? The landlord opened the first straight 78910J, and the farmer PASS. The landlord comes out of the third zone 555+33, the farmer (east) 666+33, the landlord uses AAA+KK to control it, the farmer (south) blasts QQQQ, the landlord PASS. The farmer (south) played 77, and the farmer (east) received the card with 22. The landlord lost the game regardless of whether he chose to check or suppress. In this game, if the Farmer (East) chooses to explode first, the probability of winning is very small; the Farmer (South) bombs first to suppress the landlord at the appropriate time, and then plays the right card, allowing the Farmer (East) to take away 22, which is the key to winning the card.

For example

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Analysis: Judging from the cards, the strength of the cards is average. Each player holds a bomb. No one wants to show weakness. There will be a lot of fire. So who will win and how much benefit will they gain? The landlord has certain control over single cards, pairs of cards, and straights, but the unseen cards 4 and 7 in his hand constitute bombs and are distributed in the hands of the two farmers.

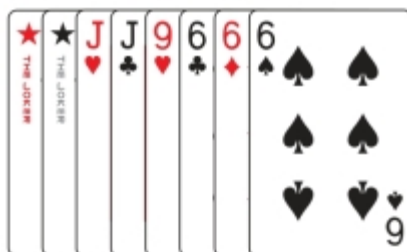

1. The landlord opened the first single card 5, and wanted to take advantage of the situation and play the cards neatly. The farmer (south) passed the single card 6, the farmer (east) played the top card K, the landlord passed the A, and the farmer (south) removed the 22 suppression and got the card right.

2. The farmer (south) plays a single card 3, and the farmer (east) brings a 10, retaining control over the card shape. The landlord (west) passes the single card Q, the farmer (south) checks, the farmer (east) opens AA to suppress, and the landlord controls 22.

3. The landlord plays 88, the farmer (East) plays 99, the landlord uses 1010 to control it, the farmer (East) plays QQ, and the landlord uses KK to control it.

4. The landlord played card 3, the farmer (south) passed the card J, the farmer (east) played A, the landlord played 2 to suppress, and the farmer (south) decisively exploded 4444.

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

5. The farmer (south) played a straight 910JQKA, and the landlord PSAA.

6. Farmers (South) placed an order of 2 and quoted double 55. The landlord suppressed the king and the farmers PASS.

7. The landlord played three pairs of 666+JJ, and his hand reported double - King and 9. The farmer (East) played a bomb of 7777.

8. Farmer (East) scores 33, Farmer (South) wins with 55.

With this deck of cards, the farmers, through perfect coordination, forced the landlords to make mistakes while busy and miss the opportunity to win. If the landowner's card counting skills are deeper and the card counting is more sophisticated, he can determine that the next farmer has an empty small pair in the late game (seventh round), and the three-band single is 666+9, leaving the king and JJ, then victory can be guaranteed. In the process of playing cards, the cooperation of the farmers is also classic. In the first round, the landlord played a single card, and the farmer (south) had a relatively complete card. He waited for an opportunity to slip the cards, decisively removed the 22 suppression, and got the card right; in the second round, the farmer (east) opened the AA suppression land. The Lord, successfully opened the Landlord's 22, the Farmer decisively opened the cards and pressed forward step by step, preventing the Landlord from easily getting the card rights; in the seventh round, the Landlord reported an even number, and the Farmer (East) judged that the Landlord had a king and a single card in his hand, so he decisively exploded and won the victory. In this game, the peasants pressed forward step by step, suppressing the landlord psychologically, causing the landlord to make mistakes in his panic and return defeated.

The original intention of playing poker is for recreation and relaxation. You should not pay too much attention to winning or losing. But there are always people who get carried away midway through the game, lose all their sense, and enter a gambling state of mind. Those who win want to win more, and those who lose want to make up their money immediately. As a result, the good entertainment was ruined by himself, resulting in a loss of money and a sad mood. Afterwards, he came to his senses and knew something was wrong, but could he change it next time? Still a question mark.

Chapter 4: Card counting, card counting, and card guessing

俗话说，好运三次，已到房梁。斗地主靠运气赢牌只是暂时的，记牌和算牌才是制胜法宝。三人打牌，多算多胜，少算胜少，不算难胜。

Doudizhu must have great wisdom. If you can remember most of the cards that have been played, can calculate which card types you have control over, and can guess the strength and type of cards in the hands of your opponent or ally, you can have the entire game under control. You can freely move and retract the cards, lead the opponent by the nose, and let the opponent tear down the east wall to make up for the west wall. You can only parry and have no power to fight back. Sometimes there is a huge disparity in card strength between the two sides. Even if they cannot win, their opponents will be impressed by their careful thinking.

Section 1: Marks

Remembering cards is the basic skill of Landlords. The ability to remember cards is directly proportional to the skill of Doudizhu. The more cards you remember, the better your skill in Doudizhu will be. Because only by memorizing the cards can you know how to play cards and how to pass the cards; whether your cards are big ones, whether you can explode them, and whether you can win the cards. If you memorize the cards clearly, you can make the right choice.

1. Remember the "broken cards": remember the card points that you don't have in your hand. Always pay attention to the cards played by others during the playing process, and remember whether these card points have been played. This is very important. From the middle to the end of the game, you can determine whether there is a bomb in someone else's hand and plan the layout correctly.

2. Remember the hole cards: The suits and sizes of the three hole cards should be clearly remembered. Through the playing situation and the cards in your own hand, you can judge the type and value of the cards in the landlord's hand. If the small card point in the hole card has not been released yet, and the same card point in other suits has been released as a single card or a pair of cards, it can be judged that the landlord may have a small straight card left in his hand. At this time, the farmer must try to maintain the straight card shape and suppress the landlord in time to win. The hole card is the exposure point of the landlord's cards. You must pay attention to the details of the hole card, find out the flaws in the landlord's cards, and accurately judge the strength and type of the landlord's cards.

3. Remember the key cards: Remember "10" and "7", these two cards are the connecting cards in the straight. If "10" and "7" come out, you can conclude that others do not have a straight hand.

4. Remember the card points: Beginners should first remember the big card points and their own "breaking cards", practice step by step, and slowly improve. Landlord masters must memorize all the cards, and be able to use their opponents or allies to play cards, and combine their own card characteristics to analyze the distribution of the remaining cards in the hands of the other two players.

Memory Tips: There are 14 categories of playing cards: 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, J, Q, K, A, 2, and King. Except for King and King, the rest of the cards are of four suits. Generally, 54 cards are divided into four sections for memorization: 3-7, 10-A, 8 and 9, 2 and king. It is easier to analyze, understand and remember, 3-7 (5 cards), 10-A (5 cards), 8 and 9 (two consecutive cards), 2 and king (consecutive big cards). The largest straight is 12, so how to calculate how many straights there are? (Last card point + 1) - First card point. Make it simple, stop counting them one by one. For example: How many straight cards are there in 4-J? Use the formula $(11+1)-4=8$ pictures.

Section 2 Card Counting and Guessing Cards

Card recording is the foundation and analysis is the key. After having an accurate foundation of card recording, you can use your opponent or ally to play cards, and combine your own card characteristics to analyze the card structure of your partner or opponent, so that you can accurately pass or top the cards, and truly "know yourself and the enemy, and you will never be in danger in a hundred battles."

1. Count bombs

If by the end of the game, the "breaking card" in your hand has not appeared, it is probably these cards that constitute a bomb.

Some bombs are easier to identify. There is no king in the hand, single 2 suppresses and directly gets the card right, most likely with rockets. There is no 2 in his hand. After playing the A, Xiao Wang directly suppresses or directly checks the card. The probability of 20% bomb is very high. The landlord has no 9, starting with 345678. Both farmers choose to check. At this time, we need to focus on whether the 9 becomes a bomb. Generally speaking, for these relatively "obvious" signs, you only need to play one or two more hands to verify your judgment.

2. Count big names

The big and small kings and four 2s, these 6 big card points are also the cards that everyone focuses on. You must clearly determine the distribution by opening the cards.

If your local owner has a king and a pair of 2, and after the ace is played, the farmer will suppress the small king, then there must be a family holding a pair of 2; if your local owner has a king of single 2, the first single card is opened, and a farmer will suppress by 2, then the other farmer will most likely have a pair of 2. In short, you need to observe and judge during the game, and the key cards must be remembered clearly.

3. Guess the straight

7 and 10 are the life roots of Shunzi. Some people say, "There are as many straights as there are 7s and 10s out there." Although this is not accurate, the converse must be true, that is, if all 7s and 10s have been played, there must be no straights left.

For example, if three 10s have come out and the last 10 is missing, it is necessary to guess that there should be another 10 straight.

4. Count three belts

A "broken card" or a card with only one card in your hand can easily lead to a three-band card pattern. In the middle of the game, it should be clearer to judge whether there are still three strips on the cards. How to split and keep cards to control the opponent, and card counting runs through it.

The card types of triple belts and straights tend to be consistent. Be sure to accurately judge the card type and size. Do not actively give cards to your opponents and hand over the card rights easily.

5. Guess the sign path

Through the row of cards, you can judge the card pattern of your ally or opponent; through the details, you can judge the card type and strength of your ally or opponent. For example, the landlord's three trump cards often reveal a lot of information. Note whether these cards have appeared before, which is very helpful for guessing the landlord's cards.

Section 3: Dismantling and Exploring Cards

Break the cards

With a deck of cards, after starting your hand, you first consider how to combine them most advantageously. Only by splitting the cards rationally, using the strong to attack the weak, and using the long to attack the weak, can you get the maximum benefit. However, since the poker situation is constantly changing, the splitting of cards is not static.

The skill of splitting cards is very high. Not only do you have to consider whether this hand can obtain the card rights, but also how to play the next hand, how to deal with the "waste cards" that have been removed, and a series of other issues. Card splitting generally follows the principle of "big" and "little". "Big" means that the cards should be big and the cards should be big. A large card means that the card is powerful and can suppress the opponent as much as possible; a large card type means that the card is an advantage and cannot be controlled by others as much as possible. "Less" means fewer rounds, and try to finish all your cards in the fewest rounds.

"Splitting cards" is actually the conversion of card types. What is the most reasonable way to convert? Pair cards are often mixed in straight cards. If you want to break up pairs and preserve straight cards, you cannot produce too many "waste cards", otherwise the gains outweigh the losses. It is recommended that for straights with less than six cards, a maximum of 2 pairs can be broken. No matter how long a straight is, a maximum of 3 pairs cannot be broken. The exception is those who passively suppress cards. At the same time, it is necessary to judge based on the actual situation, which type of cards is more beneficial to split into, and use your own strengths to attack the other party's weaknesses.

Exploration card

In the process of playing cards, there are many times when you need to take the initiative to explore the cards, grasp the situation as early as possible, and make reasonable arrangements. Don't just wait for others to play the cards neatly and then make adjustments, otherwise you will miss the best opportunities. For example, if you have KKQQQ1010 but no A in your hand, and your opponent plays the right card, instead of playing 1010, play KK directly to test the card point A. If the opponent is not suppressed, look for the right time and then use QQQ to see if there is AAA suppression. If there is no suppression, then you can judge that point A is exploded.

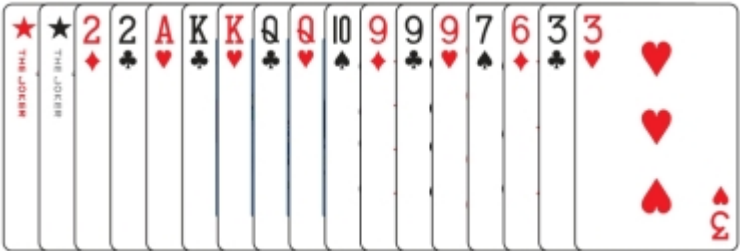

Use the cards in your hand to explore the path and analyze which cards in your hand are the biggest (except bombs that can suppress them). For example, if you have a single king, 22, AA, K, QQ, JJJ in your hand, you must first use the pair of queens to detect the cards. If the opponent does not play a pair of kings to suppress it, then the probability of the opponent having 3 kings is very high. It is recommended to put the three jacks at the end, otherwise the card power may be handed over to the opponent again.

By actively exploring cards, you can master the strength and distribution of card types, and you can flexibly adjust your tactics according to the actual situation, seize the opportunity to exert force, and lock in the victory. The game of cards is unpredictable. It is necessary to comprehensively analyze the situation on the field and not play cards according to the routine, but to keep the same with changes. This tactic can only be realized with accurate analysis and judgment of the distribution of card strength and card types.

For example

West:

South:

East:

Trump card:

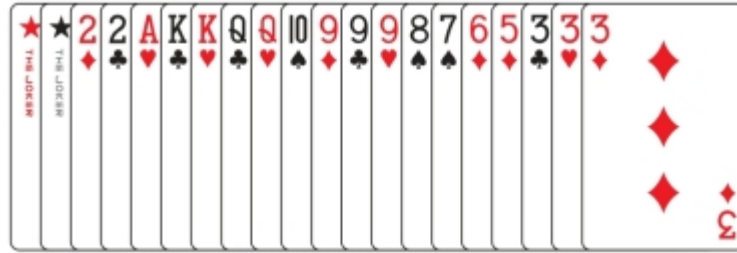

Analysis: The Western player held double kings and pair 2, and decisively called the landlord with hole cards 3, 5, and 8, which made the landlord's cards more neat. Although the players in the east and south don't have many big cards in their hands, they each have a pair of bombs and the cards are relatively neat. Judging from the strength and type of cards, both sides are equally matched. Which side can win this game? The battle of intelligence, technology and psychology begins now.

The Landlord fight starts with recording the cards. The unseen cards in the Landlord's hand are 4 and J. Pay special attention to whether these two cards appear in the row of cards. After comprehensive analysis and judgment, the landowner decided to open the straight 5678910. If he did not see J, he should be wary of bombs with J and be extra cautious in playing cards.

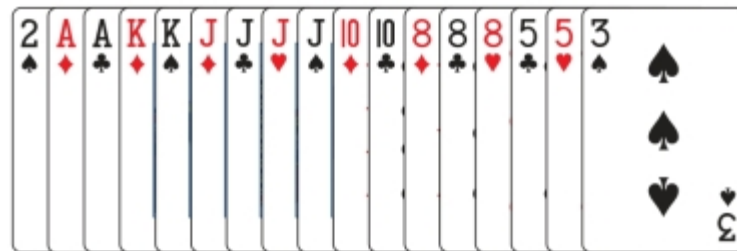

The farmer (south) has a very neat card pattern and has J bomb in his hand. If he cooperates with his allies, he still has a great chance of winning. But there are many unseen cards in the hand - 4, 6, 7, 9, Q and king, so remember them clearly. The landlord's first hand came out with a straight of 5678910, and he saw 6, 7, and 9. Next, he focused on 4, Q, and King. During the process of playing cards, the cards must be received and played decisively and neatly, so as to convey to the allies that the strength and shape of the cards are good. At the same time, the landlord is aware that the landlord will be timid when playing cards, with many more worries, changing the rhythm of the landlord's cards and blocking the smoothness of his cards.

The cards in the hands of the farmer (East) are also good. The unseen cards in his hand are 3, 8, J, K, and King. These cards are the focus of memory in the row of cards. The cards must be played neatly and decisively, suppressing the landlords forcefully, not giving the landlords a chance to breathe, and at the same time conveying the message to allies that there is a bomb in their hands.

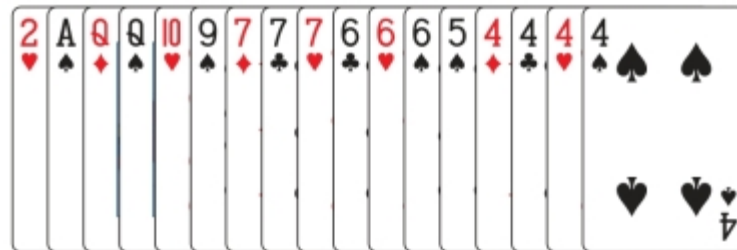

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord draws a straight 5678910, and the farmer PASS.
2. The landlord plays the single card A, the farmer (south) plays 2 to suppress, and the landlord PASS.
3. The farmer (south) plays the single card 3, the farmer (east) passes the single card 9, the landlord removes the pair 2 and controls it, and the farmer checks the card.
4. The landlord gives 99, the farmer (south) gives KK to control, and the landlord PASS.

5. The farmer (south) continues to play a single card of 5, and the farmer (east) plays a 2 to receive the card strongly, and the landlord PASS.

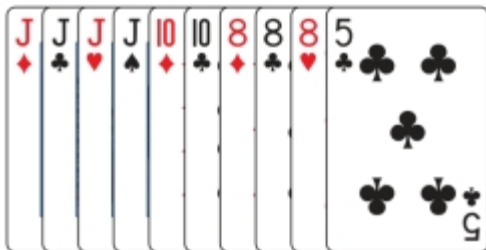

6. The farmer (east) took out the plane $666777 + 5 + 10$, and the landlord PASS.

7. The farmer (east) plays QQ, the landlord passes KK, and the farmer (south) controls it with AA.

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

8. The farmer (south) plays the single card 5, the farmer (east) passes the A, the landlord plays 2, the farmer (south) passes the card, and the farmer (east) plays the bomb 4444, ending the game.

Analysis: The landlord chooses a straight 5678910. If the farmer suppresses it, he can see J. If he is not controlled and gets a hand of cards, he can also judge that there is a high possibility that J will become a bomb.

In the second round, the landlord plays the single card A, and if the farmer plays 2 to control it, then the 22 in his hand can control the type of the opponent's card.

In the third round, the farmer (south) played a single card and made the right choice. Through the row cards in the previous round, the landlord directly played the single card A. The farmer (South) judged that the landlord had no single card in his hand, so he focused on the landlord's weakness. The farmer (East) did not choose the top card, but passed the single card 9, passing the information to his allies that he could turn the cards into cards. At this time, the landlord was in a dilemma and demolished 22, losing control of the pair of cards.

In the fourth round, the landlord played 99 and wanted to pass KK. The farmer (south) had a good top card and did not give the landlord any chance to check.

In the fifth round, the farmer (south) opened 55 and continued to play a single card of 5. The idea of playing cards was very clear. The farmer (East) played 2 and received the card very decisively. The landlord did not make a successful card, so he could only choose to check.

In the seventh round, the farmer (East) judged through the row of cards that the largest pair of cards, AA, was in the hands of the ally (because the landlord had played single 2 and single A), and chose QQ to pass the cards to the ally. The cards were recorded and counted very accurately. At this time, if the farmer (South) can know that there are five cards left in the ally's hand, he can know through card counting, card counting, and card guessing that the five cards are A and 4444 (in the second round, the landlord plays a single card A, and he has AA in his hand, so he can determine that the ally has A left; his own "broken card" 4 It has not been seen before, and it must be a bomb. The ally receives the card decisively and has strong card strength, so it is judged that the ally has 4444), decisively plays JJJJ, and passes the single card to the ally. The farmer (East) passes the single A and plays 4444. The farmer wins and will win a big victory.

In the eighth round, the farmer (south) judged that the remaining cards in his ally's hand were single card A and 4444. He wanted his ally to pass A and had 4444 left in his hand. He wanted to play two bombs or even three bombs to win the card, so he played a single card 5. The farmer (east) passed the single card A, and the landlord (west) also passed 2. This is if the farmer (south) did not judge the remaining cards in the landlord's hand and wanted to play JJJJ, then the landlord played rockets, and the landlord would win (the score doubled). The farmer (east) held 4444, but was unable to recover.

The three players all have relatively strong cards, and there are many "broken cards" in their hands, which is a great test of the players' ability to remember cards. Card counting, card guessing and card splitting are higher-level tests for Doudizhu players. With this deck of cards, the farmer side achieved a bomb winning result. The two farmers cooperated quite well, which is enough for a level of 80 points. The Farmer (East) counts cards accurately, and passes and passes cards reasonably; the Farmer (South) splits the cards and sends out single cards, attacking the landlord's weaknesses, and has a very correct idea of playing cards. If the Farmer (South) can count the cards more accurately in the seventh round, think more, and throw bombs decisively, the Farmer's interests will be maximized; in the Eighth Round, if the Farmer (South) is greedy and plays JJJJ, the Farmer will lose the game. It seems that the Farmer (South) gets half the credit!

This deck of cards fully tests the player's ability to record cards, count cards, and guess cards. It fully demonstrates that accurate judgment can maximize one's own interests, win more points, and lose fewer points.

What often happens in poker is that everything you planned should be impeccable, but an inconspicuous factor leads to the overall failure. And sometimes, when you are about to give up, feel powerless, and have no hope, another inadvertent objective change can actually turn defeat into victory and achieve great success.

Chapter 5 A battle of wits and courage

Only with careful thinking, delicate playing cards, timely suppression, and decisive attacks, can one become a true "Fighting Landlord" master with "both wisdom and courage". The process of playing cards is a game between the two parties. It is not just the farmers fighting the landlords, but of course the landlords are also fighting the peasants. It is not just who has better card luck, but more importantly, the use of techniques and tactics. Only when players can flexibly and skillfully apply some of the methods and skills of Landlord in the game can they win the game quietly.

Section 1 Soft Skills

✿Adjust ideas and attack in the opposite direction

The cards are unpredictable and unpredictable. Through observation and analysis, we must fully understand "change". Whoever changes first will take the initiative. Use your own strengths to attack the other's weaknesses. Use your own strong card types to attack your opponent's weak card types, lead your opponent by the nose, force your opponent to disrupt their card patterns, and create opportunities for winning.

✿Combine virtuality and reality to lure the enemy deeper

Hidden cards

In the process of playing cards, you must pay attention to the cards that have not been exposed. Especially when playing three with one or four with two, try to avoid bringing cards that have never appeared before, so that the opponent cannot see the appearance of "broken cards" and feel the danger of bombs, giving yourself a chance to win.

Hidden card strength, hidden card type, hidden weakness

As landlords, players always survive in the pinch of farmers. Sometimes the card strength does not have an absolute advantage, so you have to act according to your ability. At this time, the skill of playing cards becomes crucial. You must always pay attention to concealing the strength of the cards, concealing the card types, and concealing the weaknesses. The details determine success or failure.

❀Beware of arrogance and impetuosity, and use stillness as a brake

When the card structure is unclear or the winning strategy is not certain, one should use static braking and strike later. When your own card strength is not very strong, you must use hand observation and precise analysis to reasonably suppress your opponent's second hand to gain an advantage. For example, your opponent has the three belts of 10 and Q, and you have the three belts of 4 and A. If the opponent plays a card first, and the three strips of 10 are played, you can't rush to suppress it. You have to wait until the opponent plays the three strips of Q, and then suppress it. Otherwise, you will fall into a trap and hand the card power back to the opponent's hands.

❀Stand still and win by surprise

Select PASS

When your opponent plays multiple big hands in a row, you usually have to give in first, suppress only the last hand, and change the card type to catch your opponent off guard.

When your opponent plays a card and you are hopeless, you should assess the situation and don't randomly split the cards and pass them along. Keep a set of control cards in your hand to suppress them at critical moments and kill them with one move.

Allies suppress decisively and when eager to take action, do not play cards randomly to prevent allies from slipping cards.

Reasonable handicap

The farmer in the "top family" position must restrict the landlord from playing cards, and at the same time, he must give away the cards reasonably. When there is no hope of slipping cards by himself (more or less than one card has no substantial significance on the outcome of the battle), he should not randomly pass the cards to prevent the "leaking family" from holding the small cards.

If the farmer chooses to pass the cards, the landlord will be in a dilemma. It is difficult to judge the type of cards in the farmer's hand. The landlord is under great pressure. Since the cards that originally did not have bombs have not been seen due to the "break card", the landlord may make a mistake in judgment and miss the opportunity to win.

When the cards in the landlord's hand are not neatly arranged, he should reasonably pass the cards (put the upper house, suppress the lower house), and the upper house's cards will pass the useless cards in his hand to achieve the purpose of winning.

✿ Suppress decisively and leave no room for error

In the process of playing cards, you must be highly concentrated, record and count cards accurately, and pay close attention to the situation of the card game. If the cards in your hand are already established, you must suppress them decisively and no longer tolerate it, leaving opportunities for your opponent. Many players hold strong cards and are complacent. They always think that the strength of their opponent's cards is weak, and it doesn't matter if they give up one hand. Little do they know that their opponent's cards are very neat, and they will slip away if they give up one hand.

❁Be methodical and control the rhythm

Play cards quickly and focus on the heart

By playing cards quickly, the opponent's inherent thinking mode and rhythm of playing cards are disrupted, thereby exerting psychological pressure on the opponent, struggling to cope with the cards, and increasing the possibility of making mistakes.

Slow down the pace and defeat yourself without attacking.

If you encounter a player who plays cards quickly, you can deliberately slow down the pace of playing cards, calm down and fight with the opponent, so that the opponent can defeat himself without any attack.

Put me first and have a peaceful mind

During the game, you must adjust your mentality and guard against arrogance and impetuosity. You must not follow the rhythm of others. No matter you are in an advantage or in adversity, you must not mess up your position. You must follow your own established path.

✿Cleverly confuse and fight for spring bravely

In the process of playing cards, the probability of getting a spring card type is very small, just like winning the "jackpot". With spring card types and spring luck, but without the courage to fight for "spring", you will still stay in "winter". Some card types are not completely "spring". When you want to play spring, you must choose to play cards that are easy to control first to confuse the opponent. The opponent may think that the number of small straight cards is too small, or that three 3s are not worth their time with three aces or three 2s. After the small cards passed smoothly and the "spring" result was played, they regretted it.

✿Insight into details and think about hints

The most basic way to suggest is to delay and pretend to think about it.

Suspension breaks spring

The landlord has strong card strength and has the card type to play spring. He has no card type to suppress at all. However, if he deliberately pauses and pretends to think, the landlord will worry about the risk of bombs, strengthen his defensive mentality, and change his card strategy, and spring will not be available.

Impress your allies

As a farmer, if you have a bomb, you can suppress the landlord and double your income. When the landlord is playing cards, he should pause briefly to hint to his allies and maximize the power of his cards.

Split cards to reduce losses

Count the cards accurately and play the cards carefully. When the card strength is really not enough, you cannot force the bomb to be played. It is best to ensure that you win the card first. If the opponent has a bomb, then try to make a posture of slipping the cards, pretending to be suspicious, and let the opponent open the rocket or slide the four cards with two. In principle, the less you lose, the more you win, and reduce the losses.

Section 2 Practical Tips

❁Single card tops Ace

It is very knowledgeable to top "A" with a single card, and the distribution of the big cards in the hands of the three players is immediately revealed; it can be judged whether the landlord is a single 2, or a pair of 2, and the distribution of the big and small kings; sometimes the landlord's pair of 2 can be separated to create conditions for allies to win control of the card; if the landlord checks, single A can get the card.

❁Go 3 and stay 3

When a weak card must be played, the farmer on the landlord's side must play the single card 3. If the ally leaves 3 in the order, the ally cannot give you away anyway; the farmer on the landlord's side must keep the single card 3. When the ally places the order, use 3 to send the ally away.

❁The big king and the little king

The farmer's king generally does not suppress the landlord's little king. The king suppresses the little king. Although he has obtained the card rights, he actually lost the control of the single card in the later stage. After the king is out, the landlord is relieved of his worries. No matter what card type, it may be under the landlord's control.

❁How to use the three belts

When choosing three-band cards, you must consider carefully. You cannot only consider your own cards (except for your own cards), but try to choose the opponent's weak card type. For example, if the opponent's single card is weak, choose a three-band pair, and do not let the opponent bring a single card. Similarly, if the opponent's pair card is weak, choose a three-band single card. You can also disrupt the opponent's card play plan by playing "three cards without a card".

❁Send a single card nearby and a pair far away

If a farmer's card type is scattered and there is no possibility of slipping cards, he must cooperate with his allies to play cards. If the card type is unknown, if he is in the landlord's house, he will send a single card to the ally, because a single card is the most basic card type, this is "send a single card close to"; if If you are in the landowner's home, you have to pass the right cards to your allies, because the right cards are relatively simple cards. This is the so-called "sending a pair far away". You must choose a pair of moderate size, so as not to let the landlord take away the small pair, but also to facilitate the allies to receive the cards.

❁ Card pressing skills

The landlord must pay special attention to the following situations when suppressing cards: 1. The landlord opens a single card first, and the next player directly plays a big card; 2. The farmers suppress their allies and are eager to slip cards; 3. The top player suddenly plays a small card. In these situations, the landlord will spare no effort to suppress them and not give them the chance to obtain the card rights. Of course, when masters compete with each other, there will also be opponents who deliberately create illusions to "attract firepower" and clear obstacles for their allies. This requires players to adapt to changes and make flexible judgments.

Under normal circumstances, don't overstep the limit and suppress cards. You must be patient and tolerant when playing cards. Overstepping the level of suppression will cause you to lose control over a certain card type.

❁ Suppress and prevent spring

When the landlord plays cards, his cards are too chaotic and there is no possibility of slipping cards, so he must suppress them desperately to prevent the landlord from playing spring; when the landlord plays cards, and allies check cards, he must be responsible, decisively remove the cards and suppress them. One is to prevent spring, and the other is not to let the landlord easily obtain the card rights.

❁Judgment of the last three cards

When your opponent has the last three cards left, don't explode first if you have a bomb in your hand (except when the cards are made). Under normal circumstances, the three cards are not exactly the same and will not be played out at once. Most of the time it will be two hands of cards. When you report an even or an odd number in your hand, when the card types and cards are more clear, you will be more sure of winning when you take action.

In life, there are many things that require us to act with our brains instead of relying on temper and interest. There are also many things that are not complicated or profound, but they are often messed up by people's negligence.

Chapter 6 Analysis of actual card games

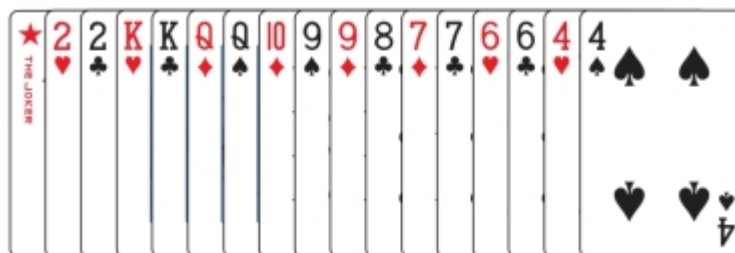

Theory must be connected with practice, and theory can only be tested through practice. In the previous chapters, we carried out systematic theoretical study and analyzed how to be a landlord and how to fight against landlords. This chapter goes into the actual card game to see how the players play the game. There are not only competitions in strength, but also strategic duels, as well as psychological contests.

✿ Brand example one:

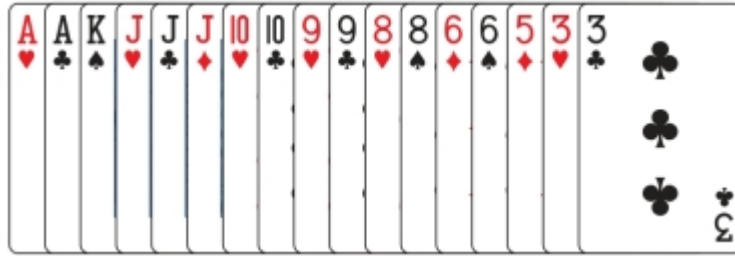

West:

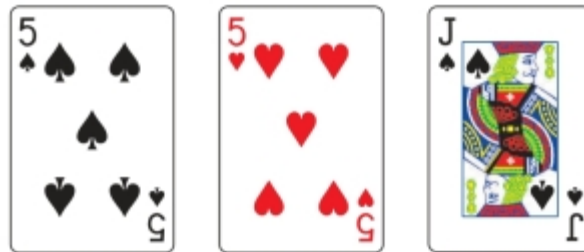

South:

East:

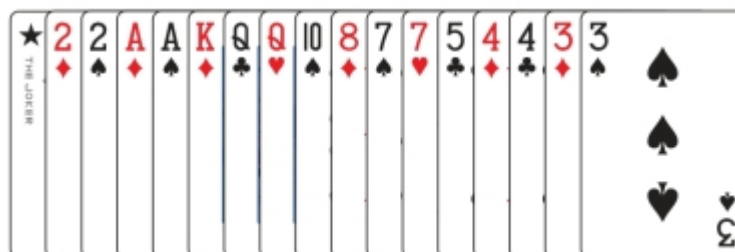

Trump card:

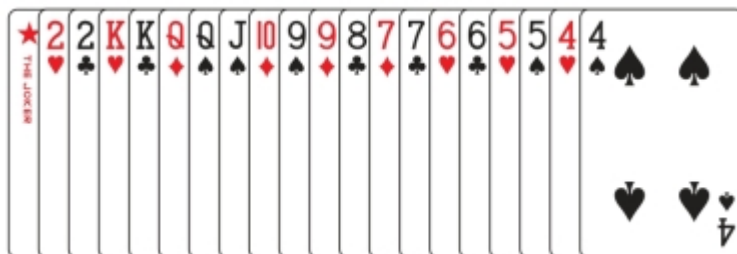

The battle of Landlords begins with bidding. From the analysis of the cards, the card types of the three players are similar, and the difference in card strength is not big. The player in the west position has a small king, a pair of 2s, and a pair of aces, but there are too many single cards and small pairs, so he only bids 1 point; the player in the south position bids 2 points based on the strength of the cards, and the player in the east position gives up the landlord without the king or 2. In the end, the player in the southern position becomes the landlord with 2 points.

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord chose the consecutive pair 44556677 in the first opening, and got rid of the small card first. The farmer (East) used the consecutive pair 88991010JJ to control it.

2. The farmer (east) plays the single card 5, the farmer (west) plays the top card K, and the landlord (south) chooses to check.

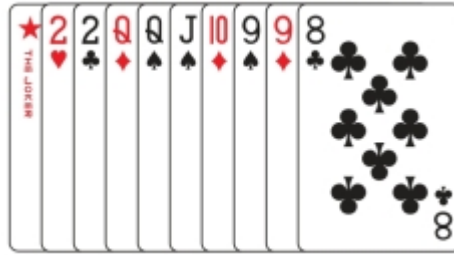

3. After receiving the card, the farmer (west) chooses 77, the landlord plays KK, the farmer (east) plays AA to suppress, and the landlord cannot choose.

4. The farmer (east) continues to play the right card 33, the farmer (west) PASS, and the landlord cannot choose to play.

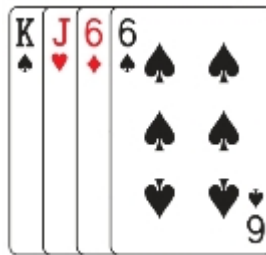

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

5. The farmer (east) thought twice and chose to play the single J, the farmer (west) played the top card of Q, the landlord chose to pass, the farmer (east) played the K to receive the card, and reported even (remaining 66). The landlord saw that the farmer reported double, and decisively chose to split the pair of 2 to suppress. The farmer (west) used Xiao Wang to control it, and the landlord chose to pass.

6. The farmer (west) sees his ally reporting double, and chooses to play 44 to get a card. The landlord plays 99 to control it, and the farmer (west) suppresses it with AA.

7. The farmer (West) continues to play 33, the landlord uses QQ to control it, and the farmer (West) cannot choose to play.

8. The landlord has five cards left in his hand: King, 2, J, 10, and 8. He chooses to play 10 first, the farmer (west) plays Q, and the landlord plays 2 hands to get the right to the cards.

9. The landlord plays J, uses the king to take back the card rights, and wins the game.

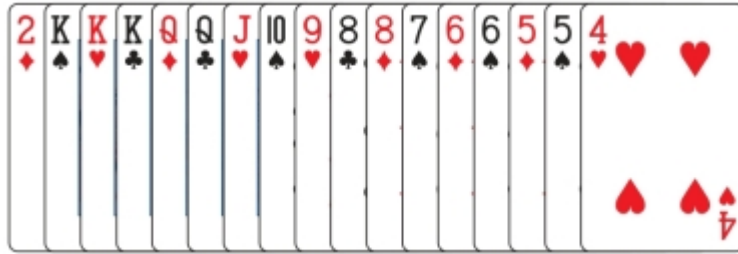

Analysis: The typical characteristics of this hand are that the three players have similar card types and average card strengths, and none of them have a 3-point card. All three players were cautious in their bids.

In the fifth round, the farmer (east) considered that if he chose to continue to play 66 and reported double - J and K, it would be difficult for the allies to judge whether the remaining cards were a pair or two single cards, and it would be difficult to send cards, and he wanted to force the landlord to split the pair of 2, so he chose to play a single card. The farmer (West) counts cards very accurately. He plays the top card of single Q, and the landlord is in a dilemma. If he splits the pair of 2 and suppresses it, he will lose control of the pair of cards, so the landlord chooses to continue to pass the cards. The farmer (East) played K to receive the card, and the landlord decisively opened the pair to suppress the 2.

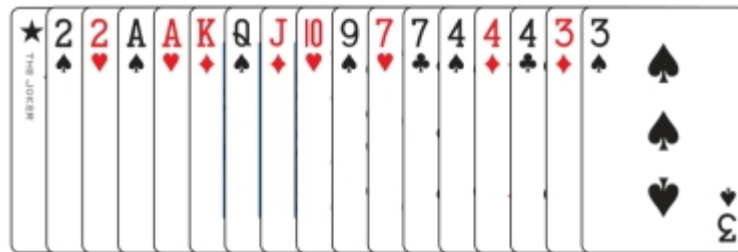

Looking at the overall situation, although the landlord won this game, it was very difficult. After the landlord's opening card was controlled, because his card strength was still insufficient, he tolerated it four times. It was not until the farmer (East) reported a double at the end of the card that he took action to suppress it and strike later. This card game took nine rounds to determine the winner, which was also a great test for the players' patience and carefulness.

❁ Brand example two:

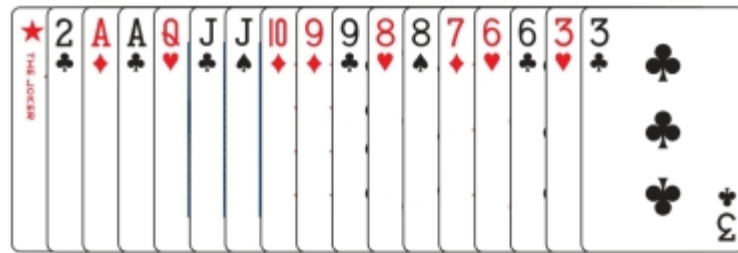

West:

South:

East:

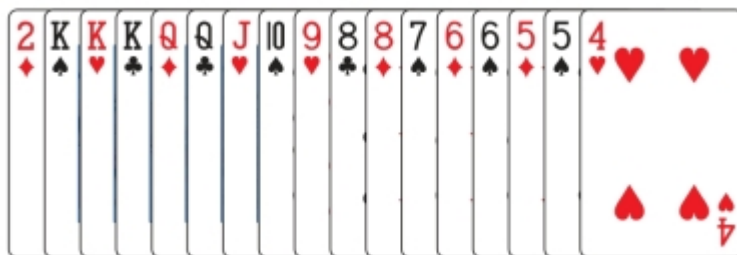

Trump card:

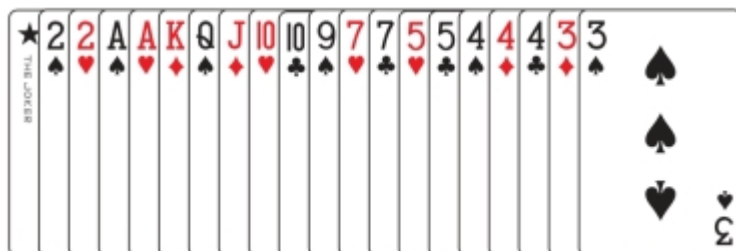

From the analysis of the entire card, the player who first bids in the direction of Fangxi has absolutely no hand power in calling the landlord. The farmer who makes an assist will have a better chance of winning. The player in the south position has Xiao Wang, Pair 2, and Pair A. The cards are very neat. Although there are many unseen cards (5, 6, 8), the overall strength of the hand is judged to be 3 points, so he decisively bids 3 points. The hole cards were supplemented to 55 and single 10, which had little impact on the overall card pattern. The player in the east position has a king and a single 2, but the overall card pattern is chaotic and needs to be static and cooperate with allies to play cards.

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord plays the first single card 4, the farmer (east) PASS, the farmer (west) passes the single card Q, the landlord plays

A, the farmer (east) plays 2 to suppress, the landlord plays Xiao Wang, and the farmer (East) uses the king to control.

2. The farmer (east) plays card 3, the farmer (west) passes card 5, the landlord passes 10, the farmer (west) plays 2 to suppress, and the landlord passes.

3. The farmer (West) has a straight 45678910JQ, and the landlord is powerless.

4. Farmers (West) go out of the Three Belts and One KKK +6, and the landlords have nothing to do.

5. The farmer (West) plays a single card of 8, and the game ends.

Analysis: In the first round, the southern player grabbed the landlord, carefully analyzed the card pattern, and believed that there was no way to win the first pair of cards, so he showed weakness and played a single card of 4, retaining the consecutive pair of 334455. The farmer (east) holds the king in his hand and chooses to pass the card, allowing his fellow farmer (west) to take advantage of the situation and wait for an opportunity to suppress the landlord based on his partner's card play. The farmer (west) took advantage of the situation and passed the single card Q, the landlord played A, and the farmer (east) played 2 to suppress the landlord. This is a huge test for the landlord, and it is also a key node in the entire game. Should he use Xiao Wang to suppress it, or should he choose to check? If the landlord plays a small king and the farmer (east) does not play the king to suppress and chooses to check, the landlord has become a "made card" and wins; if the farmer (east) plays a king to suppress and obtains the right to play a single card, the farmer (west) passes the single card 5 and plays 2 to connect the card. The straight 45678910JQ and the three belts and one KKK+6 are the landlord's weaknesses. Finally, the single card 8 is played, and the victory will be won. If the landlord does not play the king at this time and chooses to check the card, let the farmer (east) continue to play cards, suppressing the 2 of the farmer (west) at the critical moment, the farmer (west) will not be able to obtain the card right.

In the second round, after the farmer (East) got the card right, he played the single card 3 and asked his allies to take away the single card 5. This was the key move for the farmer's victory in this round. If the farmer (East) plays 33 and the landlord passes 77, the landlord wins.

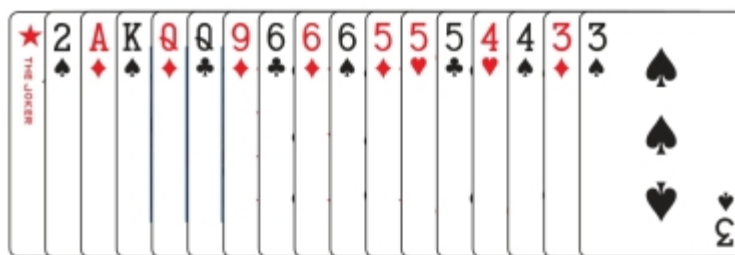

This game fully reflects the farmers' sense of cooperation. They suppress decisively at critical moments and let their control cards play their best role. When they have no hope of slipping cards, they make accurate judgments, split cards and send cards, and cooperate with their allies to win the game.

❁ Brand example three:

West:

South:

East:

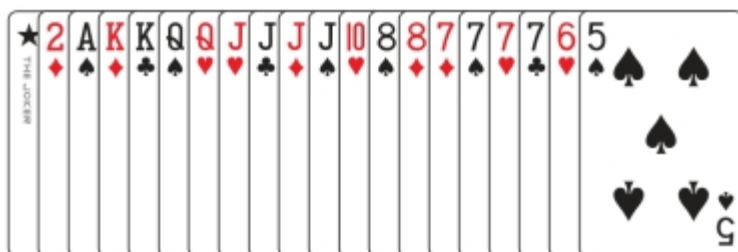

Trump card:

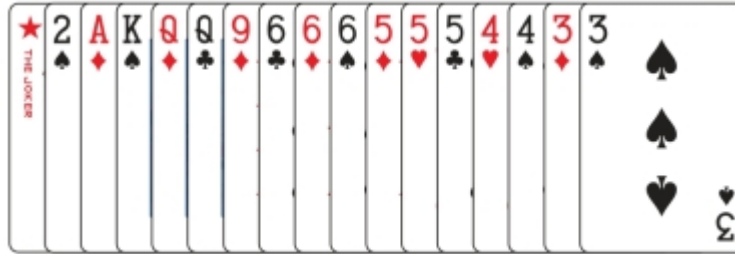

The player in the west position got the right to make the first call, with a king, a single 2 and two bombs. Although there were many single cards and many unseen cards, the hand was strong and he decisively bid three points and grabbed the landlord. After collecting three hole cards, the landlord seemed to be sure of victory in terms of both the strength and the type of the cards. The landlords have strong cards and the farmers have neat cards. Who will win? We'll see.

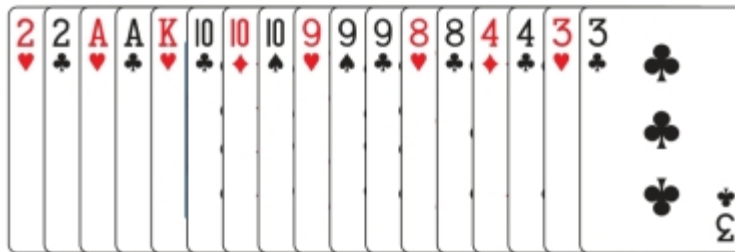

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

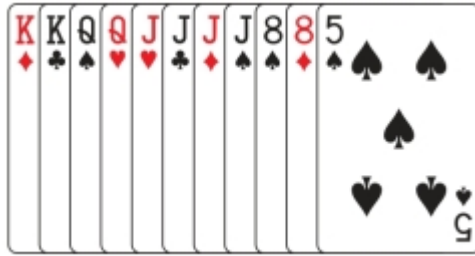

1. The landlord only has three types of cards: single card, paired card, and bomb. Considering that the paired cards can be taken away, he chooses to play the single card 6 in the first opening. The farmer (south) passes the single card 9. The farmer (east) plays the K top card. The landlord passes the A. The farmer (south) plays 2. The landlord (west) plays the small king. The farmer (south) uses the king to suppress.

2. The farmer (south) got the card right and played a plane with two pairs of 555666+33+44. The farmer (east) had a relatively neat card and decisively received the card with 999101010+33+44. The landlord played a bomb 7777.

3. The landlord continues to play 10, the farmer (south) plays K, the farmer (east) passes, and the landlord plays 2 to control.

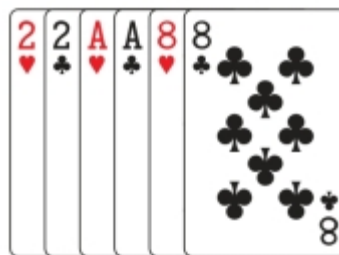

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

4. The landlord pays 88, the farmer (east) AA controls it, and the landlord PASS.

5. Farmer (East) went out with 88 and recovered with 22, winning the game.

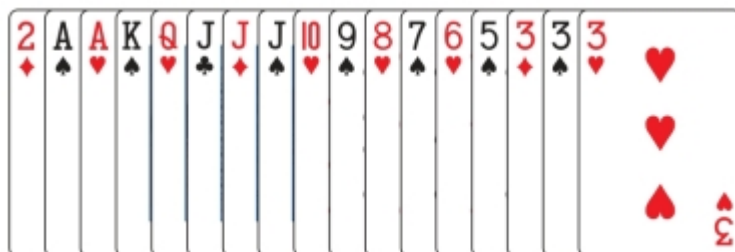

Analysis: In the second round, the farmer (East) took the card strongly, and his intention to slip the card was very obvious. The landlord suppressed it hard and prevented the farmer (East) from getting the right to the card. But the landlord's cards were not neat and he rashly released the bomb, increasing the losses.

After three rounds of competition, the landlord's cards at this time were KK, QQ, JJJJ, 88 and 5. The farmer also had AA and 22 in his hand. The landlord was at a disadvantage. If the two A's are not paired or the two 2's are not paired, the landlord still has the possibility of winning. However, both A and 2 are concentrated in the hands of the farmer (East), and the landlord has no hope of winning.

The key to the failure of the landlord in this deck is the lack of tolerance and the rash bombing without playing the cards neatly. If the landlord passes KK, the farmer will explode after AA. Continue to play single cards to separate the farmer's 22, and then play another bomb, and you will successfully win this round. This type of hand is very unique. It not only requires accurate calculation, but also tests the player's patience. It is worthy of careful consideration. I hope that all players can provide valuable opinions.

♣Card Example 4:

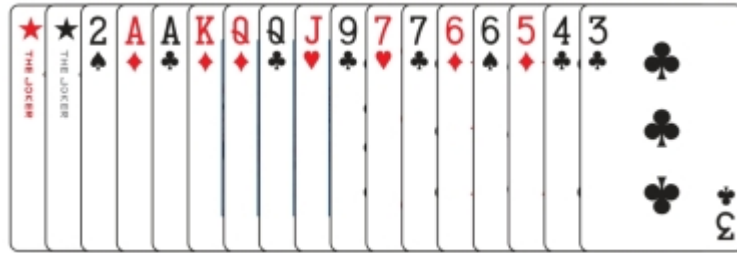

West:

South:

East:

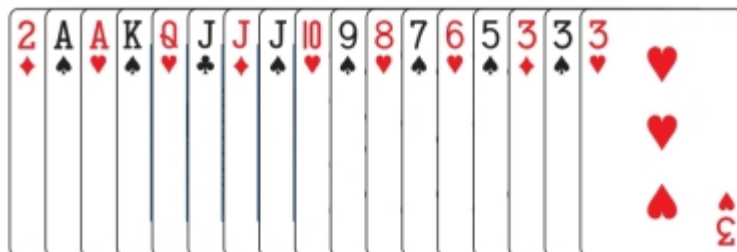

Trump card:

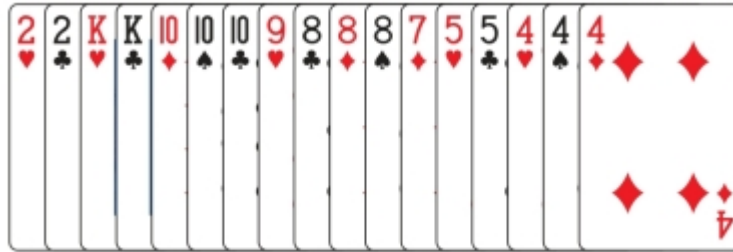

The player in the Western position had a good hand, but there was no control card to gain the right to the hand, so there was no bid. The southern player also had a relatively neat hand, with three triples and a bid of 1 point. According to the card strength analysis, the player in the east position called the landlord and made up the hole cards 6, 9, and Q. The card strength is considered medium.

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

1. The landlord opened with a straight of 34567 (mainly because he wanted to see the "breaking cards" 8 and 10 in his hand. In addition, the single card in his hand was relatively large, so the previous player could take it away smoothly). The farmer (West) suppressed it with 56789, and the landlord chose to pass.

2. The farmer (West) plays a single K (the main consideration is that the landlord does not suppress the straight, and mainly retains the pair or three-band card type), and the landlord plays 2 to obtain the card right.

3. The landlord plays 66, and the farmer (west) plays AA to suppress.

4. The farmers (west) go out of the three belts and one area 333+10, and the landlords control it with QQQ+7.

5. The landlord plays 99, the farmer (south) plays KK, the landlord plays AA, and the farmer (south) suppresses it with 22.

6. The farmer (south) plays 444+7, the farmer (west) receives the card JJJ+Q, and places an order in hand (remaining 2). At this time, the landlord still had two single cards, J and K. In the end, the farmer won.

Analysis: The landlord of this deck made a mistake in opening the cards and lost the chance to win. The opening card is a straight, there is no counterattack, and the row of cards can only be led by the farmer. The landlord should choose a single card when opening the cards (there are three single cards), and adjust the idea of playing cards according to the situation of the farmer's cards. The farmer (West) card pattern is very neat, and it is bound to play the role of the player. If a single card is used to suppress 2 cards, the landlord can choose to pass the card. The farmer (West) made a straight of 5678910JQK, then 333+JJ, and reported double AA. At this time, the landlord must play QQQ+66 to suppress and play a single card K. In order to facilitate the passing of cards by his allies, the farmer (West) will keep the pair AA and choose to check. The farmer (south) demolished 2 to suppress, the landlord demolished the king and counterattacked, then played a single card and used the king to counterattack. The remaining cards in the landlord's hand are 34567, 99, AA, 2. The straight is played first, and then the cards are played from high to low, 2, AA, 99, and he will eventually win.

♣Card Example 5:

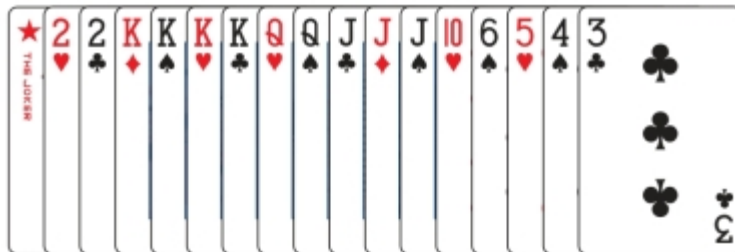

West:

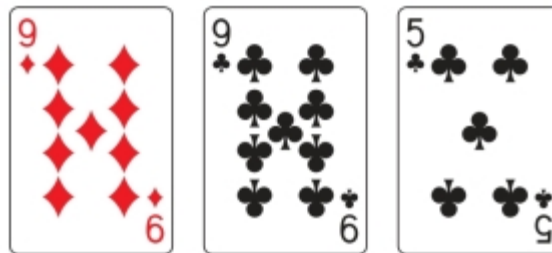

South:

East:

Trump card:

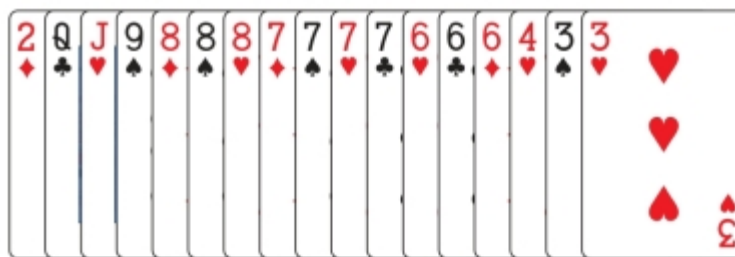

All three players are holding bombs, and your fight starts with calling points. There are many bombs and unseen cards, and the number of small cards will increase, so experts will be cautious when calling points. The Western player has a small king, odd 2, and AAAA in his hand, but there are many small cards and they are scattered, and the first bid costs 2 points. The player in the southern position holds 7777 and has limited big cards. It is more appropriate to play cards as a farmer and cooperate with allies. The player in the Eastern position has king, 22, KKKK. He has many big points, but the broken 7 is a fatal weakness. He is in the third position and bids for points. It is very difficult. The landlord is not willing to give up, and the pot of the landlord is slightly lacking when he bids for 3 points.

The player from the East was entangled and refused to give up, so he called the landlord and got the hole cards of 99 and 5.

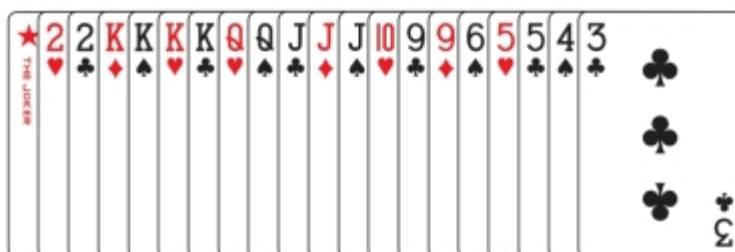

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

The hole cards are not strong enough, and the "broken card" 7 expected by the landlord has not been made up. The cards are scattered and will not be solved overnight. There will definitely be multiple rounds of competition. Will all the bombs in the hands of the three players be released? Will there be a "Mars-filled" game?

1. The landlord can only choose to play a single card in the first opening. 4. The farmer (west) takes away the single card 8, the farmer (south) takes the card and plays J, the landlord PASS, the farmer (west) plays Q, the landlord splits the 2 to suppress, the farmer (west) plays the king, the landlord (east) does not want to let the next farmer take the card, so he plays the king to control it.

2. The landowner continues to deal with the small cards in his hand and plays 55, and the farmer PASS.

3. The landlord continues to play the right card 99, and the farmer PASS.

4. The landlord plays JJJ+3, and the farmer continues to PASS.

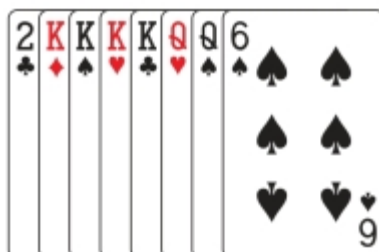

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

5. The landlord plays a single card of 6, the farmer (west) plays a 9, the farmer (south) plays a 2 to receive the card, and the landlord PASS.

6. Farmer (South) plays 666+33, and the landlord PASS.

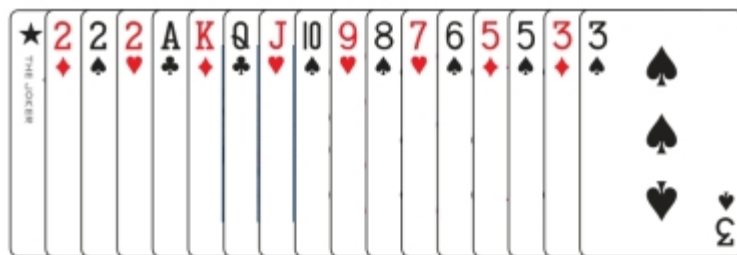

7. The farmer (south) gives 888+4, and the landlord PASS.

8. The farmer (south) plays four with two, 7777+9+Q, and the farmer wins.

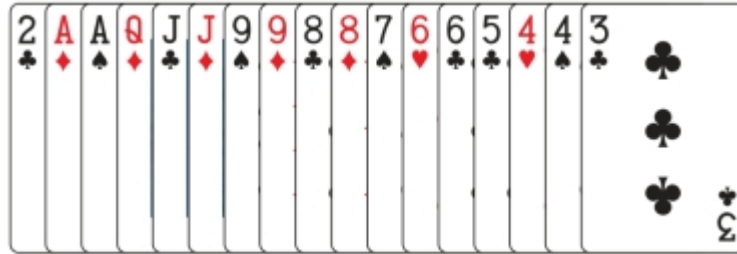

Analysis: The beginning felt like a "bombarding" game, but not a single bomb was successfully launched, which seemed a bit dull. This was exactly a duel between masters, and it contained a lot of wisdom in the game. At the beginning, the landlord's cards are getting closer and closer, and the farmer can tell that the landlord's cards are stronger and he has a bomb in his hand. Through the rows of cards in the first five rounds, the landlord has also lost a lot of small cards. It is also difficult for the farmer (south) to judge the distribution of A and K bombs. After four and two are cleared, the winner is the first. The landowner has not seen A and 7 for a long time, and he has judged that the farmer has at least one bomb in his hand, so he does not dare to release the bomb rashly, and the less he loses, the more he wins.

♣Card example six:

West:

South:

East:

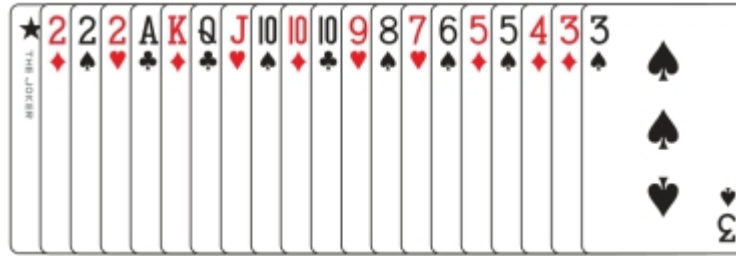

Trump card:

The Western player called the Landlord with 3 points based on the card strength and card type, and the hole cards were supplemented to 1010 and 4, which added some burden. The player in the east position has a very neat hand, holding a single control card king, creating opportunities for the farmer to win. Which side wins, stay tuned!

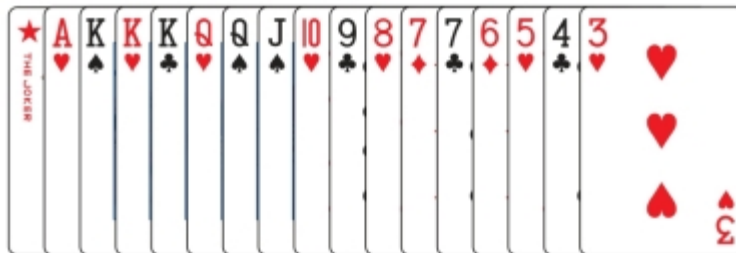

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord chooses to play the single card 5, the farmer (south) passes the 6, the farmer (east) plays the top card of A, the landlord plays the small king, and the farmer (east) plays the king to take the card strongly.

2. The farmer (East) plays 34567, and the landlord plays 10JQKA to control it.

3. The landlord is in trouble 345678910, and the peasants are helpless.

4. The landlord comes out with 222+3, which is beyond the reach of the peasants.

5. The landlord plays 10 and wins.

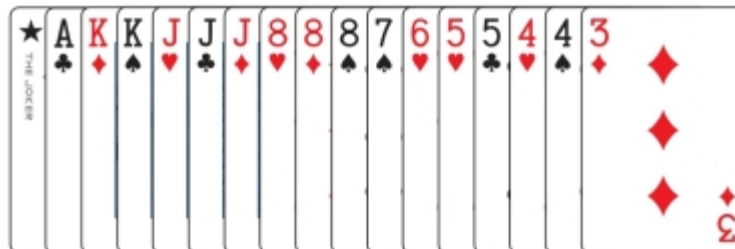

Analysis: Through the process of playing cards, we can see that the landlord does not have the absolute ability to win the cards. The farmer (East) will change the outcome of the game if he thinks a little and pays attention to the details of the cards. In the third round, the landlord played a straight 345678910. The farmer (East) wanted to suppress it, but found that there was one missing card. He regretted that he should have played Q instead of A. This is the key node of this game. In the first round, if the farmer (East) plays the Q top card and maintains the integrity of the straight, he will successfully win the game.

♣Card example seven:

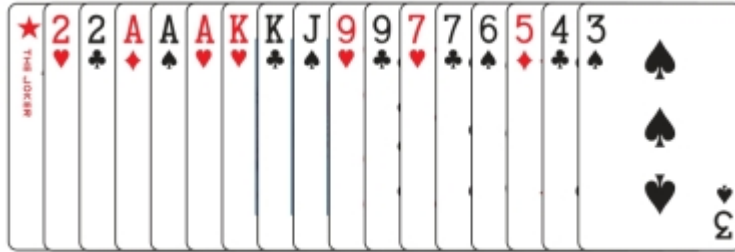

West:

South:

East:

Trump card:

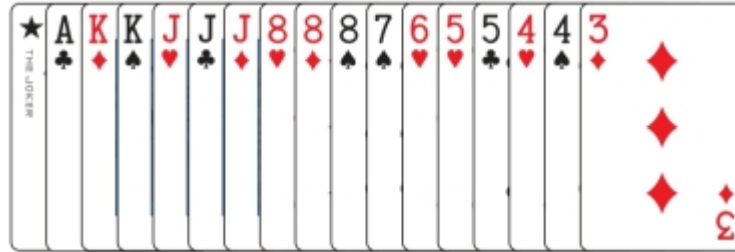

The player in the west position did not have strong card strength and did not have the ability to call points; the player in the south position did not have strong card strength; the player in the east position had a strong king, pair 2, and three aces. Although there were many unseen cards in his hand, the first two players did not bid points. Therefore, the player in the east position decisively called for 3 points and became the landlord. His hole cards were QQ and 10, and he received two "broken cards" of his own.

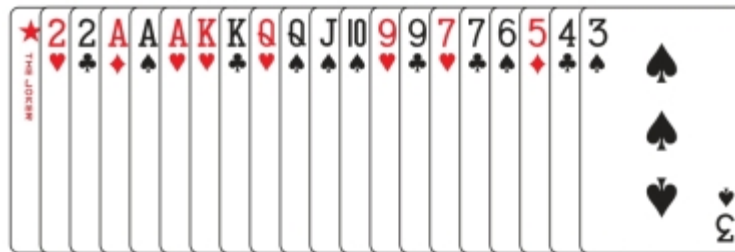

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

1. The landlord first chooses the single card 7, the farmer (west) passes the single card 9, the farmer (south) plays the top card A, and the landlord (east) passes the card.

2. The farmer (south) has a straight of 34567, and the landlord chooses PASS.

3. The farmers (south) play 888+4, and the landlords play AAA+10 to suppress.

4. The landlord plays the single card J, the farmer (West) takes control of the pair 2, and the landlord plays the king to suppress it.

5. The landlord plays the right card 99, the farmer (west) plays QQ to control, and the landlord plays KK to receive the card.

6. The landlord continues to play the right card QQ, the farmer (south) plays KK, and the landlord returns with 22.

7. The landlord finally made a straight 34567 and won.

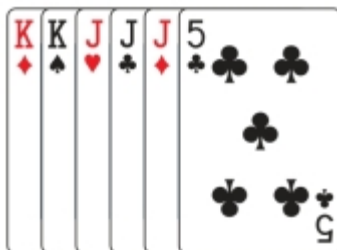

Analysis: The key to the failure of the farmers in this game is that the farmers (West) did not estimate the card types of the landlord and allies, lacked the spirit of tolerance, blindly demolished 22, and lost their dominance over the card types. If in the fourth round, when the landlord plays a single card, the farmer (west) checks the card, the farmer (south) and the king control, and the landlord suppresses it with the king.

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

At this time, the remaining cards in the landlord's hand, whether it is a straight or a pair, are under the control of the farmer (West). After the farmer (west) obtained the card rights, he played three strips of 101010+6 and sent the cards to his allies. The farmer (south) received the cards and ran away, winning. Therefore, the core technology of Landlord Fighting is the cooperation between farmers. Through playing cards, we can judge and analyze the card strength of landlords and allies, select critical moments to suppress, and pass the cards to allies. Two peasant friends must unite to fight against the landlord in order to defeat the weak and the strong.

When seeing the hole cards in this deck, many friends may have said that the Western player should call the landlord, and calling the landlord can play two bombs. However, I advise all poker players to call the landlord based on a comprehensive analysis of the card type and card strength, and not to blindly play for hole cards. But if you have good card sense and luck, or you are far ahead in the score, or your opponent calls the landlord to win continuously, you can strategically call the landlord to change the atmosphere of the game.

❁ Brand example eight:

West:

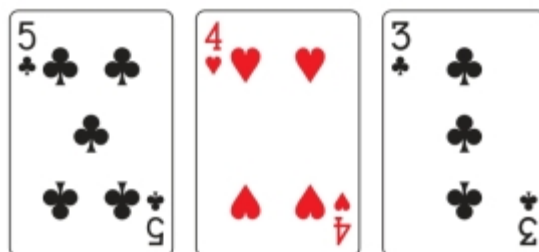

South:

East:

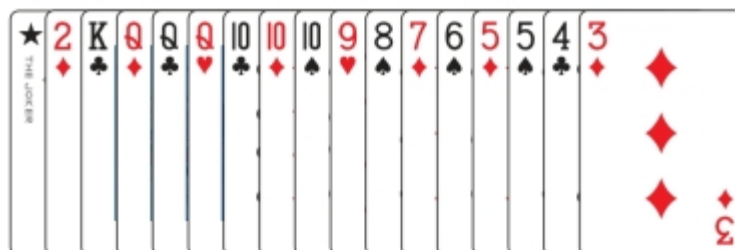

Trump card:

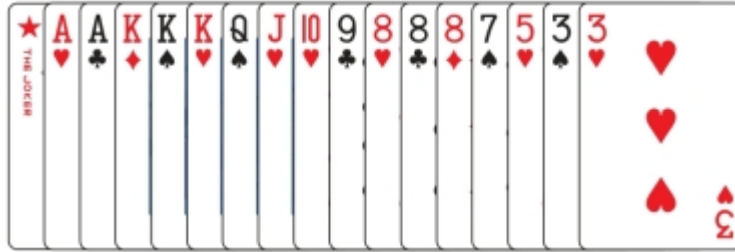

The player in the west has a neat hand, so he chooses to bid 2 points; the player in the south gives up calling the landlord; the player in the east has a good hand, with three triples in his hand, and bids the landlord for 3 points, expecting to find a bomb in his hole card. The hole cards are 5, 4, and 3. Fortunately, there is no confusion. The landlord's card has four three strips.

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

1. There are four three belts in the hands of the landlord. The first player chooses the three belts - 444+3. The farmer (west) plays 101010+5 to control it. The landlord plays JJJ+5. The farmer (west) plays QQQ+K to control it. The landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (West) has a straight result of 3456789, and the landlord is powerless.

3. The farmer (west) played the single card 2, and the landlord was stunned.

4. The farmer (west) produces a small king and wins.

Analysis: The landlords were better than the farmers in terms of card strength and card type. Why did the farmers win in the end? After careful analysis, it can be seen that the landlord failed to consider the cards and gave up the victory. If the landlord chooses to play 77 on the first opening, he will return with AA; then he will play three belts and suppress the row cards in order, and he will win. Through long-term practical experience, we have found that the card types have the same direction. The three card types tend to be consistent. If you have more three-band card types in your hand, the probability of others having more three-band card types is also high. Therefore, players must pay more attention to the cards and maximize the effect of various card types in order to achieve the final victory.

The card examples in this chapter are all selected from actual competitions. The idea of "the right time, the right place, and the right people" determines the player's playing strategy. It may be different from the thinking of poker friends, and it may be a little biased. Players can express their own opinions. Different opinions are welcome to discuss and improve together.

Chapter 7 Classic Endgame

classic endgame

The endgame (late game) is an inevitable situation in all board and card games. In the Landlords competition, there is rarely a "overlord" card that can defeat the opponent in one go. In most cases, the landlords and farmers have to fight hard to form an endgame situation. The endgame is the final stage of the game where the winner is determined. If it is not handled well, the advantage gained in the early stage will be wiped out and the army will be defeated. If it is handled properly and with skill, it can turn defeat into victory and make a huge difference. Therefore, how to solve the endgame problem is the key to a game. Here, we list some common endgames and analyze the mistakes made by players in the game. We hope it will be helpful to you.

♣Endgame 1

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

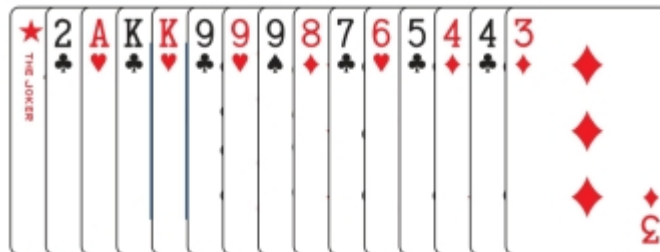

Farmer (East):

The farmer (west) played the single card 5 first, and the landlord passed the single card Q. The farmer (west) used the king to control it, and was blown up by the landlord KKKK. If the farmer (west) plays Q first and resists the landlord's single Q, the landlord will be stunned and the farmer will counterattack.

♣ Endgame 2

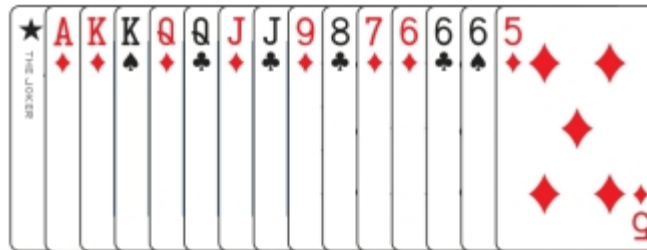

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

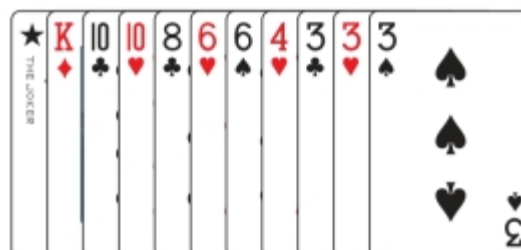

The landlord previously played JJ and used AA to take back the card rights. Afterwards, 101010+8 was not blocked. At this time, the landlord thought that 334455 consecutive pairs was a big card. After playing, he was stopped by the farmer JJQQKK. Then the farmer (East) played a single card to unseat the landlord!

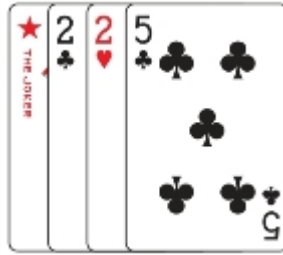

The landowner's inertial thinking believed that the pair was larger, and he made a fatal mistake. At this time, shooting 333+44 and finishing with 222+55 not only defended the Rockets, but also looked after each other, which was the best choice.

♣ Endgame 3

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

At this time, the landlord had control of the cards and played a single card of 5 first. He planned to use the king to return the card. However, the farmer (East) AAAA exploded and played a single card to open the pair of 2, and suffered a miserable defeat.

In fact, it is the safest way to prevent explosions by playing all the 2s first, then playing a single 5, and leaving the king to close the bottom.

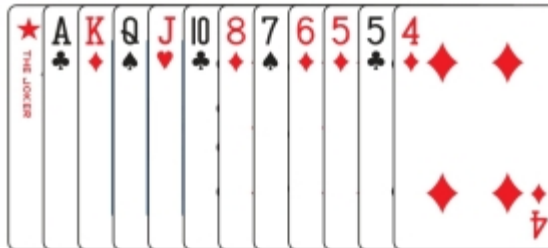

Of course, if the farmer has the card right at this time and plays a single card, the junior player will usually use the king to obtain the card right, and then play a pair of 22, leaving a single card of 5. If the peasants have bombs, the landlords will be defeated. In fact, a better way for the landlord is to split the pair of 2s and play a 2. If the farmer comes out with a small king, the landlord will use the king to suppress it, reporting doubles - 2 and 5, leaving a suspect pawn, and leaving the problem of analysis and judgment to the farmer with the bomb. There is also the possibility of cheating the bomb and winning double points.

♣ Endgame Four

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

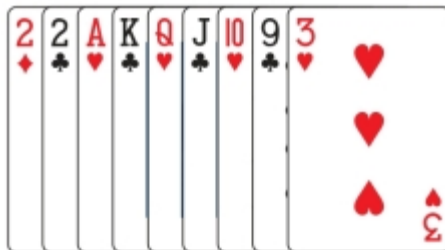

After the landlord used the king to obtain the card rights, he played a straight 45678. The farmer (West) considered reducing the remaining single cards and retaining KK, so he used 8910JQ to control it. At this time, the landlord played 10JQKA to seal the deal, leaving a single card of 5. He pocketed the victory according to the original plan.

In fact, if the farmer (West) carefully counts the cards based on the previous cards, after the landowner plays the big king, only the 22 in the hand of the farmer (West) is the largest among all the players. As long as he has the right to control the cards, he can play the cards as he likes. Therefore, at this time, you must split the cards to obtain the card rights, and use the biggest straight in your hand, 10JQKA, to block the landlord's card rights to win. In the actual game, the farmer (West) lost a lot because of the small amount, and kept all the big cards in his hand, without any use.

♣Endgame 5

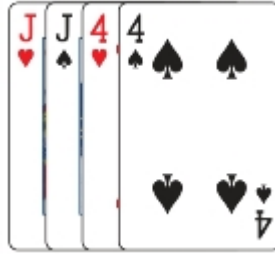

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

Previously, the landlord had played Xiao Wang to obtain the card rights, and the farmer (East) played a straight and was controlled by the farmer. At this time, the farmer (east) should judge that the king is more likely to be in the hands of his allies. Although there are two pairs of cards left in the hand, it is more reasonable to split the cards and get a single card. Unfortunately, the farmer (East) habitually came out with 44, and the landlord received the card with 22, playing Dingtianshun 10JQKA, leaving a single card of 3. The peasants (East) gave up their imminent victory.

♣ Endgame six

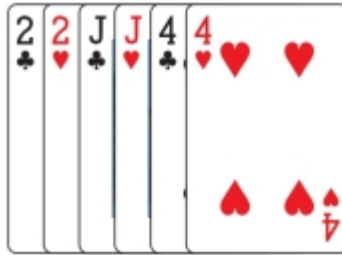

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

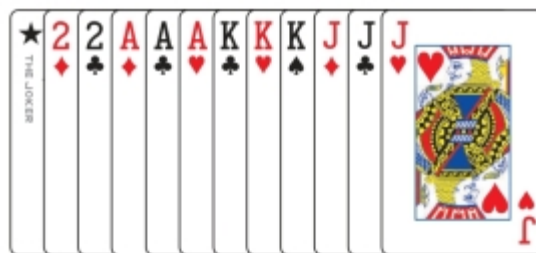

Landlord (East):

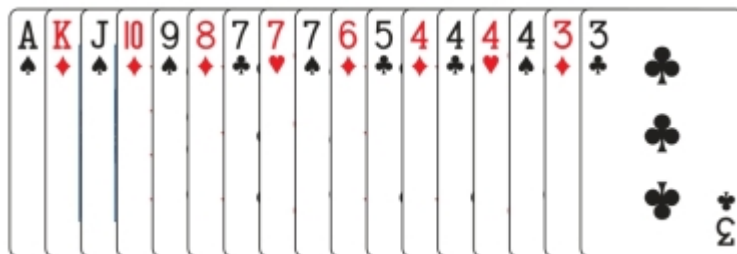

The farmer (south) came out with a Q, and the landlord used the small king to control it. The farmer (west) used the king to take back the card rights. Seeing that his ally had two cards left, he tried to play 55. As a result, the landlord passed JJ and collected the cards with 22, leaving 44, and finally won. If you think about it carefully, when the farmer (south) has three cards left, he owns the card rights and is located next to his ally. If he has "pair cards + single cards" left, he will definitely move the pair cards first, leaving single cards, so that the allies can send cards. At this time, when it takes out the single card, it can be judged that all the remaining cards are single cards.

♣Endgame 7

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

The landlord used three belts and one to obtain the card rights and then played JJJ + Xiao Wang. The farmer (South) judged that the king was in the hands of his allies, decisively played 4444, and then played a single card K. At this time, the farmer (East) used the king to catch it, played 33, and planned to use 22 to take back the card rights, and then played three belts and one 888+7, leaving QQQQ. The landlord strikes first and controls it with 22. At this time, the farmer (East) did not dare to explode rashly because he had not seen "Broken Zhang" A. When he hesitated, he was escaped by the landlord AAAKKK.

Just imagine, the landlord even brought out the little king. It can be seen that the cards are already very neat. Once he obtains the card rights again, he will definitely do it in one go. And after playing JJJ + Xiao Wang, the landlord has eight cards left in his hand. If there is AAAA, the remaining cards cannot be three with one, but must be two pairs - 22 and another small pair. If this is the case, the landlord will definitely not take Xiao Wang out first, but will first play a small pair of cards and use 22 hands to receive the cards. Therefore, it is judged that the landlord must not have AAAA. At this time, the farmers (east) should decisively deploy bombs and intercept the landlord on Huarong Road.

♣ Endgame 8

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

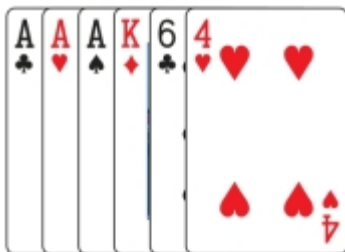

Previously, the farmer (south) used Xiao Wang to control the landlord's 2, and then used 2 to control the landlord's king, and then passed the card to the farmer (east).

At present, the farmer (East) has the king, 2, two single cards and two small pairs in his hand, so the single card 6 is played first, and the landlord plays A. After the farmer (East) uses 2 to receive the cards, he also plays the single card J. The landlord uses 2 to control, and the farmer (East) plays the king to suppress. At this time, the farmer (East) has two small pairs left, and the landlord reports double. The farmer (East) thought twice, played 88, and gave the landlord a big gift package.

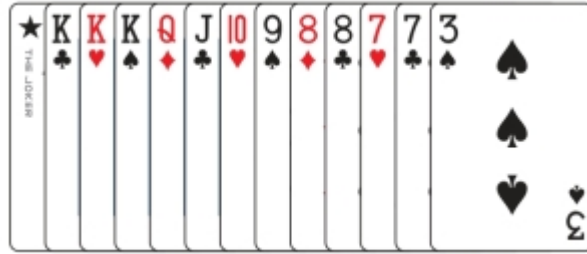

In fact, based on the previous cards, it can be judged that the landlord has no big card points, because ordinary players rarely open the pair of A and then use 2 to catch the card, leaving the A to confuse the opponent. Therefore, it can be judged that no matter whether the landlord has a single card or a pair of cards after reporting double, there is no big card. Therefore, at this time, the small pairs of cards should be broken up and a single card should be played, and the card rights should be returned to the allies.

♣Endgame nine

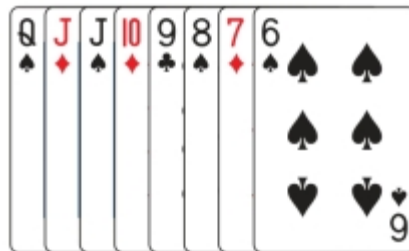

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

The landlord played 678910JQ, and the farmer (south) used 78910JQK to control it. At this time, the landlord reported the bill. The farmer (south) thought that the landlord's card should be above 7, so he split the pair of K and singled out a K. At this time, the farmer (West) still had a King but was worried that the card in the landlord's hand was a King, so he did not open the three Aces. He wanted to keep the three Aces and took away a small card, but then played a single card and slipped away, so he did not take the card. The farmer (south) had no choice but to play the single card 8, and the landlord took the opportunity to escape.

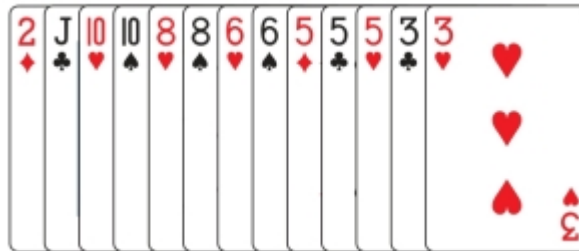

In fact, if you observe carefully, the landlord played a straight 678910JQ in the last round. It is completely unreasonable if there is only a single K card left. The other K must be in the hands of the ally. Therefore, by removing the three Aces at this time and using the ally's other K to top the card again, the landlord can be defeated. It is a pity that the farmer (West) did not carefully observe and analyze the landlord Shunzi's Owari, giving the landlord a chance to turn defeat into victory.

♣ Endgame ten

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

After the farmer (south) got the card right, he played 88. The landlord blocked it with KK. After getting the card right, he played a single card 6. The farmer (west) passed the single card 9. The farmer (south) was worried that his pair was too small. After getting the card right, he would give away the landlord's small pair, so he only used J to top it slightly. The landlord took advantage of the situation to pass the Q, played a rocket, and doubled his score.

If the farmer (south) records the cards carefully, he should judge that the other two players have no matching cards except KK, and the landlord just used KK to receive the cards, the other pair of KK must be in the hands of his allies; even if the card counting is not so accurate, it can be analyzed that his 88 has been strongly intercepted by the landlord KK, so among the remaining five cards in the landlord's hand, there must be no big pairing cards (either a single card or a small pair) except the rocket. At this time, playing pairs of cards continuously is a good way to attack the landlord's weakness. Finally, play three belts and one single card, 2. Even if the landlord has a small pair of cards to control the single card, he can rely on his ally's KK to protect him, so he will win without a doubt. Unfortunately, the farmers (south) were too conservative and ruined their victory.

♣Endgame Eleven

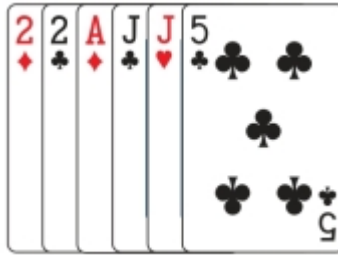

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

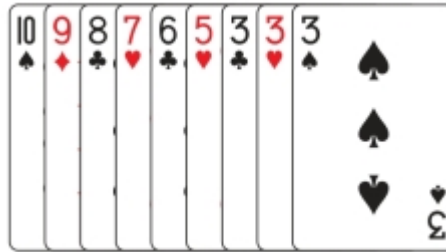

The farmer (east) uses the king to control the landlord's little queen, and plays the single card 5, thinking that the ally will have the top card in the landlord's family. The farmer (west) did not disappoint his hope. He played the top card of A, and the landlord opened the pair of 2 to receive the card, and then played the single card of K. At this time, the farmer (east) was powerless: he opened the pair of 2 and held it, and the single card of A and the pair of JJ could not pass; if he allowed the landlord to continue playing cards, the landlord would play the single card of 4, and then used 2 backhands to leave QQ. Therefore, farmers have lost the initiative at this time.

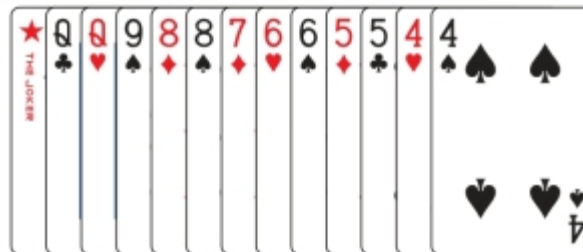

When the farmer (East) uses the king to get the card right, if the single card A is played, the passive player at this time is the landlord - if the pair 2 is opened, the 4 or K in the hand is blocked by the farmer (west)'s A and is forced to play 2, and the QQ cannot pass the farmer (east)'s 22; Therefore, when both sides have a pair of 2, whichever side passes the larger single card first will be in the initiative.

🌸Endgame 12

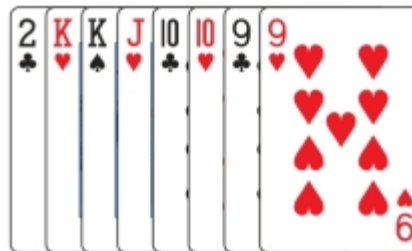

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

The landlord played 99, the farmer (west) checked, and the farmer (south) passed away QQ. The landlord used KK to take it back and then played a single card J. The farmer (west) checked, and the farmer (south) used the king to control it. The consecutive pair was 445566, leaving 9, 88, and 7. He had no choice but to play a single card 9. The landlord used 2 to obtain the card right, and ended with 1010.

After careful analysis, the farmers have a chance to win in this late game. The landlord plays a single card J, and the farmer (west) checks, indicating that 2 is still in the landlord's hand. At this time, after the farmer (south) uses the king to obtain the card right, he cannot habitually play a connected pair, because he cannot leave, and he must consider giving cards to his allies. Generally speaking, it is more difficult to pass a straight card. Therefore, without knowing how many straight cards our ally has, we usually send out the most basic straight card type (5 cards). At this time, if the farmer (south) splits the pair and plays 45678, the allies can successfully receive the card rights, and the three belts and one slip away, leaving the landlord stunned.

Appendix: Fun gameplay of Landlord Fighting

❀ Linfen Characteristic Landlord Fighting

Game recommender: Tanaka, a boy born in the 1980s who grew up in Linfen, Shanxi, is a chess and card enthusiast. He has participated in poker competitions held across the country many times and achieved excellent results. The ideas of playing cards in Doudizhu are unpredictable, and we have certain insights into the characteristics of Doudizhu in Linfen.

Main endemic areas: Linfen area, Shanxi Province

Linfen Featured Landlords has introduced an innovative play method of fifty-two cards (removing two 2s). Introduction to game rules:

1. Remove two 2s, and there are fifty-two cards left. Each person has sixteen cards, four hole cards, and the hole cards are unknown.
2. A pair of 2 counts as a bomb, a pair of 3 counts as a bomb, and four 3s count as three bombs.
3. Card strength: double kings > four bombs > two bombs
4. Three cards can be played with one, but three cards cannot be played with two. Three cards without cards can only be played in the last hand.

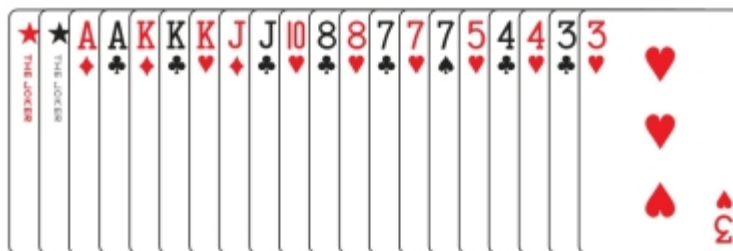

5. Other card types and playing methods are the same as those in classic Landlords.

6. Points rules: Bombs are calculated according to the multiplication rules. The points for opening a bomb are $\times 2$, resulting in 3333 points $\times 8$.

With such gameplay rules, there are more bombs, the competition is more intense and exciting, and it further tests the player's mentality and technical and tactical level.

Examples of cards:

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord chooses to play 44 in the first opening, the farmer (south) checks, the farmer (east) plays 55, the landlord plays 88, the farmer (east) plays QQ, the landlord plays AA, the farmer (east) plays bomb 33, and the landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (east) produced a straight 78910J, the landlord produced a bomb 33, the farmer (south) bombed 6666, and the landlord PASS.

3. The farmer (south) plays the single card 5, the farmer (east) passes the single card 10, and the landlord cannot choose to play.

4. The farmer (East) played the right card AA, and the remaining two cards reported even, and the landlord PASS.

5. The farmer (east) bids for single card 9, and the landlord plays rocket.

6. The landlords have 777+5 in the three belts and one area, and the farmers are powerless.

7. The landlord plays three belts and one KKK +10.

8. The landlord plays JJ, ending the game, and the landlord wins.

❀Chongqing Single Leizi Fighting Landlord

Game recommender: Wu Zhengbing, online name: The Love of Birds and Fishes, main achievements: National Landlord Championship 2013 individual competition champion, 2014 individual competition third place, 2015 individual competition champion, 2016 National TV Card King Competition (group) seventh place.

Main endemic areas: Chongqing area

The most popular game in Chongqing is the single-player Landlord game, which consists of fifty-four cards plus one flower card (the flower card is a universal card that can be used as any card, but cannot be played alone). Introduction to game rules:

1. Add one more flower card, a total of fifty-five cards, each person has seventeen cards and four hole cards.

2. Flower cards can be used as any card, but they cannot be played alone. For example: flower card + king = rocket, flower card + 333 = 3333, 345 + flower card + 78 = 345678.

3. Card strength: Rocket card is the strongest, flower card + king > four bombs with the same code, four bombs with the same code > flower card + three cards with the same code.

4. If you have two kings or four 2s or two bombs in your hand, you must call the landlord. There is no point difference between calling the landlord, and it is full once.

5. You can have three cards with singles or three cards without cards, but you can't have three cards with pairs. Four with two can only bring two single cards, not two pairs.

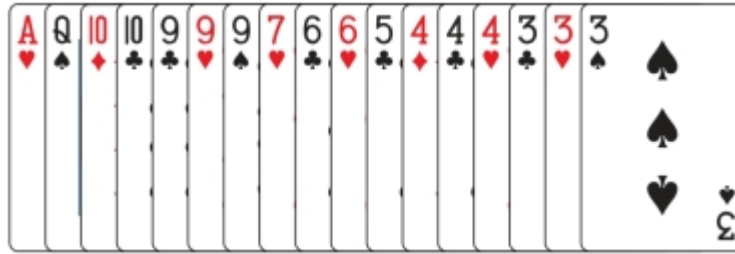

6. The rest of the card types and playing methods are the same as those in classic Landlords.

Examples of cards:

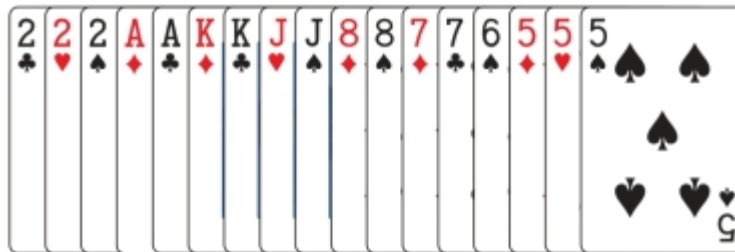

West:

South:

East:

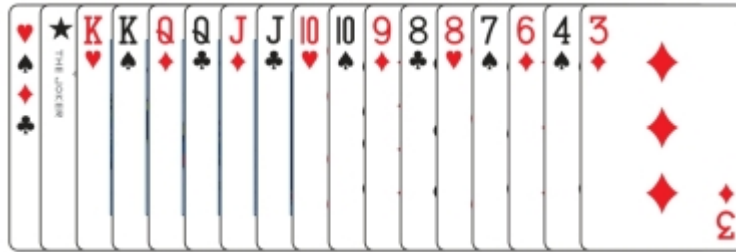

Trump card:

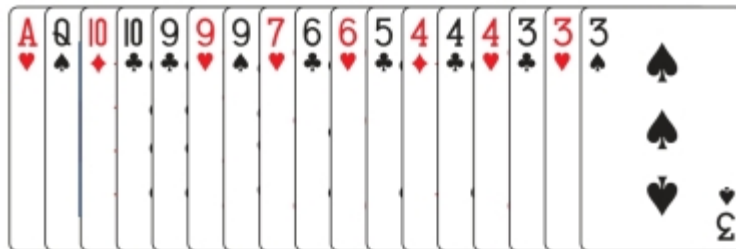

Although the player in the west position has flower cards and a small king, he does not have a 2, and his hand strength is slightly weak, so he has no bidding points; the player in the south position has no bidding strength; the player in the east position bids last, considering the card type and card strength, and chooses the local owner, and his hole cards are king, 2, A, and Q.

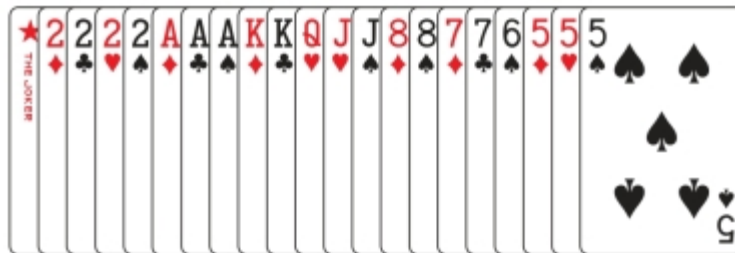

Farmer (West):

Farmer (South):

Landlord (East):

1. The landlord chose 77 in the first opening, the farmer (west) played KK to suppress, and the landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (West) played a consecutive pair of 1010JJQQ, and the landlord continued to check.

3. The farmer (West) played a straight 34 + flower card + 6789. The landlord saw all the card points and flower cards and decisively played 2222.

4. The landlord uses three belts and one 555+6, the farmer (south) uses 999+5 to control it, and the landlord uses AAA+Q to suppress it.

5. The landlord plays JJ, KK, King, and 88 in sequence, and the landlord wins.

❀Tianjin hanging mud

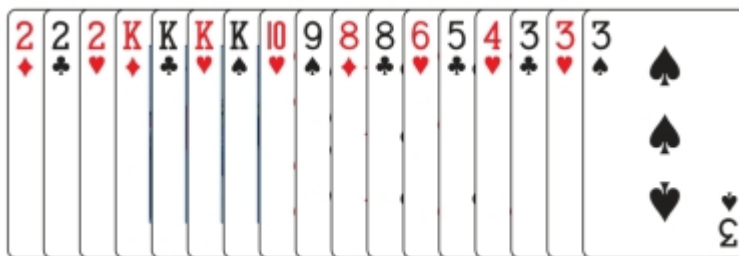

Game recommender: Li Xiaoqiang, head of the Jinjin Brotherhood Club, personal achievements: third place in the 2015 individual competition of the National Landlord Championship in Shijiazhuang Station, fourth place in the 2016 individual competition in Qingdao Station, and sixth place in the 2016 team finals.

Main popular areas: Tianjin area

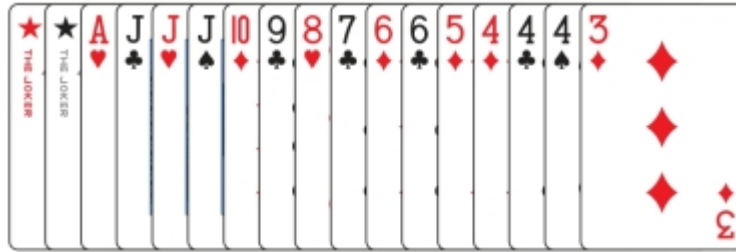

The traditional gameplay in Tianjin is "hanging mud". The main feature that distinguishes the landlord from other areas is that if one farmer runs out of cards first, the other farmer can choose to continue fighting the landlord or give up according to the strength of the cards. If both farmers run away before the landlord, it is called "playing mud" with the landlord, and the score is doubled. Therefore, the two farmers are required to have a stronger sense of cooperation, protect each other, and advance and retreat together.

Examples of cards:

West:

South:

East:

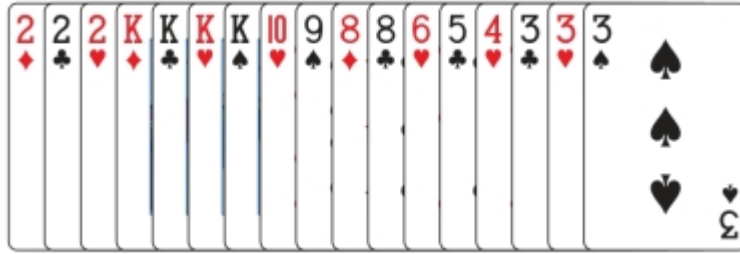

Trump card:

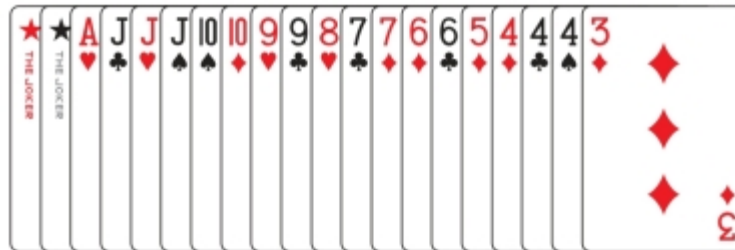

The player in the southern position grabbed the landlord and made up his hole cards to 10, 9, and 7, which added a lot of burden. The player in the West and the player in the East are not at a disadvantage in terms of card strength or card type. The two farmers are even better when they work together, so they both choose to "kick" (meaning double) the landlord.

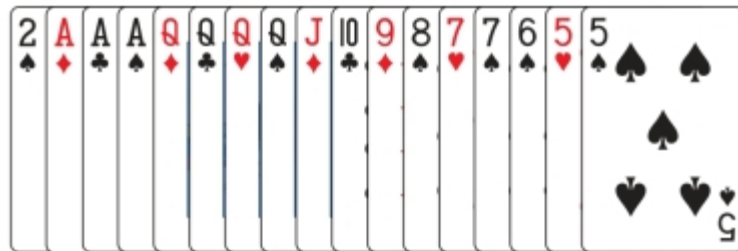

Farmer (West):

Landlord (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord opened with a straight of 34567, the farmer (east) opened with 78910J, and the landlord (south) PASS.

2. The farmer (east) plays a single card of 7, the farmer (west) passes away a single card of 10, the landlord (south) plays A, the farmer (east) plays 2 to control, and the landlord checks.

3. The farmer (east) plays AAA+55, and the landlord PASS.

4. The farmer (east) plays a single card of 6, the farmer (west) brings a single card of 9, the landlord plays a single card of 10, the farmer (east) passes the card, the farmer (west) removes the 2 cards, and the landlord passes.

5. The farmer (west) continues to play the single card 5, the landlord plays the single card 9, the farmer (east) checks, the farmer (west) plays 2 to control, the landlord PASS.

6. The farmer (west) plays a single card 4 again, the landlord splits the card and shows J, the farmer (east) checks, the farmer (west) continues to play 2 to control, the landlord PASS.

7. The farmer (west) played three belts and one 333+6, and the landlord checked.

8. The farmer (west) plays 88, the landlord plays JJ, the farmer (east) plays bombs QQQQ, the farmer (west) plays KKKK, the farmer side is all gone, and the landlord is "muddled".

Analysis: In the fourth round, after the farmer (East) played the single card 6, he was left with the Q bomb in his hand. In the next few rounds, he chose to check cards to preserve his strength and cover his allies. This fully reflects the technical characteristics of Tianjin's traditional gameplay of hanging mud.

❀Hubei Leizi Fighting Landlord

Game recommender: Li Xiaohua, head of the competitive department of the Zhile World Club. He has won three consecutive championships in the Shanxi Provincial Individual Competition and ranked ninth in the National Television Card King Competition.

Main endemic areas: Hubei region

Leizi Landlords is a traditional game in Hubei. The rules are not much different from traditional Landlords. The only difference is that there are set "Leizi Cards". The function of this Leizi card can be described as magical. It can replace any card you want and combine it with other card types. Lezi Landlords is more varied, exciting and interesting. It is a game activity that combines leisure and competition. Introduction to game rules:

1. New card types in "Leizi Landlord":

Lezi, also called "mixed card", is a universal card that can be used universally (cannot be used as a king or king). Lezi can be combined with other cards to form various card types; however, Lezi cannot be used as a universal card when played alone, and can only be used as itself. For example: the leper is 7, 44556+7 can be used as a connected pair of 445566; when 77 is played, it can only be used as a pair of 7.

Soft bomb: A bomb composed of Leizi and non-Leizi cards. (For example, if the leper is 5, 333+5 constitutes the 3333 soft bomb. 77+55 constitutes the 7777 soft bomb)

Hard Bomb: A bomb composed of four non-leopard cards of the same value. (For example, a leper is a 6, and four 7s are a hard bomb)

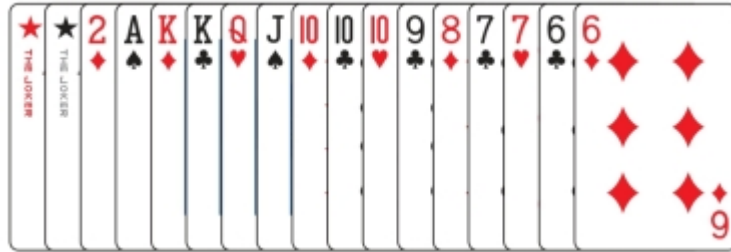

2. Comparison of card strength: hard bomb > soft bomb

3. Determining the leper: The second hole card has a card point + 1, and it is determined to be the leper. If the second hole card is a king or king, the leper is 3.

4. Points rules: Soft bombs are doubled (basic points x 2), hard bombs are doubled (basic points x 4), rockets are doubled (basic points x 2).

Examples of cards:

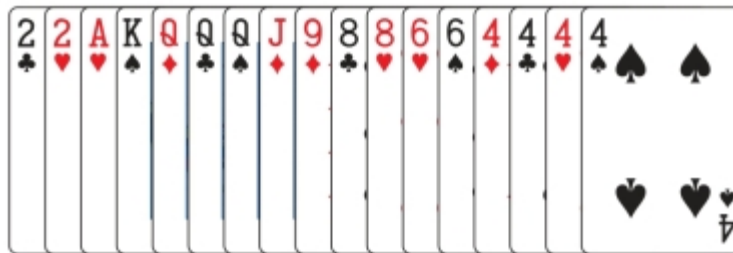

West:

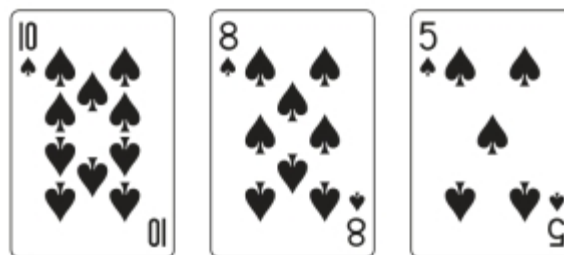

South:

East:

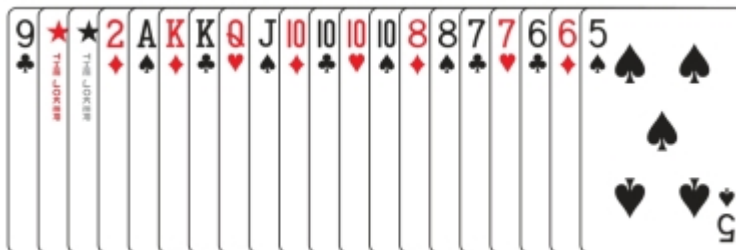

Trump card:

The Western players had double kings and single 2s, and the cards were fairly neat, so they called the landlord. The hole cards are 5, 8, and 10, so according to the rules, the leper is 9. After the landlord made up his hole cards, he held two bombs and a leprosy card to help him. The strength and shape of the cards looked good. The two farmers in the south and east each have a bomb in their hands, and 3 leprous cards can be matched at will. Will the peasants join forces to defeat the landlords, or will the landlords defeat the peasants alone? We'll wait and see.

Landlord (West):

Farmer (South):

Farmer (East):

1. The landlord's card pattern is very neat. The first draw is a pair of 667788. The farmer (south) checks. The farmer (east) plays a bomb (QQQ and 9). The landlord PASS.

2. The farmer (east) plays the right card 66, the landlord plays KK, and the farmer (south) controls it with AA.

3. The farmer (south) continued to play 77, and the farmer (east) passed away 88. The landlord used 22 (2 and 9) to control it. The farmer (south) played 3333, and the landlord PASS.

4. The farmer (south) goes out of the three belts and one JJJ + K (JJ9 + K), and the landlord PASS.

5. The farmer (south) played single card 2, the landlord opened the rocket and played Xiao Wang to control it. The farmer (south) played 5555 (555 and 9), ending the battle first and achieving a high score of 16 times. The farmers skillfully used the leper combination to play cards and cooperated with the owner of the dangerous victory tacitly.

❁Four-person Landlord Fight

Game recommender: Squad Leader, a well-known name in the Landlords world, his real name is Guan Yubin. From 2009 to 2014, he was the commentator of the program "Be the First" of Liaoning Radio and Television Station; from 2013 to present, he was the host and commentator of the program "National Landlords" of Liaoning Radio and Television Station, and the president of Shenyang Special Team Club.

Main endemic areas: Zhejiang, Jiangsu and Shanghai areas

Four-player Landlords uses two decks of cards, with a total of 108 cards. There are many cards, and the card types change more complexly, which further tests the players' adaptability. Each player is dealt twenty-five cards, leaving eight hole cards for the landlord. The landlord gets thirty-three cards alone to fight against the other three farmers. It is even more difficult for the landlord to defeat the peasants and win. The three peasants divide the work and cooperate, and their cooperation requires tacit understanding.

Introduction to card types and game rules:

1. The four kings, called Tianzun, can play any cards and are the biggest cards.

Eight cards with the same card value, such as QQQQQQQQ, are second only to Tianzun in power and are called Tianzhu.

Seven cards with the same card value, such as JJJJJJJ, are less powerful than Tianbang and are called missiles (folks call them Qiqiao).

Six cards with the same card value, such as 1010101010, are less powerful than missiles and are called rockets (known as six happiness among the people).

Five cards with the same card value, such as 99999, are less powerful than rockets and are called cannons.

Four cards with the same card value, such as 8888, are less powerful than guns and are called guns.

Except for bombs that are bigger than yourself, any type of cards above can be played.

2. The basic card types do not include three-band-one and airplane-banded two single cards, that is, three-band-one (such as 555+6) and airplane-banded two single cards (such as 333444+5+6) are not allowed.

3. Card types with four and two (such as 3333+4+5 or 3333+44+55) are also excluded.

4. A bomb can be composed of four or more single cards with the same number of cards. A bomb with more cards is more powerful than a bomb with a smaller number, regardless of the size of the card points; the power of bomb cards with the same number of cards is determined by the size of the card points.

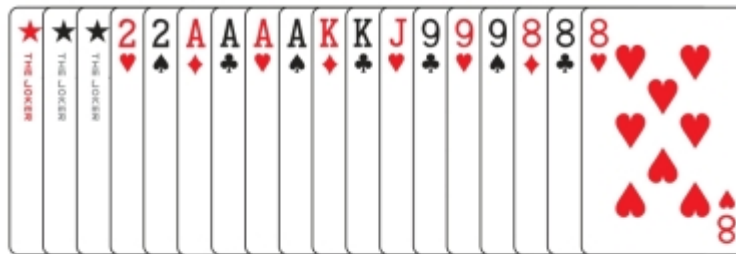

5. A big king and a small king cannot form a pair, but a pair of big kings or a pair of small kings can be played as a pair of cards, or as the cards of the three belts.

6. Points rules: The score of Tianzun (four kings) or Tianbang (bomb of eight cards) is tripled (basic score $\times 3$), the score of missile (bomb of seven cards) or rocket (bomb of six cards) is doubled (basic score $\times 2$), cannon (bomb of five cards) or gun (bomb of four cards) does not affect the score.

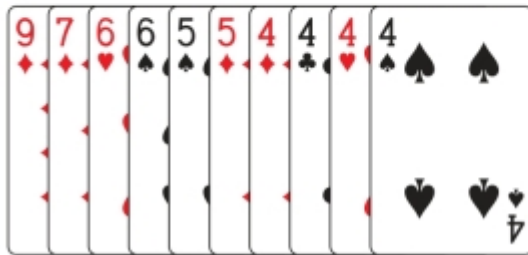

7. In a four-player Landlord fight, the Landlord does not need to reveal his eight trump cards.
